The most serious disturbance of the afternoon was a fierce fight between the police and a gang of about 300 union men. The trouble took place at the corner of Stewart and Folsom streets. A crowd had gathered around a truck that had broken down and jeered the driver. They resisted the attempts of the police to disperse them and would not give way until a dozen or more had been severely clubbed.

SUCCESSFUL WEEK'S FAIR.

FINE WEATHER AND A GOOD AT-TENDANCE.

Good Pavilion Exhibit and Some Interesting Races-. Breakup Today

Tuesday, the first day of the fair was like all first days of a country fair. Things, so far as exhibits were concern-ed, were in a generally chaotic state, and there was much hurrying to and fro of exhibitors who were striving to fro of exhibitors who were striving to and get their displays into position.

The pavilion was filting up nicely and the army promises to eclipse all previous a vears by the time entries close this noon. The entry clerks were so rushed that they were unable to book all the exhibits offered, and the time for entry was extended until 12 oclock today.

Many ladies visited the pavillon with a view to ascertaining whether conditions were likely to be as had in the matter of dust as they were last year. It be different.

The management are having the grounds well sprinkled, and the sprinkler runs some hundreds of yards out on the road, so that in spite of the wind there will be very little dust flying.

The day was not altegether devoid of interest in spite of their being no set race program.
Two match races were run in the after-

The first was one fourth mile dash between saddle horses belonging to Hi weight and C. Boynton. It was understood that a purse of $25 was the prize, wright putting up $15 and Boynton $10. The $10 horse won, keeping a length in the lend all the way through. The second race was for one eighth of a mile, for $2 a side, between two horses of unknown antecedents. The end the race witnessed a narrow escape for Julius Eganhoff, the rider of one of the horses. The cuitan evidently thought that after he had passed under the wire the race was over and he might as well go to the barn while he had headway on to carry him up the short hill, so he bolted through the gate, but he fell in going up the pitch and threw his rider, for the anterior of the race was over and he might as well go to the barn while he had headway on to carry him up the short hill, so he loited through the gate, but he fell in going up the pitch and threw his rider, for tunnately without material injury to either.
