Convert Makes Restitution

A very conscientious man in Eugene who had just been converted had a great change of heart and three years after getting away with a pencil becomes repentant and writes the Eugene merchant and returns the pencil with the price thereof:

Mr. Frank Dunn, Eugene, Oregon: "Dear sir:—About three or four years ago I was in your store and saw a blue lumber marker's pencil on one of your counters and took a fancy to it and stole it. About five months ago I was converted and the Lord made it plain to me that I must make restitution. Enclosed you will find the balance of the pencil and 10 cents in stamps. Please forgive me.

"Your humble servant,

If the ordinary editor were to become converted and had to make restitution for all the pencils that came into his possession, which some other fellow owned, he would be in a plight. This may be the reason so many editors never make restitutions after becoming converted. This load must be an awful one to carry, yet most of them carry it silently to the grave.

From Tuesday's Daily.

County Treasurer Dulle was among the visitors from the county sea Sunday.

The Signal came in yesterday. She will take on a cargo of lumber to San Francisco.

J. C. Haynes of Myrtle Point is spending a few days in Marshfield visiting his daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan returned Monday from a trip to the Puget Sound country.

R. C. Lee returned Monday from a few days' business trip to Myrtle Point on business for the Grisson Music Co.

It is said that nearly 200 people went fishing up Coos river Sunday. So far as heard from three trout were caught.

Look at the first page, and you will see why we warned you a week ago that if you would keep your ears open you might hear something drop.

Benjamin F. Mulkey, President of Southern Oregon State Normal School, at Ashland, is spending a few days at the Bay. Mr. Mulkey is delighted with the country.

J. W. Quick was in town over Sunday to see the ball game, etc., returning yesterday to his work at Emmett Pierce's camp on the north fork of the Coquille. He reports that they have put in about 2700 logs this season, of fine old-growth timber.

Chas. W. Wise, a young man of Decatur, Ill., arrived in Marshfield Saturday. He is looking over Marshfield and Coos Bay and is pleased with its prospects and climate. While making his short stay he will visit his friend, J. Montgomery.

CARD OF THANKS

Robert Kruger and family wish to thank their neighbors and friends for the kindness and sympathy shown in their late bereavement.

The Czarina brought in a cargo of freight from San Francisco yesterday.

Tree Across Track

The train to Coquille was delayed yesterday by a large tree that had fallen across the track not far from that point. The passengers got out and walked to their destination, while the tree was cut out and the train got through about 2 o'clock and reached Marshfield about 4.

Some interesting facts are brought to the light by the death, not long ago in China, of the famous Aunt Jemima, an aged negress. Aunt Jemima, whose real name was Moody, was sent by the United States to the Paris Exposition to demonstrate the use of cornmeal in cooking. From a small beginning, more experienced that casual, Aunt Jemima's wares soon became so popular that her kitchen was crowded with housewives, from peasant to royalty, who came to take lessons. After the exposition was over, "Aunt Jemima" was feted by royalty, on her return United States Commissioner of Agriculture paying her the compliment of a public reception at which she was presented with a gold medal.—Pacific Printer.

Cully Drobot leaves for Bandon this morning where he will join the pennant winners, who will go to Humboldt to play the Humboldt Stars. Drobot is a valuable acquisition to the Bandon team and he will hold up his end. His departure from Marshfield, is regretted by his many friends here, but he says he will come back. Cully is perhaps the best ball player at his positions that ever entered Coos Bay.
