Woman Downs a Burglar

A burglar attempted to enter the residence of Mrs. Warnstaff at Astoria and met with a reception that will deter him from going there again. He had placed a ladder against the rear of the house, and was entering a window when the noise attracted Mrs. Warnstaff's attention. Entering the room she saw the head and shoulders of a man coming through the window. Without hesitation she picked up a chair and hit him over the head with it, knocking him off the ladder to the ground, a distance of 10 feet. The man did not appear to be injured, as he picked himself up and ran away.
