McClure's Magazine for June has a table of contents unusually rich. Josiah Flint pays his respects to Boston in the third article of his "World of Graft" series. Prof. Frederick G. Wright contributes an article of "Geology and the Deluge," showing by recent Asiatic discoveries that Noah's flood was a scientific possibility. Fiction features are contributed by Rudyard Kipling, Elizabeth Stewart Phillips, Robert Barr, Sarah Orne Jewett, Edwin Lefevre and David Gray. The true Alaskan story of "Kebeth the Alert" is contributed by Frank A. Vanderlip and Harold Folce.

The Arena for June gives leading place to an article on Imperialism by Hon. Samuel C. Parks, A.M., in which he endeavors to show that this country is following ancient Rome's lead into the Imperialistic camp. Two leading Christian Scientists contribute authoritative articles telling just what Christian Scientists believe. There is an editorial article on W. T. Stead the great London journalist and reformer, and also a conversation with him on "England's Crime in South Africa." The minor articles are good, and under "Topics of the Times" Editor Flower ably airs his advanced views.

Among the notable features of the Argonaut for June 3, 1901, are: "The Blood Seedling," by John Hay, a story printed seventeen years ago and now recalled with reminiscences, on account of present interest in "The Breadwinners"; "Some Surprises of Siberia," an extended review of Rev. Francis E. Clark's recent volume of travels, with numerous quotations of striking descriptions and incidents; "The Price He Paid," by Marguerite Stabler, a story of the oil-fields; "Another Englishwoman's Love Letters;" a sketch made up of extracts from Barry Pain's burlesque on a popular work of the season; and a letter from "Cockaigne" describing Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht, Shamrock II, and some of her mishaps.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription Doubles a Mother's Joys and Halves Her Sorrows.

It does this by a pre-natal preparation in which the mother finds herself growing stronger instead of weaker with each month. Instead of nausea and nervousness, there are healthy appetite, quiet nerves, and restful sleep. The mind's content keeps pace with the body's comfort. There is no anxiety, no dread of the approaching time of travail. When the birth hour comes it is practically painless, the recovery is rapid, and the mother finds herself abundantly able to nurse her child.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor any other narcotic. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free of charge, and so obtain without cost the advice of a specialist in the diseases peculiar to women. All correspondence strictly private and entirely confidential. Address Dr. E. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Annie Blacker, 607 Columbia Street, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Your medicines have done wonders for me. For years my health was very poor; I had four miscarriages, but since taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery' I have much better health, and now I have a fine healthy baby. I am sending your medicines to several of my friends and they have been benefited by them."

out this new and charming idea, about the Fourth of July, it will be a case of opportunity lost. The literary features of the number are excellent and the usual departments are fully covered. But one criticism can be made, and the Delineator is probably lax in this respect than any other fashion magazine. But it is a lamentable fact that illustrations of fashions are usually drawn by "artists" who have apparently no more idea of the human form than of the appearance of the invisible spectrum. The magazine which will correct this horrible system of drawing semi-human monstrosities on which to drape the creations of the artist will earn the gratitude of a long-suffering public. Whatever may be the case in the realm of diseased imagination, on earth women, thank the Lord, are not built as represented in the fashion plates.

Cashier—Madam, you've already overdrawn your account.

Lady Client—The idea! A fine bank. I think, to be out of money because of the little I've drawn. I'll go somewhere else.

Desperates cannot be long lived because to live requires nourishment. Food is eat, nourishing until it is digested. A disordered stomach cannot digest food, it must have assistance. Kodak Dyspepsia Cure digests all kinds of food without aid from the stomach, allowing it to rest and regain its natural functions. Its elements are exactly the same as the natural digestive fluids and it simply can't help but do you good. Cos Bay Drug Store.

Cleopatra Fish.

The little goldfish, the pet of the household aquarists, never goes to sleep. In this respect the pike and salmon are his equals. They are as alert for their prey in the ocean as the goldfish is for the crumb that fed him from household tables. In his native element the goldfish forages for himself and has his eyes open all the time. There are some goldfish in Washington which have belonged to the same family for the last 50 years, and they seem no bigger and no less vivacious today than they did when they first came into the owner's possession. A few of the fish in the imperial aquarium at St. Petersburg are known to be 150 years old, and the age of the sacred fish in some of the ponds attached to the temples in China is to be counted by centuries, if we are to believe the Buddhist priests.

"For the land's sake!" said the woman in the blue Mother Hubbard as she fastened the clothesline to the division fence. "What do you think of them Joneses tellin' around that the burglars got in their house an stole the family silver? Family silver! Huh?"

"It's so, though," said the woman in the next lot. "They had a dollar in a quarter piled on the mantelpiece for the grocery bill, an it was all in silver."—Indianapolis Press.

The Exegesis.

She—They say that women never tell of any defects they may possess.

He—But there are exceptions. Miss Eggleton very frankly told me today that her hair comes out dreadfully and that it is a great nuisance to her.

She—And you never guessed that Miss Eggleton's head is as bald as a billiard ball? Oh, you goose! You'll believe me after this.—Boston Home Journal.

A Sailor's Whim.

A sailor who had just come into port with a full pocket paid Stephen Kemble 30 pounds to have a performance of "Henry IV" all to himself with Kemble as "the old boy with the round forehead, built like a Dutch lugger and lurking like a Spanish galleon in a heavy sea." He chose the music to be played by way of overture, saw the play through and gave vigorous expression to his appreciation of the Falstaff of the occasion.

Misconstrued.

He was a very swell young man, and she was an old woman. It happened in a street car. He arose to get out, and as he got opposite her she dropped her purse. He gallantly stooped to pick it up, but she mistook his motives and said in easily heard voice: "No yes don't. Gimme that pocketbook or yes don't git away!" And she grabbed his coat-tails madly. The poor man blushed and after handing the purse almost fell off the car in his embarrassment.—Exchange.

ARABIC FIGURES

Our figures are called Arabic—not because they originated in Arabia—but because they were introduced into Spain by the Moors, Arabs or their conquerors and thence found their way into the rest of Europe. Nothing absolutely certain is known as to their origin, and there has been a good deal of controversy over it, one of the two following theories probably being the correct one:

As excellent geometers, they composed the written number out of geometrical figures. One has only one angle, 2 has two, three, etc., 0, a circle, has none.

Again, it is argued that the figures were composed of right angles and squares, the number used indicating the number to be noted. There is one line in 1, and there are three in 3, seven in 7, etc.

The Greeks and Romans had systems totally different from ours and which made long calculations almost impossible; therefore it seems likely that the mathematicians of old had knowledge of what are now called Arabic figures.
