Growth of Oregon.

In spite of the injustice done our state by the incompetence of the census takers the growth of this commonwealth, as shown by the returns, is such as to inspire pride and confidence.

The following table shows the growth of population in this state at several periods in the past twenty years;

Years.	Population.
1870	90,023
1880	174,768
1885	194,150
1890	305,000

This is an increase of some 75 per cent. in ten years, a far larger increase than can be shown for the period by California, or probably by any state outside of the new Northwest.

And this is all the more significant from the fact that this steady and healthy growth is not the result of any boom or fictitious excitement, but is the result of natural increase and the steady flow of incomers in search of homes in this new state. In fact the state has not even been fairly advertised. The state has issued a few thousand pamphlets descriptive of the state and its resources, and these have, with some local documents, been distributed through the Eastern states. When the state of Kansas set out to advertise herself some years ago, agents were sent to all the principal kingdoms of the old world, and it was said that you could not find an obscure railway station in Great Brittian, France, Germany, Norway, or any of the centers of population of the old world, without meeting great flaring placards giving elaborate descriptions and minute directions as to all the prospects and advantages of that prairie state. By this means an enormous foreign population was induced to come to that country, and the most of such immigrants made most desirable citizens. All that has been done to advertise this state is but a mere drop in the bucket beside what might been done and what ought now to be done. This state has developed such manifold resources during the past few years that its future is rendered peculiarly bright and promising. The future is assured.

It is a very difficult thing to please our Roseburg friends. Now because there is not much said about the Drain railroad they think it is dead, as before, if much was said, it was opposition to the Roseburg road. There has not been much said recently about either road, and the era of talk is about over. The engineers of both roads are in the field, and while we are glad of any and every assurance that a line will be built to Roseburg we can assure the Roseburg papers that the Drain road is moving right on and there is now a great deal more than talk going on. The Drain road will be built.

A Washington dispatch of Aug. 18th, says: "Oregon fares better in the river and harbor bill than ever before. With Mr. Hermann on the house committee and Mr. Dolph on the senate committee, the state stands third in the list. Senator Dolph has also been made a member of the conference committee and it is quite likely that the senate increases will be maintained." The bill as it passed the senate contains the following items for this portion of Oregon:

Improving entrance to harbor at Coos bay, $125,000.

Improving harbor at Yaquina bay, $185,000.

For the commencement of jetty construction and re-examination of Port Orford harbor, with a view to ascertain if the amount estimated for a harbor of refuge cannot be materially lessened, $5000.

Improving the Coquille river, (continuing the improvement,) $30,000.

Improving the Umpqua river, $9000.

Improving the mouth of Siuslaw river, to commence construction of jetty, $50,000.

The following surveys are provided for in the bill to be made of Oregon rivers and harbors:

Coos bay, improving upper harbor by removal of shoals.

Coquille river, for deepening channel from Coquille City to Myrtle Point to four feet at mean low depth.

The San Francisco Chronicle of Aug. 18th says that an order will take effect which will result in the cutting off of one of California's important coal supplies, the Carbonado mines of Washington. Odd as it may seem, this order is simply one for the enforcement of the fish law in that state. It will have its effect in this city, for the largest of the mines, the Carbonodo, is owned by the Pacific Improvement Company, an organization of the Southern Pacific.

The law which threatens such dire results to coal mining prohibits the polluting of any stream or water course by any means to such an extent that fish are injured thereby. The fish commissioner of that state has notified Superintendent Davis, of the Carbonado mines, that coal must no longer be washed in the Carbonado river, a stream on which the mines are located. The coal is of such a character that it must necessarily be washed or it is practically useless, and the only stream available for that purpose is the one which the commissioner has forbidden the miners to use. The result is that the mines will be compelled to close, which will throw hundreds of men out of employment, and to an extent affect the coal trade in this city.

EDITOR MAIL:—I send you a few items from our little town to your valuable paper.

I arrived here a few weeks ago, and soon after my arrival found myself located in a room at Geo. Quigley's hotel; where I was warmly welcomed by that gentlemen and his accomplished wife. Mr. Quigley is an old sea captain, who located here several years ago, and is loved and respected by all for his noble generous qualities, and all who stope with him are made to feel at home. He is a bluff old fellow but has a heart as big as a locomotive. He has two lovely daughters. Geo. only weighs 280 pounds.

I visited the O. C. & N. company's store here and had the pleasure of meeting S. Jorgenson, chief manager of the merchantile department, who took pains to show me over the place, and gave me such information as I desired, and did everything to make my stay pleasant. Mr. Jorgenson is spoken of by all as a gentleman in the true sense of the word, and long before I reached the place I heard of his many acts of kindness to all with whom he came in contact, and when I reached here I found the people loud in their praise of his sterling qualities.

I had also the pleasure of meeting R. Walters, the superintendent of the company's mine, who has been here several years and has been connected with the English mines for years. He has made many improvements and, in fact, saved the company thousands of dollars. His smiling face is seen each day among the men, and he has a kind word for all; his men work like troopers, knowing that their superintendent appreciates them and they all speak well of him. The company did well to place so able a man to conduct their business.

Mr. Enoch Gove, the gentlemanly and courteous book keeper is their best man, he handles all the cash. He is one of the jolliest fellows (or was) till Uncle Sam appointed him postmaster of Libby. He has bought a new high hat and looks as grave as a supreme judge. He is liked by all classes of people.

Mr. Jorgerson has just had a fine suit of rooms fixed up, and it is whispered that he will soon take unto himself a better half, one of Newports lovely and accomplished daughters.

John O'Connor has gone to Bandon to attend the Teacher's Institute. He is a bright young scholar, having taught here some time. His mother, Mrs. O'Connor, has had her fine residence all painted and papered and it looks likes a new dollar.

Mrs. Miller gave birth to a sweet baby boy last night.

Frank Raynes new store is doing a thriving business. He is a brick.

School closed one week to allow the teachers to attend the Institute.

Little Billy Wren has just recovered from a long spell of illness.

Master Paul Girod, the brave little boy who saved the life of a little girl from drowning, received yesterday a nice little gun for his bravery.

Teddy Walters, son of Supt. Walters, gave a birthday party to his many little friends and it was an enjoyable affair. Teddy is a bright, manly little fellow, and I predict some day will stand beside some of our best men.

Micky is still alive and thinks of starting a hotel.

New barber shop just opened.

Mr. John Nyman still runs the companys engine. He is the gentleman who raised over one hundred and fifty dollars for a poor widow woman at Marshfield.

Antone Bertalino, the accomodating and jolly butcher is doing a lively business, and the gentlemanly way he treats his customers brings all the ladies to his shop. He is the most popular man in town. He has lately been appointed U. S. mail carrier from Libby to Marshfield. He has a fine boat to carry passengers to and from Marshfield, and he takes them safely through, especially the ladies.

We have a lovely place of some 300 people, all miners and intelligent hard working men. We have a fine school, a beautiful little church, and Sabbath school each Sunday with S. Jorgerson as superintendent.

The mines are runing full blast.

Last Saturday the people had a grand social and dance, and it was a success. The night was spent with much pleasure, telling stories, singing songs and dancing, until the wee hours of the morning, nothing happening to mar the pleasures of those who were in attendance. At 12 o'clock we all sat down to a fine supper prepared by Geo. Quigley, and it was fit for a king. Among the many present were Mrs. Weir and her lovely daughters, Maggie and May, Miss Susie Gamble, Miss Lizzie Kelley, Miss Cassie Quigley, Miss Kate Goffee, Miss Martha Brynn, Miss Emma Chapman, Antone Bartolino, Alex Campbell, John Gamble, Mr. and Mrs. Quigley, Mrs. Girad, Frank Avery, John Nyman, Enoch Holland, S. Jorgenson and many others. The best dancers by a vote were Miss Susie Gamble and Mr. S. Jorgenson, and after singing the doxology we all went home to our little beds. 108.

Families not already supplied should lose no time in procuring a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. It is the only remedy that can always be depended upon for bowel complaint in all its forms. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by H. Sengstacken, Marshfield and Empire. *
