The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene relieved my condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with painful sore throat and asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, asthma, and thought you had or could you send me a trial bottle of Asthmalene. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full sized bottle."

OREGON'S NEWSPAPER LAW

In the laws of Oregon of 1889, appears the following on page 38, which protects every citizen from being imposed upon by publishers of newspapers or periodicals, either in the state or elsewhere. Everybody should save this copy of the law for protection against such attempts.

SECTION 1. That whenever any person, company or corporation owning or controlling any newspaper or periodical of any kind, or wherever any editor or proprietor of any such newspaper or periodical, shall mail or send any such newspaper or periodical to any person or persons in this state without first receiving an order for said newspaper or periodical from such person or persons to whom said newspaper or periodical is mailed or sent, shall be deemed to be a gift, and no debt or obligation shall accrue against such person or persons, whether said newspaper or periodical is received by the person or persons to whom it is sent or not.

Solid qualities of integrity, of thoroughness, should outweigh in a girl's estimate of a man mere superficial cleverness and brilliancy.

EIGHT POUNDS!

Eight pounds of love and laughter, of smiles and sunshine or—? Many a mother can fill up the blank out of her experience of many, weeping children, whose coming brought no gladness to the home. Women who have tried Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Prescription know that it makes the difference between a happy, healthy mother, and a wretched, ailing, and nervous one. And they know also, that this happy, healthy mother, whose life is a joy to her children, is the result of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Prescription. It is the best medicine for the whole family for the cure of motherhood. It prevents the pain of childbirth, gives the mother strength and vitality and enables her to nurse and nourish a healthy child.

The "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, chloroform or any other narcotic.

"I am mother of six children" writes Mrs. C. A. Briggs, of Milwaukee, Wis., and Co. Oregon, "and always took three or four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Prescription before confinement, and never suffered any to speak of. Had no other pains; my babies were large—they all weighed more than eight pounds, and I was in a grand way. My husband and I were both well. I had never before used any medicine, and now I can hardly ever without your medicine. I see all the advertisement one needs, if taken in time, to keep one in perfect health."

"I feel that I owe my little boy's life to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, as he had convulsions, and everything he ate would bring them on. I commenced to give him the Golden Medical Discovery, and in ten days he was three times as good. Now he is just as healthy a child as can be found, and he grows like a weed."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Prescription is the best laxative for women.

BRYAN AND AGUINALDO

(Argument.)
A very remarkable story concerning Bryan and Aguinaldo has just been published by the New York World. It is confirmed by Mr. Bryan, and therefore is probably correct as published. It is to the effect that during the Presidential contest last year Aguinaldo sent messengers to Bryan offering to issue a proclamation promising to surrender unconditionally in case the Democratic candidate should win, also offering a contribution of one hundred thousand dollars to the campaign fund. Bryan refused to see the delegates, but one of his friends made an appointment to meet them. The World's story goes on to say that the Filipino delegates declared to Bryan's representative that Aguinaldo, with Bryan's approval, "would at once issue a proclamation announcing that, in the event of Mr. Bryan's election to the Presidency, the Philippine army would, without condition, surrender to the United States, and trust the Bryan administration for a reasonable form of government: founded on the principles of the Constitution of the United States." The delegates also announced that they were authorized to offer a contribution of one hundred thousand dollars to the Democratic national campaign fund.

In reply, Bryan's representative informed Aguinaldo's envoys "that the Democratic party could have no dealings or bargains with men bearing arms against the authority of the United States. The Philippine envoys were advised to leave New York at once."

Mr. Bryan acted the part of wisdom in refusing to deal with Aguinaldo's emissaries. Had he done so, and had the fact come to light, it would have lost him tens of thousands of votes. And even if he had not done so, and the story had been disclosed prior to the election, it would have made his defeat even more sweeping than it was.

WHY WOMEN SHOULD VOTE

(Progress.)
The general argument for women suffrage is the same as the argument for having a republic rather than a monarchy. It is fair and right that those who must obey the laws should have a voice in making them, and that those who are obliged to pay the taxes should have a voice as to the amount of the tax and the way the tax-money shall be spent. Roughly stated, the fundamental principle of a republic is this: In deciding what is to be done, where everybody's interests are concerned, we take everybody's opinion, and go according to the wish of the majority. Since we cannot suit everybody, we do what will suit the greatest number. That seems to be, on the whole the fairest way. A vote is simply a written expression of opinion, written down and put into a box so that it may be counted.

In thus taking a vote to get at the wish of the majority, certain classes of persons are always passed over, whose opinions, for one reason or another, are thought not to be worth counting. In most of our States, these classes are children, aliens, idiots, lunatics, criminals and women. There are good and obvious reasons for making all these exceptions but the last. It is clear that no account ought to be taken of the opinion of children, lunatics or criminals. Is there any equally good reason why no account should be taken of the opinions of women? If not, it would seem that women ought to have a vote, on general principles of fair play.

Some people have been unduly excited over the mild and gentlemanly correction administered to the COAST MAIL by one of the Coquille brethren, apparently thinking that some feeling of resentment was involved. They ought to read the Tillamook papers. They call each other tin-horn gamblers and saloon boys, up there.

Admiration for Dewey is returning again, says the Baker City Republican. His cool, just attitude during the Schley court of inquiry, commands universal respect. He is Dewey now, the man who coolly manipulated American affairs when dangerous tangles pressed in upon him at Manila. A military man to the core, everything is system, promptness and precision. It is pleasant to see a great type emerge from a cloud of abuse, unsullied and unshorned.

The greatest ambition of American men and women is to have homes blessed with children. The woman afflicted with female disease is constantly increased with becoming a childless wife. No medicine can restore dead organs, but Wine of Cardui does regulate menstruation that prevents conception; does prevent miscarriage; does restore weak functions and shattered nerves and does bring babies to homes happy and desolate for years. Wine of Cardui gives women the health and strength to bear healthy children. You can get a dollar bottle of Wine of Cardui from your dealer.

WINE OF CARDUI

145 Market Street, Memphis, Tenn., April 14, 1901.
In February, 1901, I took one bottle of Wine of Cardui and one package of Chamberlain's Black-Drumstick. I had been suffering fifteen years and had never given birth to a child until I took Wine of Cardui. Now I am mother of a fine baby and which was born March 31, 1901. The baby weighs fifteen pounds and I feel as well as any mother could feel. Now my home is happy and I better will be without Wine of Cardui in my home again.

ALLEGED HUMORISTS.

A FOOT-BALL REVO
He played football for half a year;
And of him it is said
He lost three teeth, an eye, an ear,
But never lost his head.—Judge.

Nell—"Rather conceited, isn't he?" Belle—"I should say. He said the best was none too good for me, and then he proposed."
—Philadelphia Record.

The better half: "I believe that the great body of American people are gentlemen," says President Hadley. Our experience has been that fully half of them are ladies.—Boston Transcript.

Hardly sympathetic: Policeman—"Your husband's up the way; he was so bad we simply had to run 'im in." "E wants you to come up and bail 'im out." Wife—"Bale 'im out! W'y, ain't you got a stumnick pump?"
—Moonshine.

True to his word: "You know you said before election that you were a friend who would divide his last dollar with me." "That's right," said Senator Sorghum, blandly; "that's right. But it's going to be a good many years before I get down to my last dollar."
—Washington Star.

Breaking it gently: Clergyman (after being rescued from the shipwreck)—"Mr. Smith, did I really appear scared when we thought all would be lost?" Mr. Smith—"I can't say that you were scared, but for a man who has been trying to get to heaven all these years you appeared most reluctant to accept the opportunity."
—Bazar.

"I want you to remember," snapped the leading lady, who had a misunderstanding with one of the chorus-girls behind the scenes—"that I'm star of this play!" "I know you're the star," returned the chorus-girl, glancing at the slender proportions of the other, and shrugging her plump shoulders, "but you'd look better, my dear, if you were a little meeter."
—Chicago Tribune.

A Violent Attack of Croup Cured

"Last winter an infant child of mine had croup in a violent form," says Elder John W. Rogers, a Christian Evangelist, of Filley, Mo. "I gave her a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and in a short time all danger was past and the child recovered." This remedy not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the first symptoms appear, will prevent the attack. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Red Cross Drug Store.

Womanly "Tenderness"

"Don't talk to me of the tenderness of woman's heart," said the man who hates women, though he has never been married. "She hasn't any. I was traveling recently on a through train to New York from the west, and in the morning, just after most of us had dressed and were sitting in the end of the car, the conductor came and called two men away. One of them belonged to an intelligent and well-dressed woman sitting opposite me, and when she came back she asked him what the conductor wanted."

"Why," said the man seriously, "the man in lover's has been found dead."
"Don't talk to me about women!"—Washington Post.

Cooked Under Water.

An Englishman made a wager that he could cook a plum pudding ten feet beneath the surface of the Thames and won the bet by placing the pudding in a tin case and putting the whole in a sack of flour. The heat of the flame, which it came in contact with the water, was sufficient to cook the pudding in two hours.

Until 1627 the Chinese wore their hair long and coiled on the top of the head, where it was fastened with an ornamental pin. The Manchus edict making the pigtail a sign of loyalty changed this style.

Stop the Blight

It is a sad thing to see fine fruit trees spoiled by the blight. You can always tell them from the rest. They never do well afterwards but stay small and sickly.

It is worse to see a blight strike children. Good health is the natural right of children. But some of them don't get their rights. While the rest grow big and strong one stays small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion can stop that blight. There is no reason why such a child should stay small. Scott's Emulsion is a medicine with lots of strength in it—the kind of strength that makes things grow.

Scott's Emulsion makes children grow, makes them eat, makes them sleep, makes them play. Give the weak child a chance. Scott's Emulsion will make it catch up with the rest.

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle.

Water is usually reckoned to be "soft" when it contains less than one five-hundredth part of its weight of mineral ingredients and "hard" when it contains more than one-fourth of its weight of mineral matter in solution. Both water is the simplest purveyor of soft water, and therefore it is taken as the standard variety of soft water.
