A BARGAIN IN HATS.

The Reason One Woman Rejoices While Another One Mourns.

A Philadelphia woman moving in good society has been cured of a mania for attending rummage sales, but it took a heroic treatment to effect the cure. The other day she went to a sale of the description named in aid of a worthy charity in which she is interested and came away minus a twenty-five dollar hat. It happened this way:

A feature of the sale was a counter filled with untrimmed hats, advertised "Your choice for 50 cents." Now, the North Thirty-third street woman didn't want an untrimmed hat at 50 cents, but there was one that caught her fancy by reason of its odd shape, and she simply couldn't resist the temptation to try it on. So she took off the handsome hat she was wearing, placed it on the counter and picked up the untrimmed one. Then she looked around for a mirror. There was only one, and that was away at the other end of the long room.

She pushed her way through the crowd, and in the meantime a fat colored woman's eyes were glued to the hat she had left behind on the pile marked, "Your choice for 50 cents." It was a golden opportunity not to be missed. Counting out 50 cents in dimes, nickels and pennies, she shoved them at the innocent young attendant and made good her escape with the fashionable woman's hat.—Exchange.

The Queen Bee.

She possesses the power of choosing which of her offspring shall be drones and which workers. Some have thought that this was automatic and that the narrower worker cell touched the button, so to speak, that brought forth a fertilized egg. But the queen will lay worker eggs in drone cells if she thinks fit, so that settles that.

If the drone is male and the queen female, what is the worker? The new woman of freedom. She has given up her motherhood for a business career. Sometimes, though, she lays eggs, but they always hatch out drones, of which it is strictly true to say they have a mother, but no father. If the queen's wings are crippled so that she cannot make her marriage flight, her children are all drones. An Italian queen in a hive of black bees will beget workers of mixed blood, but her sons are pure Italians. Drones are useful as fathers of workers, but they cannot collect the honey they eat. Their tongues are too short.—Ainslie's.

Claddagh Rings.

The old "posy rings" are a much sweeter souvenir than more modern ones. A friend has one which had belonged to her great-grandmother, such a narrow gold circle. The motto, engraved inside in old lettering, was as follows: "God above increase our love." The "Claddagh" rings of Ireland are now very difficult to procure—that is, the genuine specimens, of course. There are many imitations. These rings were heirlooms with the people of the Claddagh, a distinct gypsylike race of fishermen, and were handed down from mother to daughter as a wedding ring, a marriage being scarcely considered legal if an ordinary ring were substituted. They were made of massive gold, decorated with a heart, bearing a crown supported by two clasped hands, signifying loyalty, love, friendship.

The Unattained.

The quickest way to make any man weary of his life is to give him all his heart's desire. The struggle for the unattained is the secret of joy. Here is a man who has been giving his years to a reckless round of pleasure. Now you see him waking up to find that the deepest needs of his soul are still untouched. Or there is another man who has given twenty-five years to the accumulation of knowledge, and at last we see him, like Dr. Casaubon in "Middlemarch," dying with the stores of knowledge all around him, which he does not know how to use.

A Family Combine.

Deacon Jones—I know of three brothers in a neighboring town that would afford excellent material for a sermon on the theme of brotherly love. Deacon Brown—I'll make a note of it. Tell me more about them, deacon. Deacon Jones—Well, John, the eldest is a physician; Thomas, the second brother, is an undertaker, and William, the youngest, is a marble cutter.—Chicago News.

The Serious Minded Jap.

A Japanese review recently invited its readers to name those European authors whose works they more especially appreciated. The following have been the result of the referendum, the authors coming out of the voting in the following order: Darwin, Herbert Spencer, Schopenhauer, Goethe and Tolstol.

Victor Stauff's gasoline launch which he has been building in the old mill, was placed in the water Wednesday.

Wm. Sherrard, of Sumner, was down Wednesday after hay and feed for J. C. Laird, the new mail sub-contractor, who will establish a relay station at Sumner.

Jas. Stock, of Catching slough, was in town Wednesday, and said he was just loading.

The Motto That Suted.

"It would be helpful to you," said the prison visitor, "if you could take some motto and try to live up to it." "That's right," replied the convict. "I'd like to select, for instance, 'We are here today and gone tomorrow.'"

The surveyors for the Salt Lake-Coos Bay railroad now have the stakes set and tacks driven from Empire City nearly into Marshfield. They have also run a trial survey into North Bend.

The Steamer Signal was taking coal at the Beaver Hill bunkers Wednesday.

Thought He Was Smart.

Wife—Do you mean to insinuate that your judgment is superior to mine? Husband—Certainly not, my dear. Our choice of life partners proves it isn't.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Armfield, of the north fork of Coos river were shopping in town Wednesday.

Mrs. Geraldine Morris, who went to Seattle about a month ago for a vacation, writes to a friend here that she will be back in about two weeks.

The Same Old Story.

J. A. Kelly relates an experience similar to that which has happened in almost every neighborhood in the United States and has been told and retold by thousands of others. He says: "Last summer I had an attack of dysentery and purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, which I used according to directions and with entire satisfactory results. The trouble was controlled much quicker than former attacks when I used other remedies." Mr. Kelly is a well known citizen of Henderson, N. C. For sale by—John Preuss.

The business man who clutters up his brain with some other fellow's "success maxims" is pretty certain to score a quick failure.—Denver Republican.

NOTICE OF SHERIFF SALE

S. GALLAGHER, Sheriff.

Malaria and Mosquitoes.

In Formosa recently a battalion of soldiers, completely protected from mosquitoes for 161 days during the malarial season, escaped the disease entirely, whereas there were 250 cases of malaria in an unprotected battalion in the same place and during the same length of time.

"The way to gain a good reputation is to endeavor to be what you desire to appear." That is precisely the manner in which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained its reputation as a cure for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Every bottle that has ever been put out by the manufacturer has been fully up to the high standard of excellence claimed for it. People have found that it can always be depended upon for the relief and cure of these ailments and that it is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by John Preuss.
