A QUESTION OF QUALITY, Does It Pay to Raise Dairy Cows to

The question as to whether it pays to raise dairy cows to sell is often raised and discussed, says L. W. Lighty in valid, following the refusal of the National Stockman, but much depends on the stock a man raises and the sale he has for his byproducts. Were I to siderable lowland hay that is a little rough and coarse and has practically no market value, as it is not salable, but young stock thrives on it.

Looking over my accounts, I find the cost about as follows the first year: Value of calf when dropped bent, skimmilk at Be-

When about a year old, the helfer is erved, and for the next nine months it costs just about half as much as it costs me to feed a cow one year, or $15. Thus it costs me $28 to produce a herfor with a calf at its side. I doubt if they can be raised much cheaper in this part of the country. If sold at this time, there would be very little or no profit, indeed, but if re have the right class of stock the helfer from now on will pay its way beater the first year. I have them well 4 or 5 years old I find no trouble to sell The three days actual work them at from $45 to $65. The man who has the best knowledge along that line is the man who is best fitted to carry on dairying scientifically and exactly and to guarantee that his product will be always uniform provided his milk or the raw product has been delivered to him

Marketing dairy products has been for their object the controling of methods of packing, packages and handling in every way have been so radleally changed that the handler of butter of 25 years ago would hardly be able to understand or appreciate what

We must have the dairy type, conformation of the cow to the business through which the products of the farm are passed and from which we reago was considered a fairly good cow, but the cow that does not produce 300 pounds of butter per year now is hardbeen brought about by organization, by breeding and by studying the problem and finding out how the milking ability of the machine could be de-

Romemade Koumiss. Cow's milk should be diluted with me-third its volume of water and two tenspoonfuls of white sugar added per quart of liquid. A small portion of this is rubbed into a paste, which is then placed in strong bottles and allowed to ferment. After a few days, during which the bottles should be repeatedly shaken, a beverage of great value in cases of digestive disturbance as well as of excellent palatability for a healthy person is produced. Especial care must be used in corking the bottles tightly, and it is safer, owing to the great pressures produced by the fermentation, to wrap the bottles in a heavy cloth before shaking them.

Illinois' Standard of Cream. In Illinois the law declares that cream must contain 12 per cent of butter fat. Most of the cream sent in by farmers contains about 25 per cent. This enables dealers to buy cream at 60 cents a gallon, add an equal quantity of milk or water to it and then supply it to buyers at 40 cents a gallon, says the Chicago News. Those dealers are not as sharp as contractors farther east, or they would reduce it one-balf and then ask double the price they pay,
