Additional Local

Misses Olive and Vera Peterson, who have been visiting on the Bay for a month, will return to their home in San Pedro next week.

W. O. Christensen returned Saturday from his fruit ranch at Jefferson. He was accompanied by Mr. Blackwell, a well-to-do resident of Jefferson, who will look over this section.

John Cowan, who has been located in Portland for some time, went out on Saturday's stage after a brief stay in town.

F. S. Dow says the COAST MAIL is a hoodoo. Ever since we mentioned his hen that was laying six eggs a day, she has been on a strike and hasn't deposited an egg.

Elder P. A. Black, of Clackamas, Or., of the United Brethren church, will begin a camp meeting at Mosier Chapel, south Coos river, August 14.

Mrs. L. Oberinder, of Portland, arrived Saturday via Drain, on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Rochon.

The Portland Journal has changed hands and is now under control of C. S. Jackson, an old newspaper man, who came to Portland from the East several years ago. In his salutatory he states that "Portland capital largely is behind the Journal, and the fund is ample for all purposes." The Journal has been forging steadily ahead from the start.

The front of the "Blanco Bar" has received a coat of yellow paint.

Mrs. Wm. Sherrard and Mrs. Jas. Stock, of Sumner, were shopping in town Tuesday.

The Blanco is having an overhauling on the Christensen & Johnson ways.

Work will commence next week in the North Bend ship yard on the steam schooner for the Coquille trade, as mentioned in the MAIL some time ago.

F. X. Hofer and son Fred went to Allegany Monday, to be joined later by Mrs. Hofer and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Rochon, for a week's outing.

The schooner Alumna was towed down from the Bay City mill Tuesday evening to North Bend, where she will finish her load for South Africa.

One of the new schooners was launched from the Marshfield ship yard Tuesday evening about 7 o'clock. The vessel was named The Argus, being christened by little Freida Holm. The launching passed off smoothly and was witnessed by quite a crowd.

The seven-year old son of Mrs. Jenkins, who lives on A street, fell from a fence, Tuesday forenoon and sustained a green stick fracture of both bones of his right forearm. His injuries were attended to by Dr. McCormac, and he will soon be all right again.

Bishop Wells, of Spokane, will be here August 10th, coming in place of Bishop Morris, who is advised by his physicians not to venture the trip. Bishop Wells will hold services in St. Luke's church in Empire in the forenoon of the 10th and in Marshfield in the evening. He will visit the Coquille and Curry county.

Fred Lillenthal returned Monday evening from bicycling a trip down the coast as far as Gold Beach. Walter Pennock who left here with him went on to Crescent city. Mr. Lillenthal did not find the asbestos ledge which he was looking for, but he saw several small ones and will have another try for the big one.

Impound Them

The MAIL is requested to remind those whom it may concern that there is a cow ordinance in this town. It seems that the ordinance is falling into a state of innocuous desuetude, and cows and calves are roaming the streets and ravaging gardens, not only in the daytime, but by night, which is the worse. Some of the people on Pine street are complaining bitterly at the annoyance and damage caused them.

Summer Items

Lilborn Boone, who is employed in Pike's logging camp on the Coquille, was home over Sunday.

E. H. Beyers has finished haying. Mrs. Hattie Catching has 61 quarts of blackberries put up.

Wm. Kardell, of Marshfield, visited the Doone ranch Sunday.

The Katzenjammers are champions at croquet.

F. E. Wilson is wearing a large and commodious smile, since a certain school ma'am returned from the valley.

There was no Sunday school on account of campmeeting down the slough last Sunday.

THE PRESENT CZAR

HOPES FOR AN HEIR

St. Petersburg, July 26.—The Czar and Czarina are at present living quietly at their favorite country palace, Tsarkoe Selo, in anticipation of a happy event. Russia is in eager anticipation also, for the expected event has a deep political significance that cannot fail to have a direct bearing on the empire's future policy. Should the looked for heir be a son, he will, should he live, in course of time become emperor of Russia, and will be reared under the political influence of the present Czar, thus practically insuring a continuation of the enlightened, progressive policy of Nicholas II.

The Czar has four children, all of them daughters. While the government of Russia is an absolute hereditary monarchy, and while the will of the Emperor is law, yet he cannot transfer his throne to his daughter. If Nicholas II. should die before a son is born to him, his successor would be his brother, the Grand Duke Michael, born in 1878. The latter is entirely under the influence of his mother, the Dowager Empress Marie Dagmar, widow of Emperor Alexander III., now in her fifty-fifth year. These facts possess important political significance, which may change the future history of Europe to a marked degree, and as any radical change in Russian policy may vitally effect every great European power, all the world is naturally concerned.

This situation, almost intolerable as it is to the present Czar, exists only because he has no male heir. Up to the present time his children are all girls and barred from the throne. All of his hopes center in the coming event, which he prays may add a son to his household and give to Russia a direct heir to the throne. Four times he has been keenly disappointed.

Should a son be born to Nicholas II. the power of the Dowager Empress will be reduced to nothing in a moment. The Czar will be a Czar in fact as in name, and the ministers who now openly defy him, oppose his will, and refuse to execute his policy, will be at his feet.

Various sensational rumors are current as to what will happen if the Czar again fails to give birth to a male child, one of them being that the Czar will abdicate. Another story is to the effect that the Czar has been consulting Russian law authorities and has come to the conclusion that he could legally alter the law of succession of Paul I., under which females are excluded from the throne until all males in the line of succession fall. That the Czar would attempt anything of the kind, however, is regarded as highly improbable as it would certainly result in civil war.

Striking Miners Riot

BEATING AND SHOOTING

NON UNION MEN

Take Possession of Town—Sheriff Helpless—Troops Likely to be Called.

Pottsville, Penn., July 25.—Serious outbreak among the coal strikers and nonunion men in Shenandoah occurred early this morning.

Two men were shot and four badly beaten by strike sympathizers. Excitement is at fever heat.

Nonunion men were fired upon from ambush and one man fatally hurt.

Additional guards have been sent into the disturbed districts.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 25.—Riots are existing at Longford where strike sympathizers have gathered in great force.

The sheriff is helpless and an appeal for troops is expected to be made at once.

This morning the town was practically in the hands of the rioters. Crowds of them were parading the streets to prevent nonunion men going to work, in many instances severely beating them.

Genuine Surprise.

Test—I told that old beau of yours that you were married.

Test—Did you? Did he seem surprised?

Test—Yes, indeed! He said, "How on earth did that happen?"—Philadelphia Press.

Rebuked.

Higgins—How is it you are always idling about? I never see you when you have anything to do.

Wiggins—The fact is, it takes so much of my time looking after other folks' business I have none left for looking after my own. Don't you find something like the same trouble yourself?—Boston Transcript.

STOPS PAIN

Athens, Tenn., Jan. 27, 1901.
Ever since the first appearance of my uterus they were very irregular and I suffered with great pain in my hips, back, stomach and legs, with terrible bearing down pains in the abdomen. During the past month I have been taking Wine of Cardui and Theodor's Black-Draught, and I passed the monthly period without pain for the first time in years.
NANNIE DAVIS.

What is life worth to a woman suffering like Nannie Davis suffered? Yet there are women in thousands of homes to-day who are bearing those terrible menstrual pains in silence. If you are one of these we want to say that this same will bring you permanent relief. Console yourself with the knowledge that 1,000,000 women have been completely cured by Wine of Cardui. These women suffered from leucorrhoea, irregular menses, headache, backache, and bearing down pains. Wine of Cardui will stop all these aches and pains for you. Purchase a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui to-day and take it in the privacy of your home.

WINE OF CARDUI
