It is absolutely necessary to success in the showroom that the specimens molt properly. The fancier realizes this and gives his fowls special care at this time. Fowls out upon the farm, where unlimited range is accorded them, will usually come through the molt without any special care. Nature provides the food necessary to the growth of new feathers and the replenishment of the system. Insects in abundance supply the necessary animal food, while the grasses and other vegetable growth furnish the remaining required elements which enter into the composition of feathers, blood and flesh.

The Blazed Trail

By STEWART EDWARD WHITE

Copyright, 1908, By Stewart Edward White

"You won't think this is so funny when you get in the law courts!" he shouted.

Thorpe made no reply. With thirty men at the job it does not take a great while to move a small cargo thirty or forty feet. By 3 o'clock the Pole Star was ready to continue her journey. Thorpe climbed aboard, leaving Shearer in charge.

"Keep the men at it, Tim," said he. "Put up the walls of the warehouse good and strong and move the stuff in. If you get through before I return you might take a scout up the river and fix on a camp site. I'll bring back the lumber for roofs, floors and trimmings with me and will try to pick up a few axmen for swamping. Those fellows won't bother us any more for the present, I think. But it pays to be on deck. So long."

When Thorpe returned to the bay he found the warehouse complete. Shearer and Andrews, the surveyor, were scouting up the river.

"No trouble from above, boys?" asked Thorpe.

"Nary trouble," they replied.

The warehouse was secured by padlocks, the wagon loaded with the tent and the necessities of life and work. Early in the morning the procession—laughing, joking, skylarking—look its way up the river trail. Late that evening, tired, but still inclined to mischief, they came to the first dam, where Shearer and Andrews met them.

"How do you like it, Tim?" asked Thorpe that evening.

"She's all right," replied the river man, with emphasis, which for him was putting it strong.

At noon the following day the party arrived at the second dam. Here Shearer had decided to build the permanent camp. Injun Charley was constructing one of his endless series of birch bark canoes. Later he would paddle the whole string to Marquette, where he would sell them to a hardware dealer for $2.50 apiece.

Injun Charley looked up and grunted as Thorpe approached.

"How are you, Charley?" greeted Thorpe reticently.

"You gettin' pine? Good!" replied Charley in the same tone.

Dr. Herran came to this country for the first time at the age of three and was educated at Georgetown university, his father having been minister at Washington from 1840 to 1863. Soon after his graduation he went to London as secretary to the Colombian minister.

Returning to Colombia in 1867, he for a time served the United States as consul at Medellin. He was appointed secretary of public instruction in 1868 and two years later came to this country as secretary of legation. Dr. Herran succeeded Senor Concha as minister from Colombia about a year ago.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness. Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, it reaches over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at drugists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 66 Warren Street, New York.

A Farewell Surprise

There was farewell surprise party given to the Wieder family last evening, there being a large number present. The surprise was a mark of high esteem in which the family is held by their cores of friends here. The event was one of the most pleasurable affairs those present have enjoyed in a long time, it being in a manner an expression of regret at the expected departure from our community, of long, true and trusty friends. The young people will especially be missed from Marshfield social circles.

The Wieder family leave a long list of friends in Marshfield who are loth to see them go to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Weider were presented with a beautiful chafing dish as a token of the esteem in which their many Marshfield friends held them. When they are settled in their new home, at Fort Jones California, surrounded by new friends, each and every time the chafing dish is used we venture to say, their memories will return to old Coos and friends, where they spent twenty years of their younger days.

Methodist Revival

The revival at the Methodist Episcopal Church is growing in interest at a most rapid rate. Several were converted Sunday. Many requests were sent in for prayer. This is an unselfish campaign for the Lord and King. The people of Marshfield realize the importance of a successful and thorough awakening in the hearts and lives of our good people. Those who do not usually attend church are especially invited. Come to-night. Services every evening this week except Saturday.

On Sunday evening, several special songs were sung and the service ended with a fervent appeal on the part of the pastor for some one to come to the Lord. Five responded and came to the altar. Four of these were taken into the church and the other asked for prayers.

Marshfield may well feel proud of the new pastor, Chas. T. McPherson, and of those who are helping him. The cry of the times is "Leaders! Leaders!" and if we wish to build up our town why can't we come out and help the good work along? The church people would do well to organize a Christian Progressive Society or something of that nature, and let outsiders know that the Christian people of our town are alive and propose to be in the front ranks of the forward movement.
