JAS. FERRY JR.

J. L. Ferry Jr., was out in town Wednesday night at the Blaine hotel with Wm. Herron, commonly known as Billy Gall. His wounds are not considered very serious.

The circumstances of the affair were as follows:

It seems that Ferry engaged as a reporter at the Blaine and had been shown its location during the evening. A little after midnight he went upstairs with a companion and Ferry, who was acting as night editor suspected that he was going to take the other to lodge with him, and he went up to see about it. He said that he found Gall at the end of the hall, at the rear of the house, and asked him what he was doing there. There are varying stories, but a few moments later, Emerson Ferry, Lowery Owen and Wm. Ferry were on the spot. Young Ferry had been cut in two places, and Gall had been beaten up considerably. Nightwatchman Twohey took charge of Gall, placing him in the city jail.

Dr. Tower and Dr. Stray were called to attend young Ferry, and dressed his wounds. A gun in the front of the left shoulder is quite deep and dangerous. One of the abductors is smaller and it is not thought he has penetrated sufficiently to be dangerous.

It seems that Gall had been drinking and his story is that he was full and sober, when the young man who shot him went up, with him to go and show him his room.

He will probably appear before the Magistrate this afternoon.

MAMMOTH BIRDCAVE

one of the Little Known Attractions of the National Capital.

Wandering through its little attractions, possesses the largest bird cage in the United States, perhaps in the world. It is 130 by 220 feet ground dimension, and 130 feet high and located in the very heart of the city, at a beautiful point in a busy street. It is, in fact, the court of the post office building, and at times it is filled with Speculators, their twisting filling the cage with enormously trying groups to the ostrich to the ordinary seamen among the general public.

The birds enter the glass covered front of the cage, and fly in from the north and south ends near the peak of the roof, and only by accident do they find their way again to the open air. At times there are scores of these flying about within the enclosure; then a few disappear and others enter. Ovett the mallard, on the ground floor there is a flat, glass covered roof, placed on with panels, and on these later are arranged palms from the botanical garden.

Among the birds that make their home in the glass cage are phoebes, orioles, larks, tanagers, goldfinches, sparrows, and many others. It seems that they have been accustomed to fly freely, and at times have been seen to fly from the cage to the open air. Vancouver Times.

The War Cytist: Turn.

The question is often asked, Why do Cytists, "whirlwind" and turn over all period? In the period white from eight to left? Astronomical speculators have supposed that all the spheres once moved as rings of slightly scattered matter about the sun and that these rings were anisotropic aggregations from a true, irregularly scattered matter that was turned over in spiral courses, thus determining the direction in which the rings revolved, and all the rest from the same cause. "Thus," you say, "why did the nebulae arrange at all?" It gave from them and those presently received in the same manner as from left to right. This being the case, from that time to this, moon, stars, planets, cycloids, and hurricanes have adhered to the original kind.

REOUIRMENTS A DIFFICULTY.

Allen, who was five years old, was thrown in the air and very deep. One of the abductors is smaller and it is not thought he has penetrated sufficiently to be dangerous. It seems that Gall had been drinking and his story is that he was full and sober, when the young man who shot him went up, with him to go and show him his room.

He will probably appear before the Magistrate this afternoon.
