Another Small Fire

A small blaze broke out in the Alired Haglund residence in South Marshfield about 11 o'clock this morning. The fire alarm was turned in and the department, with hook and ladder and hose carts started for the scene at once, followed by the usual large turnout from the business center of the city. By the time the crowd reached the Masonic Temple however, it was discovered that a volunteer bucket brigade from the south end had gotten the fire under control and no further assistance was necessary.

The trouble was caused by a defective flue in the kitchen. The building was uninsured, but the damages were very slight.

NORTH SLOUGH CANAL

Meeting of Settlers Held to Discuss the Project

John Bear returned yesterday from North Slough whether he went to attend a meeting held at the public hall in that neighborhood. The meeting was called for the purpose of assembling the settlers and property owners of that vicinity to see what could be done in the matter of putting in a canal east of the slough, and extending the Hunters' Cabin to Hebb's landing on the old Beale place, a distance of something over a mile.

Such a canal would not only be a great help to navigation, but it would drain several hundred acres of the finest land which is now too swampy to be of use.

The project has been under consideration for a long time and all those interested are strongly in favor of it, and Mr. Bear informs the MAIL that over $1100 was practically in sight at the meeting which he just attended.

It is proposed to dig the canal at least 30 feet wide and deep enough to be navigable by small boats.

This will be an important improvement for that section, and it is to be hoped that the project will be carried out.

The Social Whirl

A very profitable session of the Progress Club was held at the home of Mrs. F. S. Dow Tuesday afternoon.

An excellent paper on Theodore Roosevelt, by Mrs. Dow, was followed by readings from Riis' "Roosevelt the Citizen", by Mrs. Upton and Mrs. Tower. A well chosen schedule for next year's work was submitted by the committee on program and adopted. Instead of the usual Tuesday afternoon meeting Mrs. Tower will give an informal musicale at her home next Tuesday evening to which all members of the club and their husbands are invited.
