

Branching Out.

W. P. Murphy, the hardware man, has rented a part of the Marks building opposite John Bear's livery stable, for use as a warehouse in which to store part of his stock of buggies and agricultural implements. His store and the upper stories of the adjoining building, which he has been using as a warehouse were full to overflowing, and an extensive line of buggies and agricultural implements from the Deere Implement Co., which arrived on the Western Home, have been stored in the new place, where E. W. Smith has been setting them up. Single and double buggies, mowers, disc harrows etc., fill the place. A new lot of doors and windows will also be stored there. The line of vehicles is the finest ever brought here and a surrey and two buggies have already been sold to L. H. Heisner, for his new livery stable. Mr. Murphy also has a large line of single and double harnesses of all descriptions coming on the Arcata. In fact, Murphy's trade has been constantly growing for the last year. His stock in all lines requires constant replenishing and he can't get steel ranges fast enough to supply the demand. The moral is plain. When you want anything in his line, go to Murphy.

Copper Queen Arrives

The Copper Queen arrived from the Columbia river Tuesday, having in tow the hull of the steamer, Rogne River, which has been built in Portland to run on the Rogne river. They docked at Dean & Co's wharf, where they will take on board the boiler and machinery for the boat, which was brought down by the Alliance. A lot of groceries and other freight for Rogne River will be taken on board, when the boats will proceed to their destination. It is not a very safe locking outfit to go to sea with but we suppose the men understand their business.

Oliver Landreth of Tenmile was in town Tuesday. He reports times flourishing in his country, and says they will have 2 stores, 4 public schools and 1 saloon running full blast on the lakes this summer; and with a railroad coming he thinks if the people there are not civilized this year they are beyond redemption.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noise ceased, and after two weeks my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored.
