Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in all Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL. Write your name and address plainly.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Vicksburg, Miss., writes: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with painful sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had over-looked yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full sized bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler, Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel, NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO., GENTLEMEN: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER, AVON SPRING, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co., Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I changed to see your sign upon your window on 12th Street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced using it about the 1st of November. I never again noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can conscientiously recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co., Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I read across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-sized bottle and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

Trial bottle sent absolutely free on receipt of postal.

Do not delay. Write at once, addressing DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO., 30 East 12th St., N. Y. City.

OREGON'S NEWSPAPER LAW

In the laws of Oregon of 1886, appear the following on page 39, which protects every citizen from being imposed upon by publishers of newspapers or periodicals, either in the state or elsewhere. Everybody should have a copy of the law for protection against such attempts.

SECTION 1. That whenever any person, company or corporation owning or controlling any newspaper or periodical of any kind, or wherever any editor or proprietor of any such newspaper or periodical, shall mail or send any such newspaper or periodical to any person or persons in this State without first receiving an order for said newspaper or periodical from such person or persons, or from whom said newspaper or periodical is mailed or sent, shall be deemed to be a gift, and no debt or obligation shall accrue against such person or persons, whether said newspaper or periodical is received by the person or persons to whom it is sent or not.

EIGHT POUNDS!

Right pounds of love and laughter, of smiles and sunshine or—? Many a mother can fill up the blank out of her experience of pining, waiting children, whose coming brought no gladness to the home. Women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription know that it makes all the difference between a healthy mother, healthy motherhood, and a motherhood of mourning and misery. And they know also, that happy, healthy mothers have happy, healthy children. "Pierce's Favorite Prescription" strengthens the whole body for the strain of motherhood. It gets rid of the pain of child-birth, gives the mother abundant vitality and enables her to nurse and nourish a healthy child.

The "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, chloral nor any other narcotic.

"My mother of six children," writes Mrs. C. A. Briggs, of Millwood, Douglas Co., Oregon, "and always took three or four bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' before confinement and never suffered any trouble of her kind. My pains, my babies were large—they all weighed more than eight pounds, and I am not a large woman, weigh about 115 pounds. I have had some stomach trouble, but a few doses of 'Golden Medical Discovery' would set me all right. I am healthy ever without your medicine. They are all the medicine one needs, if taken in time, to keep one in perfect health."

"I feel that I owe my little boy's life to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, as he had convulsions, and everything he ate would bring them on. I commenced to give him the 'Golden Medical Discovery' in his first days three times a day. Now he is just as healthy a child as can be found, and he grows like a weed."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best laxative for women.

brought out by the court of inquiry, which itself is only an incident in the same controversy, but emphasize and corroborate the conviction that already prevailed among the people at large, that Schley had never had a fair deal.

The charges of cowardice and insubordination and incompetency, which have been so industriously circulated by the Sampson gang, in the attempt to deprive Schley of all credit, and which they have attempted to embody in history, in the hope that the credit taken from Schley would be given to Sampson, have been proved to be entirely without foundation. Even from the mouths of opposing witnesses the old man has been acquitted.

Further, it has been proved that important information was withheld from him, presumably to embarrass his pursuit of the Spanish fleet, and that he was then censured for not acting on knowledge thus kept from him.

In fact, while the conduct of Schley has been investigated by the court, it has been impossible to prevent the cropping out of numerous facts which show Sampson up in the light of a cad and a small-spirited, jealous and contemptible travesty on an officer and a gentleman.

Had Sampson acted the gentleman that he makes such distressing pretensions to be, he would have received his full need of glory for the victory at Santiago. As Schley said "there was glory enough for all," and no one would have questioned Sampson's right to his full share. Now he has over-reached himself, and made himself an object of contempt to the justice-loving American people.

The signals exchanged between the vessels of the fleet, as brought out in evidence last week, tell a strange story. They tell that after the battle, one of the most complete and even astounding victories in the annals of naval warfare; when the entire Spanish fleet had been wiped out of existence with practically no loss to the Americans; after the vessels engaged had been exchanging congratulations and thanks; the commander-in-chief came on the scene. Did he hoist any signal of congratulations or thanks? Not much. That would have required some spark of generosity, some trace of the instincts of a gentleman, some inkling of the feeling of a true American patriot. Instead, when the Brooklyn signaled, "We have won a great victory," the little contemptible snob on the New York replied curtly and crushingly, "Report your casualties." Not one word to show appreciation of the glorious work of his subordinates did the commander-in-chief deign to display.

It is inconceivable that an American officer could be so small.

Consider the contrast between the dispatch of Schley announcing the victory, which dispatch was suppressed, and the one with which Sampson announced "his" victory. The old man made a succinct statement of the facts, giving no hint that Sampson had been absent during the fighting. Sampson evolved a bombastic flourish, which was evidently composed with a view to the way it would look on pages of history, and so worded as to give the impression that he had been present and in command of the fighting. "The fleet under my command," "presented to the American people" a great victory.

The cur ought to be fired from the navy for conduct unbecoming an American officer.

Stricken With Paralysis

Henderson Grimet, of this place, was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physician for quite a while without relief, my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured.—GEO. R. McDONALD, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by the use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. For sale by John Preuss.

GOOD AMERICANISM.

President Roosevelt is sending his seven-year-old boy, Archibald, to a public school in Washington. Good for Roosevelt! His action will not be approved by some of the mounted anglo-manic snobs whose children must be educated by private "tutors" for fear that they should become defiled by contact with the "common herd;" but every good American will think more of the President for his good common sense and Americanism. Of course

I am using Wine of Cardui and Theobald's Black-Bread and I feel like a different woman already. Several ladies here keep the medicine in their homes all the time. I have three girls and they are using it with me.

it is a small thing and the proper thing to do, but it is one of the straw which show how the wind of the president's inclination is blowing; showing that his head has not been turned and that he is still the sane virile, democratic AMERICAN whom the people admired, whom they can still admire and be proud of.

And now comes the St. Louis World's Fair of 1903, wanting to know what Oregon is going to do about it, and it is intimated that a special session of the legislature to make liberal appropriations for an exhibit at St. Louis would strike a responsive chord in the St. Louisian heart. In view of the fact that Oregon contemplates making a spread of her own a couple of years later she will probably have to show some interest in the St. Louis exposition, but when it comes to money matters she will find by the time she prepares for the 1905 blow-out that she has troubles enough of her own.

We are informed by certain of our exchanges that Surgeon-General Sternberg reports a decrease of intemperance in the army attributing this to the army canteen. We are also informed by other of our exchanges that Surgeon-General Sternberg reports a decrease of intemperance in the army as a result of the abolishment of the army canteen. It is thus shown that Surgeon-General Sternberg's report fully sustains the COAST MAIL'S position on the canteen question.

We wonder what Bishop Potter and the other very high church prelates, who have been across the continent, the guests of J. Pierpont Morgan, really think of the Sermon on the Mount and the story of the Dives and Lazarus, or the comparative size of a camel and a needle's eye.

A GOOD SUGGESTION

(Capital Journal)
An exchange makes the point that if a special session of legislature provides a million dollars of bonds for the Lewis and Clark Centennial the taxpayers will pay another million before the debt is paid and possibly with other appropriations three or four millions. We are inclined to think that a loan guaranteed by the state or by the City of Portland, covering say ten years at a low rate of interest, would be taken by the people on a popular subscription and would be creditable and profitable to the people all over the state. The proposed flat tax on all the property of the state for an exposition, while unconstitutional and very objectional on other grounds, would thus be obviated, and the man who thus put in ten dollars or a hundred or a thousand would become an interested stockholder to that extent. That has been one at Chicago and at St. Louis at Buffalo, and is the right way to go about such a matter. There is never anything lost by offering to take the people into your confidence and by offering to give them a share in the accruing earnings and profits of expositions. The flat tax and the gift-enterprise and bonus plans of expediting great public enterprises are not so popular as they once were, and the best line of progress in all such matters is along the lines of the least resistance. The Journal suggests these ideas and has no other motive than success of the enterprise.

When you wake up with a bad taste in your mouth, go at once to Red Cross drug store and get a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. One or two doses will make you well. They also cure biliousness, sick headache and constipation.

Silas G. Pratt's recent volume on "Lincoln in Story" is reviewed at length in the Argonaut for October 21, 1901, and some of its striking paragraphs are quoted. There is a wealth of anecdote connected with the career of the great president, and Mr. Pratt has labored patiently to collect all that is worthy of preservation, and to good purpose.

AN INDUSTRIAL CITY

ELABORATE PLANS PROPOSED FOR INDIANAPOLIS.
Purpose is to Build a City Where Workmen May Find Pleasant Homes Near World Employment, Model Factories to Be Erected.

The proposed industrial city for Indianapolis is a much broader one than is generally understood, and things other than dollars are considered in projecting it. The plan is one of industrial improvement, applying to both employers and employed, says the Journal of that city. The purpose is to build a city where laboring men will find it pleasant and profitable to live and at the same time be close to their employment. In considering the proposed enterprise the directors have given value the same consideration as capital, realizing that upon a harmonious adjustment between employer and employee rests the success of the venture. No provision is made for the provision of the directors to the manufacturers and sites that will prevent any friction.

A committee will be appointed to investigate each applicant for a site, the committee to consist of one representative of the board of trade, one of the Commercial club and two of the board of directors of the industrial city. This committee will ascertain the attitude of the company to its employees, the conditions imposed upon its workmen, the compensation and consideration they receive, its position regarding organized labor, the financial responsibility of the concern, the character of work and product manufactured as well as the personality of officers of the company and the employees and the future stability and permanency of the enterprise. Having passed upon these points, the committee will recommend or disapprove a site being granted to the applicant by the board of directors.

Taking these precautions to select the most desirable class of manufacturers, the board believes the success of the industrial city will in a great measure have been accomplished. From 4 to 12 acres are to be granted free for factory sites, besides bonuses ranging as high as $5,000. All this being granted, the directors feel that they cannot be too careful in choosing who their tenants shall be in order to attain the best purpose of the plan. So far as the actual construction of the factories is concerned the board will claim no directorship other than an understanding that they will be well ventilated and lighted, roomy, substantial and safe buildings and not cramped into

WORN WITH YOUR NIGHTGOWN

When Booth Lunched.
William Brewster, the comedian, once said: "I never saw Edwin Booth laugh heartily but once. We were playing 'Julius Caesar' at Baldwin's in Frisco. Booth was Hercules, McCullough was Cassius, Harry Edwards was Caesar and Charles Bishop and I were plato, everyday citizens. It was the last night of the run, and we all felt frisky. So when Caesar spoke the well known line, 'Let me have men about me that are fat,' Bishop and I, both fat men, walked belly up to Caesar and shook him heartily by the hand. It broke Booth all up, and he laughed outright."

He Had Noticed.
"That fellow is a bird," said the advertising stranger as he looked after the fresh young man.
"Not now," replied the native, "but there was a time when your description might have been justified."
"When was that?"
"The night we tarred and feathered him about a year ago."—Chicago Post.

Hysteria.
"Your poetry," he ventured, "is eminently healthy!"
"It should be!" rejoined the poet, with dignity. "I am always extremely careful to fill my Phlegm spring water before drinking, or, rather, quaffing it!"—Detroit Journal.

An Ingenious Treatment by which Drinkards are Being Cured Daily in Spite of Themselves.

No Noxious Doses—No Weakening of the Nerves—A Pleasant and Positive Cure for the Liquor Habit.

It is now generally known and understood that Drunkenness is a disease and not weakness. A body filled with poison, and nerves completely shattered by periodical or constant use of intoxicating liquors, requires an antidote capable of neutralizing and evacuating this poison, and destroying the craving for intoxicants. Sufferers may now cure themselves at home without publicity or loss of time from business by this wonderful "HOME GOLD CURE," which has been pronounced after many years of close study and treatment of thousands of cases as the only and the most effective remedy for this disease. The Home Gold Cure is positively guaranteed to cure the most obstinate case, no matter how long a drinker. Our records show the marvelous transformation of thousands of drunkards into sober, industrious and upright men.

WIVES CURE YOUR HUSBANDS! CHILDREN CURE YOUR FATHERS!
This remedy is in no sense a nostrum, but is a specific for the disease only, and is so skillfully devised and prepared that it is thoroughly soluble and pleasant to the taste, so that it can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it. Thousands of drunkards have cured themselves with the Home Gold Cure, and as many more have been cured and made temperate men by having the "CURE" administered by loving friends and relatives without their knowledge in coffee or tea, and believe today that they discontinued drinking of their own free will. DO NOT WAIT. Do not be deluded by apparent and misleading "improvement." Drive out the disease at once and for all time. The "HOME GOLD CURE" is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, thus placing within reach of everybody a treatment more effective than others costing $25 to $50. Full directions accompany each package. Special advice by skillful physicians when requested without extra charge. Send prepaid to any part of the world on receipt of one Dollar. Address: Dept.
