A Chimney Blaze

The Marshfield fire laddies were called out Wednesday morning about 10 o'clock to put out a fire at the Central hotel. It proved to be nothing but a chimney fire. The boys made quick time in getting to the scene of action and were ready for business in short order. The company needs a little drilling with the Hook and Ladder paraphernalia, then the Marshfield department will be able to cope with any ordinary fire that may occur here. Our citizens can feel proud of their volunteer fire department. They are always ready, never found wanting, and a goodly share of them are present whenever called by fire alarm.

WALTER HAGELSTEIN NARROWLY ESCAPES DROWNING
Was Rescued From the Bay by Frank Vincamp, a Deck Hand on the Alert
Last Sunday while little Walter Hagelstein was passing, on a plank at the rear end of Flanagan's sausage factory he slipped and fell overboard into the bay, being unable to swim he struggled manfully, but to no avail, and had it not been for the brave helping hand of Frank Vincamp, deckhand on the Alert, who jumped overboard and brought the boy out as he was going down the last time, he would surely have found a watery grave.
He was stripped of his wet clothes in the engine room of the Alert and calmly awaited some dry clothing which had been sent for. It will be remembered by the lad as long as he lives it was a very narrow escape.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN VERY MUCH WORSE
C. A. Higgins, of this city while leading a cow in from the South Marshfield marsh on Monday evening had a very narrow escape from serious injury. It happened in this way: She carried a sharp axe across his shoulder and held in the same hand the rope with which he led the cow. He stopped to speak to Tom Coke. The sudden stop caused the cow to jerk the rope enough to draw the axe far enough so as to give him a severe cut on the back of the neck. Had the cow not been of a gentle disposition and been a little quicker, he might have lost his life, as the axe had a good edge and would have severed his head from his body. This is a dangerous way to carry an axe. There are various cases on record where men have lost their lives in this manner. The writer once had a friend who lost his life in this identical way.
