

BURIED PIRATE TREASURE IN SUNSET BAY

Hitherto Unpublished Account of Fight Between a Pirate Ship and Armed Vessel.

The finding of an old copper Spanish doubloon at Big Creek recently, by Captain Store, keeper Cape Arago Light House, recalls a story of one of the stirring events of the early days on this part of the coast.

During the Spring of 1842, a Pirate vessel sailed up the Western Coast of South America and Mexico, entering ports and plundering the people until they had a million and a half dollars worth in Spanish coin, jewelry and other valuables. They then set sail for the Bering sea in hopes of capturing some sealing and trading vessels, then in that part of the Pacific. They sailed up the coast as far as Sunset Bay (Big Creek), when a storm arose and they were obliged to seek a place of shelter. They sailed into Sunset Bay where they lay for two days.

In the meantime the Spanish settlements on San Francisco Bay had heard of the Pirate vessel and had sent an armed vessel to try and capture her. They sailed up the coast and when they were a few miles off Cape Arago they sighted the Pirate vessel coming out of Sunset Bay. As soon as the pirate saw the strange vessel they put back into the bay in hope of escaping the vessel, but the man of war headed toward the bay. The Pirate vessel seeing that they were being pursued, beached their vessel and took their heavy chests of valuables and buried them on the shore in hopes of returning some future day and getting them. They then returned to the ship in hopes of deceiving their pursuer in regard to their true character, but they did not succeed and a bloody fight occurred in which all the Pirates excepting one were killed. He was badly wounded and was taken aboard the ship in hopes of obtaining information in regard to the hiding place of the treasure.

After taking everything of value from the Pirate ship, they set sail for S. F. The captured man gradually grew worse and died two weeks after in a Spanish hospital. On his deathbed he confessed that they had buried the chests containing a million and a half of valuables on the shores of the bay where the fight occurred. Numerous expeditions were sent in the early days in hope of finding the buried treasure but of no avail. The only relic that has been found is the doubloon recently picked up by Captain Store near the place where the fight occurred.

AT HALF MAST.

Sometimes we are greeted in the morning by flags at half-mast for some prominent official who yesterday was apparently in perfect health. When we inquire the ailment by which he was stricken it is not uncommon to be told "acute indigestion" or "stomach trouble."

It is true people learned that indigestion or any form of "stomach trouble" is not a thing to trifle with. The result may not be fatal, but there can be no condition of diseased stomach which does not carry with it physical loss and weakness.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures indigestion and other forms of disease affecting the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

"Thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. Charles H. Gorman, of Leighton, Pa., "I am the only medicine that has done me any good. I tried everything I could think of to cure indigestion, and found I was only throwing away money. Then I heard of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and tried a bottle of it, and to my joy found it was doing me good. I used six bottles of it, and am now cured. It is the best medicine on earth."

This grand remedy does its work in a thorough manner; it gives the blood that is all health; the strength that is solid, substantial and lasting; not flabby fat, not false stimulus, but genuine, complete, renewed vitality and life force.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation and its consequences.

carred. Probably the hidden treasure will never be found owing to the sands which for half a century have been washed in by the ocean and covered everything to the depth of several feet. Thus ended the career of one of the most dreaded and treacherous Pirates that ever sailed the high seas.

GREATLY ALARMED

By a Persistent Cough, but Permanently Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. H. P. Barhage, a student at law, in Greenville, S. C., had been troubled for four or five years with a continuous cough which he says, "greatly alarmed me, causing me to fear that I was in the first stage of consumption." Mr. Barhage, having seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised concluded to try it. Now he says what he says of it: "I soon felt a remarkable change and after using two bottles of the twenty-five cent size was permanently cured." Sold by John Freese.

DAMMING OF ROGUE RIVER

Power Will be Used to Drive Great Pumps.

The Golden Drift Mining Company has resumed work of completing its big power dam across Rogue River, in the Dry Diggings, three miles above Grants Pass. The dam was begun early last year, but was not completed before the arrival of the Fall rains. The dam even in its uncompleted state, withstood the very high water and several freshets of the Rogue during the Winter.

The company intends to get it fully completed by the close of the present Summer. To this end it is pushing work with all speed, and is employing a large crew of men. The sawmill is at work near the site of the dam, cutting lumber and timber for the completion of the structure.

The prime purpose of this dam is to furnish power to operate the mammoth pumps that will be installed for pumping water to the battery of giants that are to be operated in the Dry Diggings placer fields, owned by the Golden Drift Company; and to supply irrigating water for the farms and orchards of all this section of Rogue River Valley. The surveys for the irrigating ditches have already been made and they will be flowing water for next season's crops.

Frozen Beef Tea.

Beef tea frozen to a snowlike consistency, can sometimes be taken by fever patients to whom the hot tea is disagreeable beyond endurance.

The Cistern.

A small bag of charcoal hung in impure water will purify it, and it is well to keep such a bag in the cistern. Water filtered through charcoal may also be rendered perfectly pure.

His Time Was Not Up.

A man of a mercenary spirit had several sons, one of whom was on the eve of his twenty-first birthday. The father had always been a strict disciplinarian, keeping his boys well under parental charge, allowing them few liberties and making them work hard.

It was with a feeling of considerable satisfaction that the young man rose on the morning of his birthday and began to collect his personal belongings preparatory to starting out in the world.

The farmer, seeing his son packing his trunk, which he rightly judged to be evidence of the early loss of a good farm hand, stopped at the door of the young man's room and asked what he was going to do.

The boy very promptly reminded his father of the day of the month and the year and declared his intention of striking out in the world on his own account.

"Not much you won't," shouted the old man, "at least not until after 12 o'clock, so you can just take off them good clothes and sit to give me another half day's work down in the potato patch."

WAVES OF WATER.

The deepest running stream in the world is said to be the Niagara river, just under the Suspension bridge.

The Thames has excellent tides, which rise fully twenty feet in spring and about seventeen feet at the neap, and it is always an easy river for tidal navigation.

The Mississippi and its tributaries are navigable for 35,000 miles. The rivers of Europe furnish navigation for only half as many miles, and few of them are connected.

MARSHFIELD VICTORIOUS

OVER NORTH BEND

One of Best Games Ever Seen in

Cos—Both Teams do

Fine Work

If the league base ball games of this season keep up the pace set by the first game Sunday between Marshfield and North Bend on the Marshfield grounds there is a genuine feast in store for all lovers of the finest out door game on earth. To say that every one was pleased with the game but faintly expresses the universal and enthusiastic approval of the spectators. It was intensely interesting from start to finish. Even after Marshfield had run up a score of four to North Bend's nothing, every one could see that with the grand game the latter team were putting up, the slightest breakdown on the part of the home team might reverse the result.

The pleasantest feature of the game was the frank good feeling which prevailed throughout, between the players and between their respective friends among the spectators. When North Bend made a good play the North Bend people whooped and yelled and swung their hats and colors, and Marshfield boys did something good, Marshfield rent the air and North Bend kept still and smiled. The fools who usually make things disagreeable for every one by shouting insulting epithets at the other side were happily conspicuous for their absence, and the chaffing was good natured and without a sting. When the visitors started home on the steamer the crowd on the dock gave three rousing cheers for North Bend, and the crowd on the boat cheered for Marshfield. This is as it should be, and it is to be hoped that nothing may occur in the Summer's friendly rivalry to mar the good fellowship exhibited.

The North Bend band furnished excellent music at intervals during the afternoon, adding much to the pleasure of the crowd.

The new grand stand was full, and even in its incomplete condition furnished a splendid and comfortable vantage ground from which to view the game. Strong wire netting protected the occupants, but nevertheless few in the seats could refrain from dodging when the flying ball came straight at their heads, as happened several times. Even P. L. Phelan, whose nerve, some of us know to be sound, was observed to nearly fall off the end of the seat to escape a ball which stopped ten feet short of him.

The rooters' canes decorated with Marshfield colors were much in evidence, also the caps worn by many of the North Bend contingent.

After a preliminary half hour of warming up, the game commenced at 2-25. It occupied one hour and twenty minutes, and was all baseball. Not three minutes were wasted in kicking or chewing the rag.

The game ended with the first half of the ninth inning when the visitors went out with one short of the home team's score of four.

The following notes on the game have been kindly furnished by E. Zolderman, official scorer for Marshfield:

The base-ball season opened here Sunday, with a very close and exciting contest of our national game, between the North Bend and the Marshfield teams.

The day was as fine as if it had been made for the occasion and the attendance was very large, about 1000 people witnessing the game from the grand stand and grounds.

The diamond was in poor shape owing to the recent rains which prevented the work of smoothing them down, but nevertheless the game was very exciting from start to finish.

Managers J. W. Flanagan and W. H.

Short deserve great credit for their good judgement in selecting such good material for their teams.

The visitors from North Bend deserve great credit for their work both as to fielding and stick work.

The batting of McKeown, Heitmuller and Saunders was very good, each getting a two bagger, while McGinnis, Curry and Graham each made safe hits.

With a little more practice the North Bend boys will give a very good account of themselves for they are of the right stuff.

As to the Marshfield boys their work was also of high order especially Jack-rabbit Boynton who covered enough ground for two men. He will no doubt make a good showing in the coming games. George Ferry carried off the batting honors of the day making three hits out of four times at the bat and one of them a double, while his work at the initial bag was very fine, accepting sixteen chances without an error.

Jacobs did fine work behind the bat and his throwing to second was very true.

South-paw Loh accepted some very hard chances at third. The two errors credited to him were not of a bad nature, especially the high fly which was very hard to judge, owing to the high wind that was blowing at the time.

Wickman's throw from deep right field to third show that the boy possesses a good wing.

Hi Wright pitched a very fine game allowing only four scattered hits up to the eighth inning but in the eighth the visitors seemed to find their batting eye and touched him off for three safe hits.

An incident occurred in the game that is not often seen, even in the big leagues, and that is, that not a single base on balls was given by either pitcher, showing the superb steadiness of Graham and Wright.

If both teams put up as good a game against the team on the river as they played today they will no doubt come out victorious.

Both umpires deserve credit for their judgement, Langworthy on bases and Hutchinson on balls and strikes.

THREE KINGS.

Kaiser Wilhelm has concluded to modernize some of his old family castles by putting in electric light, up to date heating and sanitary appliances and elevators.

The king of Cambodia has hidden the walls of his palace with portraits of his wives. The longest part of the work was the photographer's. Eight thousand women make up the royal establishment.

King Victor Emmanuel, whose great hobby is coin collecting, is just putting the finishing touches to his magnificent work on the coins of Italy, the cost of which will be $30,000. The king's collection of coins consists of 60,000 specimens.

Dry furnace heat, productive of throat and lung diseases, may be mitigated by hanging a wet towel in front of the register, the lower edge of the towel being allowed to dip in a shallow vessel of water.

Very Fine Handiwork.

Dr. Heylin, in his "Life of King Charles," records that during the reign of Queen Elizabeth "there was one who wrote the Ten Commandments, the Creed, the Pater Noster, the queen's name and the prayer of our Lord within the compass of a penny and gave her majesty a pair of spectacles of such an artificial making that by the help thereof she did plainly and distinctly discern every letter."

A somewhat similar feat was that "rare piece of work brought to pass by Peter Beles, an Englishman, who also exhibited before her majesty the entire Bible written in a book containing as many leaves as a full sized edition, but fitting into a walnut."

Parasite Flowers.

Curious excrescences resembling rude flowers that grow on trees in Tierra del Fuego are described by a correspondent of La Nature, Paris. These are found to be due to a parasite growth, but the "flowers" consist of the inner wood of the tree which has been forced through the bark and assumes various fanciful shapes, often those of the classical acanthus, seen on Corinthian capitals. The parasite that causes the growth is a relative of the mistletoe.
