SUSPICIOUS STRANGER
SEEN IN THE WOODS

Frank Rogers and Floyd Goffelt Meet a Party Who Keeps Out of Their Way

Frank Rogers and Floyd Goffelt of the south fork of Coos river ran into a genuine adventure while out hunting on Saturday. They left home in the afternoon for a deer hunt intending to camp out over night. They were well back in the timber, about three miles from S. C. Rogers' place and it was about an hour before sundown, when they heard what they supposed to be a deer coming through the brush. Waiting quietly they soon saw the creature come into the open about 100 yards away, and then saw it was a man.

Rogers hailed him, but instead of answering he dodged behind a tree. They hailed him again, but all the answer he would make was to ask them what they wanted.

He did not show himself again, so that they could get a look at him, and after remaining in the vicinity until nearly dark they went away and made camp for the night. In the limited chance they had at considerable distance, they could only see that the stranger was a medium-sized man of dark complexion and wearing dark clothes.

It is a matter of considerable speculation as to who the stranger was. His actions make it evident that he is probably a fugitive from justice, who is living back in the woods by aid of his ride, and possibly receiving outside assistance. Any one who wants to is welcome to guess at who he is.

"Little Drops of Water, etc."

Work has begun on the new addition to the Swedish church. The work will be done by members of the congregation at odd times. A great many of the members being mechanics, will devote a few hours to working on the structure. It will be remembered that this church was built in this way.

The lumber is on the ground and ere long the people of Marshfield will see another example of results, by adding together the otherwise wasted time of a number of men; only a few minutes a day from a large number will accomplish much, if properly directed. "Little drops of water, etc." The example of these people is one which we should all apply more to ourselves. The saving of lost time, if but a few minutes a day, added together, would in the aggregate make a prosperous community out of an otherwise poverty-stricken one.

Moral—add a few minutes of time, saved each day, properly applied to some object and at the end of one year add the result.

The Same Old Story.

J. A. Kelly relates an experience similar to that which has happened in almost every neighborhood in the United States and has been told and retold by thousands of others. He says: "Last summer I had an attack of dysentery and purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I used according to directions and with entire satisfactory results. The trouble was controlled much quicker than former attacks when I used other remedies." Mr. Kelly is a well known citizen of Henderson, N. C. For sale by—John Preuss.

E. C. Case, the contractor on the Marshfield-Gardiner mail route, returned Saturday from a trip over the route, having gone to Sampson Friday. He has not yet taken charge of the route.

Jas Laird, of Brewster Valley met with quite a serious accident Friday, while coming to Fairview on horseback. He was sitting sideways on his horse and lost his balance, falling backward and striking on his head. He was brought to Fairview where he was cared for, and though severely shaken up and bruised he was able to be up.

"The way to gain a good reputation is to endeavor to be what you desire to appear." That is precisely the manner in which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained its reputation as a cure for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Every bottle that has ever been put out by the manufacturers has been fully up to the high standard of excellence claimed for it. People have found that it can always be depended upon for the relief and cure of these ailments and that it is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by John Preuss.

Russ Tower and Sidney Smith, started Monday on a hunting trip to Smith Easin on the south fork of Coos river. They took Levi Smith along to point out the deer which he has been telling them about, and to help bring in the same after they are slaughtered. They went fully equipped for all emergencies, not forgetting a clean flour sack in which to bring venison, and the Smith and Tower families are likely to live high on fish and game while the boys are out.

P. S. Weaver, of South Marshfield is suffering from the effects of a dislocation of the shoulder, caused by tripping on a projecting plank in a sidewalk and falling heavily.

Smiths to the Rescue

Lester and Chas. Smith performed the life-saving act Sunday. It seems that three sailors were returning to their ship down the bay in a small boat with a 10 gal keg of beer, besides what they contained themselves, when they got into an altercation. In the course of the festivities the boat was capsized. One sailor swam ashore and the Smiths put out in a small boat and rescued the other two. Yes, the beer also was saved.

"I am using a box of Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets and find them the best thing for my stomach I ever used," says T. W. Robinson, Justice of the Peace, Loomis, Mich. These Tablets not only correct disorders of the stomach but regulate the liver and bowels. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by John Preuss.

One on Loggie

The Puget Sound Lumberman tells this story on Geo. W. Loggie, formerly manager for the Southern Oregon, Co.:

To have a wide acquaintance in all walks of life is deemed by some to be just cause for pride. It indicates a democratic and liberal spirit. Now, for instance, there is George Loggie, of Whatcom, Wash. In the swell social function on Bellingham Bay no other silk stockings are seen oftener than his—not that he shows them wilfully, still they are there—but it is not in the upper set alone that he has friends—or thinks he has—to wit: A few weeks ago he was with a party of ladies and gentlemen returning from a little sojourn at the Harrison Hot Springs, British Columbia. The party stopped on their return for a lunch. One of the young lady waiters in the dining room had at one time been in the employ of a relative of Mr. Loggie's. He wanted to impress the party with the international scope of his acquaintance, so he said: "I know about everybody along the Coast. Now, do you see that young lady waiting on the other table? Well, I know her. Watch me." So he stepped across the room, touched her arm and said: "Well, Maggie, how are you?" She gave him a cold look, and in Arctic tones said: "Excuse me, sir; if you wish to make my acquaintance you can leave one of your cards." P. S.—Loggie paid the lunch bill for the whole party, but the bribe did not take—no member peached.

Good enough for anybody!
