James Glover has gone to Empire to take care of R. Murray, who is reported to be very sick with the smallpox.

A subscription was taken up in Marshfield, Thursday, for the relief of a family in West Marshfield who are in very reduced circumstances. A. Bridges had the matter in charge and succeeded in raising about $8.

Josh Nelson is moving his soda works from its old location to Gow Why's store, where he expects to begin making soda again in the near future.

The telephone line to points beyond Rogue river is disabled through the washing out of a pole in the middle of the river. It will be about ten days before it can be fixed, or until a man can be sent down from here.

W. A. Woolverer will organize a camp of the Modern Woodmen of America at North Bend Feb. 20th. A delegation from the Marshfield camp will assist in the organization and the North Bend camp will no doubt realize that there are some woodcutters in this neck of the woods who can supply the woodman mills with timber for years to come.

C. R. Rollinson who has been putting in a camp of modern Woodmen of America is highly pleased with the situation in Gardiner, having sent in a charter list of 55 from that place. He is a record breaker in the organizing business, as he has succeeded where four or five other organizers have failed to meet with results.

Joe H. Yoakam will start from Coos river Sunday morning with a band of 20 head of dry cows for J. M. Wise, of Perrydale, Polk Co. The cattle were bought of J. B. Davis. Mr. Yoakam will go out and come in over the Coos Bay wagon road. He has been through Myrtle Point once, and says he would rather travel the old road, as there is less mud.

L. Ray, a late arrival from Nebraska, who is looking for a home in this county, returned from the Coquille valley Friday, where he has been looking at the country, with J. J. Cliskenbeard of Coos river. Mr. Ray says he is well satisfied with Coos and predicts a great future for this section. He has not yet decided whether he will locate on the Coquille or on Coos river.

Miss Evaria Erickson, daughter of our townsman, E. W. Erickson, who has been taking a course of training in the Drain Normal school, has just graduated from that institution and will arrive home this evening, by way of stage. Miss Erickson leaves that institution with high honors, and a card from this school is a credential anyone can be proud of.

A sure preventative of smallpox has been discovered. It is simply a tablespoon of vinegar in half a glass of water. Dr. C. F. Howe, health officer at Atchison, Kan., declares that by drinking this four times daily a person can work over a smallpox patient as nurse. Pure cider vinegar is the best. This is no funny item but a fact given prominence by the American Medical Journal.

Better take some of that Castlewood home for Sunday. Tones you up for dinner. Soothes the infant as well as the adult. Should be in every family.

This society which is a local lodge, on fraternal lines, paying sick and funeral benefits, is growing steadily in membership and is in a prosperous condition and is taking its place as one of the leading lodges of the town.

A class of the Salem public school graduates, who had been denied the pleasure of public graduating exercises, by order of the city school board, went before that august body and requested them to reconsider that order. Of course their lordships were prevailed upon in the most forcible English at their command and the old boys took it all back, and the flouncing of graduating skirts was to be one of the prominent features at the Armory Hall last night. It is a cold day, when a band of Salem girls get left.

Tupper of this city, proprietor of the Hotel Coquille, has received word from London, England to the effect that a fortune of two hundred and sixty-five thousand dollars has been left him by an uncle, Abram Tupper, through the estate of his father, James S. Tupper of that city. — Coquille Herald.

In a letter received Tuesday by Dr. W. A. Toye, Rev. Edw. Donnelly wrote from Portland that he was about to start for Washington, D. C., and would be back in about four weeks. He reports that he has been authorized by the archbishop to go ahead with his project of establishing a Catholic hospital in Marshfield.

John Bear had a piece of bad luck Wednesday, representing a loss of about $100, when the bottom fell out of the bunker which he recently had constructed at the bayside bunkers of the Libby mine, for convenience in handling the burnt fireclay which he has been putting on the streets. About 5 car loads of the fireclay was in the bunker, which Mr. Bear intended to use on Front street. He sent a scow after it and just as the men were about to commence loading, the bottom of the bunker gave way, letting the contents down into the bay.

The D. of H. Social.

One of the most unique of all socials this season, given by any of Marshfield's lodges was that by the D. of H., when they entertained a number of invited guests and members Tuesday evening. The affair took place after the regular meeting. Anagrams formed the principal game of the evening, in which all indulged, and the contest became quite spirited when it was discovered that prizes were to be awarded to the successful players as well as the ones who didn't care to exert their intellect. The prizes were awarded amidst the greatest glee and they were appropriate to the occasion and each one was a useful article. The young ladies who had this affair in charge proved themselves entertainers of a high order. A refreshing luncheon was served and the way it disappeared was evidence of the quality. These entertainments are a regular feature in this popular order and many new members are being added owing to this social adjunct to regular lodge work.

ARCADIAN LITERARY AND DEBATING SOCIETY

A lawsuit was the main feature of the program at the meeting of the Arcadian Literary Society, of Catching slough, last Saturday night. Miss Cox, editress of the society paper, the Prevaricator found herself involved in a $75,000 damage suit. Action for that amount was brought by Bert Cox, Chas Masters, and Gus Matson, who prosecuted their own case. Geo. Ross assisted the defendant. Carl Cox acted as judge, and the jury consisted of Mrs. Geo. Ross, Eli Steippon and Carl Matson. The plaintiffs made out a pretty strong case, as they had managed to sequester the number of the paper in which the alleged slanderous article appeared and were thus enabled to make it appear to have been much worse than it was. However, the defense fell back upon the fact that the name of the paper was sufficient warning to the public not to believe its utterances, and therefore it couldn't damage anyone's character, and the jury took this view of the matter.
