

ASTHMA CURE FREE

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in all Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL. Write your name and address plainly.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene relieved in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had over-spoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-sized bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler, Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel, NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

Dr. Taft Bros' Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa, says: "Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful. We can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER, AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Dr. Taft Bros' Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa, says: "Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 22 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your window on 130th Street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After taking one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can conscientiously recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours Respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D., Feb. 3, 1901.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 30 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-sized bottle and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimonial you can make such use of as you see fit.

Trial bottle sent absolutely free on receipt of postal. Write at office, addressing DR. TAFT BROS' MEDICINE CO., 79 East 130th St., N. Y. City.

THE FIGHT AGAINST UNIONISM.

There is more in the great San Francisco strike than appears at first sight! It is not a strike for higher wages or shorter hours or for the redress of ordinary grievances, in which the workmen are acting through their organizations to carry their point. It is a fight for and against the very existence of organization among the workers. And it is not a battle royal in comparison with what is coming. It is merely a preliminary skirmish. The Employer's Association of San Francisco is making the same fight which all the organized trusts will make, so soon as they think they can carry it to a successful issue—the fight against unionism among the workers. They now have the consumers, as consumers, at their mercy; and in many lines the producers also are defenseless against the organized middlemen; but in the case of the workmen the union steps in with the power of organization to resist aggression. This is a thorn in the side of organized monopoly which it will do its best to get rid of.

There are two sides to every question, and many good people have never looked on the workingman's side of the question of trade unionism. It is a fact that many mistakes have been made by organized labor. It is a fact that the spirit of selfishness and disregard of the rights of others, which is practically drilled into man from the cradle to the grave, makes itself manifest among the workingmen to nearly as great an extent as among their employers; that they are sometimes unreasonable in their demands and are not always satisfied with a good thing. At the same time it is hard to see why they haven't as good a right to organize in their own interests as have the employers of labor, or capitalists of any class. If the railroads or the Standard Oil Co. or any other trust charge "all the traffic will bear," why may not the workingman properly try to establish a wage scale on the same principle? What is sauce for the goose ought to be sauce for the gander. The laborer buys in a market where the prices are set by the trusts. Why should he not have the privilege of selling his labor at prices fixed by a trust of his own—a labor trust?

If he have this right, however, or retain it, he will have to fight for it, and the San Francisco strike is only an affair between outposts.

GREY'S SHORTCOMINGS

(Capital Journal)
There are several reasons why Grey cannot be renominated for Governor. In the first place he is a Marion county man and as such he ought to have known that the Asylum and Pen and Reform School belonged to appointees from this county as well as the State Fair Board and Text-book commission. What didn't belong here belonged across the river to Polk county. In all his appointments he has acted as though he didn't know but what the rest of the state had something to do with his nomination and election and was ignorant of the fact that Salem and Marion county was the whole thing. * * * Another thing that operates against him is that he does not wear a gold bangle as large as a brick on his waistcoat, but is just a common ordinary three-linker from wayback and they are not the real thing for the big offices. Some man who carries a thing like a broadaxe hung on a dog chain dangling between his legs that almost trips him up once in a while when he walks around in the hotel lobbies is hot stuff and and proves that the wearer got the political microbe in his system early in life. * * *

Another mistake has been that he has an idea that the people do the nominating and he has made his appointments with that view, and has helped run the state land board and the state fair and the soldiers home and the school-book business entirely regardless of the gang who work the machine and who put men on the ticket. The fellows who work politics for all there is in it will see such a man in the hot place before they give him a second term. What is a governor for but to feed the hungry and swill the thirsty and make places for the needy? Of course a good business administration that has saved money for the taxpayer all along the line, that hasn't made loans of the school funds on a political basis, and didn't sell the sacred cause of education to the highest bidder for a campaign fund, will be a nice thing to talk about in a Republican campaign, but Geer can do that for some one of the gang as well as for himself. The Republicans have never given a governor a second term, and if it was done for Geer it might put the thing clear out of reach for some deserving man and be an indorsement of a business administration and be fatal to a variety of grafts that have not yet been started. The record of a business governor is a reflection on the three million legislature, and the people might get to asking the same kind of thing in every department of government. These are some of the reasons why the gang that are so largely in control of the Republican conventions will sit down on Geer.

JUSTICE, NOT SOUP KITCHENS

(Oregonian)
It is not a thing of vital consequence to the thoughtful leaders of labor throughout the country whether Andrew Carnegie gives labor a great library or not; the vital concern of labor is to see to it that in the future no tariff un-dually protects Andrew Carnegie so extravagantly that he is able to acquire an enormous fortune in an incredibly short time and is enabled to cast his millions into the crowd, right and left, even as a purse-proud aristocrat in the Middle Ages flung a handfull of silver to the mob as the contemptuous largess of a master to his menials. : : : Labor needs simple justice: not largess at the hands of a complaisant plutocrat, who "has money to burn" as incense in his own honor and glorification. : : : To distribute something of the swag to the crowd has been a salient characteristic of every great pirate, whether he stole without the law, like a buccaneer, or within the law, like a railroad wrecker or juggler in stocks. Labor is right when it speaks with contempt of Carnegie, cast-iron libraries right and left, as he might a handfull of silver dollars into a crowd of gutter snipes to scramble for, and declines to be grateful to him for his benefi-

Science. Labor's need is not beneficence; is not the multiplication of free books; it is the multiplication of the defenses of free labor against the successful greed of the tariff protected plutocrats. Justice, not largess, rights vindicated under law, is what labor needs, not free libraries and soup kitchens and colleges.

THE TURTLE'S REVENGE.

A restaurant keeper in Elizabeth, New Jersey, recently bought a large sea turtle, for future use in his business, and allowed it to crawl over the floor of the restaurant until he was ready to kill it.

One of his customers, having nothing better to do, began to tease the turtle, kicking it on the head and otherwise tormenting it. The creature endured for a season, but, when the chance came, seized his tormentor by the calf of the leg, and held on as if he intended to wait until it thundered before he let go. The man was not nearly as silent under punishment as his hard-shelled victim. He set up a vigorous howl, and the proprietor came running in. Excited bystanders beat the turtle with sticks and canes, trying to make him let go, but the turtle's shell was expressly constructed for that sort of thing, and he held on. Finally the restaurant keeper struck him in the neck with an ice pick, and the situation was relieved.

There is in human nature altogether too much of the spirit which in this case led to such summary punishment. It exists especially among boys and young men, though some men old enough to know better indulge in it. They will tease and worry a dog until the animal's patience gives out, and then call the dog a vicious beast if they happen to get bitten. They will torment a horse till the creature is all aquiver with nervousness, under pretext of training it, and if they can set a dog on some stray cat and see the cat chased up a miserably inadequate little tree, they are happy. They are few animals, especially among domesticated species, which will attack human beings if they are let alone; and there are perhaps few which will not resent continual teasing and maltreating. More than one dog has been spoiled for decent society by just this sort of thing. In pursuance of "sport" the boys who had him in charge when a puppy have encouraged him to pounce and bite until he is a terror to every timid child in the neighborhood and a nuisance to nervous adults. Then, some hot summer day, the fun goes a little too far, and the dog bites in earnest, and somebody has a hydrophobia scare. Unfortunately, the person bitten is not always the one who was responsible for the dog's irritable temper. In the case of the turtle vengeance overtook the right person, and nobody is likely to be particularly sorry for him, even if his victim was a somewhat unattractive member of the animal kingdom.

The good effects of Apple Eating. The apple is such common fruit that few are familiar with its remarkable medicinal properties. Everybody ought to know that the very best thing they can do is to eat apples just before retiring for the night. The apple is an excellent brain food, because it has more phosphoric acid in easily digested shape than any other vegetable known. It excites the action of the liver, promotes sound and healthy sleep and thoroughly disinfects the mouth. That is not all. The apple agglutinates the surplus acids of the stomach, helps the kidney secretions and is one of the best preventives known of diseases of the throat.—Journal of Agriculture.

Realized His Own Madness. "Now you are tired of me and abuse me," sobbed the young wife whose husband refused to hire another maid to take care of her pet dog. "Yet," she continued, "not two years ago you were just crazy to marry me."

"Yes," answered the complacent man bruto; "my friends told me so at the time, but I didn't realize it until after we were married."—Kansas City Star.

Whole Corn Shillog. The corn for siloing whole should be one of the small dent varieties, planted at the rate of not over 12 quarts of seed per acre. Put the corn in the silo when the seed is in milk and take extra precautions that it is well and solidly packed, without holes or empty corners. Cover with hay as suggested. If the work is well done, there should result a fair quality of silage, but as it takes more work to handle it and less corn of the first varieties can be grown per acre than the large earlough corns which corn silage costs more per ton than the cut silage. Good silage will not injure the milk in any way.—Hoard's Dairyman.

PECULIAR NAMES.
The Queer Way Ten Million Children Were Designated.

"In a long experience in the treasury department I have come across a very large number of names, many of which are rather peculiar," explained an old official, "but I think the list of names in connection with the subscription to the 3 per cent bonds surpasses anything in the way of peculiarity that I have ever observed. Of these the one that struck me most was a man who signed himself Ten Million and who resides out in Oregon. We thought the name was an imaginative one and wrote the man that it was desired that the bonds should be registered in real names only and that no further attention would be paid to his subscription until he was heard from. He replied that his name was Ten Million. His letter was written on the printed letter-head of the Ten of Million & Million, two brothers.

"Then followed an explanation that his father and mother were unable to afford a name for their children that were mutually satisfactory and that as a result, though they had had ten children, none of them was ever christened formally. The first child was a girl, and she was known only as One Million. The second child, also a girl, was known as Two Million. Thus they ran along until Ten Million was reached, and he was the writer of the letter, the other members of the firm being a brother whose only name, as far as the family was concerned, was Seven Million, the seventh child. He added that One Million had afterward called herself Lin Million, that the third girl was known after she had taken on the distinction to their names, and that the last of the name of Ten Million, but his real name was Ten Million and nothing else. The bonds were issued to him and on the books of the department were registered in the name of Ten Million."—Washington Star.
