WAYSIDE WISDOM.

Some people's strength is drawn from others' weakness.

The "cream of society" too often chances to be mere froth.

Man has a separate pair of glasses for every acquaintance of his life.

There are two or more sides to every question, but lots of people only get a comper view.

Never remind a man of a debt. He is pretty sure to remember it-your dobt, that is,

GERMAN GLEANINGS.

Readings from the Bible are now given in Berlin by professional reciters. Whistling postcards are being made in Germany. They emit a sound like the note of a bird when handled.

Women are bereafter to be employed as assistants in the Berlin libraries. They must know some of the old as well as modern languages.

Fifteen years ago a German domestic servant, now aged twenty-two, swallowed a hairpin. It has just been extracted from her leg at Marienburg.

Wiesbaden, Germany, now has an arrangement for sterllizing its drinking water by means of ozone, which is gen--erated by electric discharges.

Instead of preserving the files of newspapers some German librarians are trying the experiment of making clippings and saving these in scrapbooks, classified according to subjects.

Manx Cats.

The peculiar breed of cats found in the Isle of Man differs from others only in that they have no tails, and the lack thereof is the insoluble puzzle to naturalists. Since it has become the fashion to explain everything by the principles of evolution, two theories have been offered-one that, owing to the limited range and lack of dense forests, the original cats had no use for tails, and consequently they (the tails, not the cats) gradually atrophied for lack of use and became fuffmentary; another that the primitive Manx cut off all their cats' tails and in the course of time developed a tailless breed. One thing is certain-the cats are there, and they have no tails.

The Invention of the Piano.

The honor of inventing the plano is claimed by the English, the French and the Germans. Father Wood, an English monk at Rome, is said to have been the real inventor in 1711 and to have manufactured one, which he sold ginia," from whom it was purchased by Falke Greville, though Count Carli claims the credit for Bartholemmeo Christiforle of Padua during his stay the crime. in Florence some three years later (1714). The Germans are the last in ; the field with J. C. Schroder of Dresden, who claimed (1717), when eighteen years of age, to have "constructed after much consideration the model of a new clavier with hammers, upon which he could play loudly or softly."

The Most Remarkable Suicide. The most curious suicide in the annals of self destruction occurred at Chiquete, N. B., in the spring of 1890. Before committing the deed the self murderer, who was named W. R. T. Jones, dug his own grave and placed a rough coffin of his own handiwork at the bottom. The dirt from the opening was kept from rolling back into the excavation by boards held in place by a trigger to which a string was attached. Everything in readiness, the deliberate He is recovering.
