

Personal and Local

(From Saturday's Daily.)

The Rev. Chas. McPherson, conducted Methodist services at Flagstaff last evening.

Mrs. J. H. Eganagan, is expected to arrive from San Francisco on the first trip of the steamer Breakwater.

Better see that the dry moss is all cleaned off your roof, if you don't want to get some to a pile of ashes some day.

W. W. Hevener, representing the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company in this district, returned from a week's visit to the Telemie country yesterday.

Mrs. Will Lyons, of Coquille, City is a visitor in Marshfield today. She arrived on the noon train and is a guest at the Blanco.

Mrs. J. A. Lamb and Mrs. Fred Slagle of Coquille City arrived in Marshfield on the noon train today, and are visiting with friends in the city.

S. Pierce, the popular Republican candidate for joint representative from this and Curry counties, left for Coquille city on this morning's train after a few days visit on the bay.

T. R. Sheridan, the Roseburg banker, who in company with Geo. Steele, a Michigan lumberman, arrived in Marshfield yesterday and who has been looking over Coos Bay lumber lands, left via the Myrtle Point route for the valley this morning.

The fire alarms of the past few days should remind every one that the season on has arrived when extra precautions are needed. Old trash should be cleared up, the flues looked after and moss removed from the roofs.

Speed of the Czarina

The speed of the steamer Czarina may be appreciated by a statement of the fact, that on her last voyage for San Francisco she left Coos Bay nine hours behind, and reached that city three hours ahead, of the steamer Arcata.

Travel By Sea

Passenger list of out-going Arcata Friday, May 27th. F. Hanson, L. Clemenson, J. Campbell, L. Karl, H. Frye, Mrs. White, K. Emerson, Dr. Boyle, Mrs. M. Manning, A. Herr, H. Olsen, H. Ackerman, A. B. Campbell and Miss A. Anderson, 8 steerage.

NORTH COOS RIVER FARMERS

TO HAVE TELEPHONE SERVICE

All arrangements have been made to extend the Coos river telephone line up the North Fork as far as there are any farmers who will subscribe for telephones.

This is a good move in the right direction and as the telephone is a thermometer of business it goes to show that times in Coos county are better than ever.

The line will connect with local exchange of the Pacific States Telegraphic & Telephone Co.

STORM WARNING STATION

May be Established Here by the Weather Bureau

The following letter from the Chief of the U. S. Weather Bureau to Hon. Binger Hermann in regard to the establishment of a storm warning station at this place, will be of interest.

In view of the shipping interests of this port, such a station certainly ought to be maintained here.

Washington, D. C. May 7, 1904.
Hon. Binger Hermann,
House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C.

Sir:

I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 4th instant, enclosing a request of the Chamber of Commerce of Marshfield, Oregon, for the establishment of a storm warning station at that place and beg to say in reply that the matter will be referred to the Weather Bureau Official at Portland, Ore., who is in charge of the North Pacific Coast district forecast and warning service, with a view to, if practicable, complying with your request.

Very respectfully,
Willis L. Moore
Chief U. S. Weather Bureau.

Successful Sacajawea Social

Under the title of "Sacajawea" a very pleasant entertainment was given by the ladies of Marshfield at the Lutheran hall here last night. The object of the entertainment was to raise a Marshfield subscription to the Sacajawea monument fund now being collected by the Ladies of Oregon. From a financial, as well as a social view, the entertainment was highly successful, the proceeds amounting to something over $25.00.

The entertainment opened shortly before 8 o'clock, with a vocal solo, "Forgotten," by Mrs. J. D. Hawes, whose appropriate introductory met with such a hearty encore that she was obliged to appear the second time. Following this popular solo, was the Rev. Thos. Murray, who was introduced by Mrs. C. H. Dungan as the speaker of the evening.

Rev. Murray appropriately opened his address with a brief eulogy on Sacajawea and introduced her historical record relative to the Lewis and Clark expedition of century ago. He gracefully drifted from the history of these famous explorations in the primitive Northwest, onto the subject of the Redman as a child of nature, telling of his natural instincts of woodcraft. He then told of some of his own experiences among the Indians in the pioneer days of the Canadian west, and closed his remarks with the hope that this simple, yet noble race might even yet become adapted to the laws and customs of civilization and be preserved.

The next feature of the entertainment was the appearance of Mrs. Chas. McPherson in vocal solos, "Good Bye Sweet Day," and "Till for Tat," which merited the hearty applause that went up from the crowded audience.

Mrs. McPherson was followed by the program by Mrs. Dr. W. C. Tower, and Miss Susie Eckworth, in the charming duet, "Tell Me Will My Dream Come True." Their number concluded the program, and while it was the last, it was by no means the least, feature of the entertainment and it justly merited the hearty applause brought forth.

After the entertainment, which was concluded about 10 o'clock, the crowd was invited to examine the large collection of Indian curios on exhibition in the hall and to visit with each other until the ladies in charge of refreshments could arrange to entertain them otherwise. As soon as the tables could be prepared refreshments, consisting of ice cream, sherbert and cake was served at 15 cts per plate, and was highly enjoyed by all present.

Died at Marine Hospital

Henry W. Wedekemper, the man who was injured by a falling tree while working at the Sengstacken wood camp near Marshfield on the 19th Inst, died at the Marine Hospital in this city last night at 9:45. Wedekemper was engaged in cutting wood when a heavy gust of wind blew down a tree which fell toward where he was working. He saw the tree coming and being unable to get entirely out of its road, took refuge behind an old snag, which was struck by the falling tree in such a manner as to catch his head between some limbs, jarring it to the extent that concussion of the brain resulted. He was brought at once to this city where he was placed in the Marine Hospital under the care of Dr. McCormac; and although all possible attendance was given him and all that medical skill could do, was done, he never regained consciousness from the time of the accident up to his death.

Wedekemper, was a Michigan woodman who came to this country about three years ago and who has followed logging during his residence in this section. He was a man about 40 years of age and was a member of the Odd Fellows lodge, in good standing. He will be buried, with the honors of his lodge, at the Odd Fellows cemetery tomorrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

Change in Firm

Having purchased A. B. Campbell's stock of groceries, I hope to be favored with a continuance of the trade of his present patrons, as well as that of others. I intend to carry groceries, fruits, and vegetables of the very best to be had—all goods will be guaranteed exactly as represented. Special care given to telephone orders. I will be pleased to extend 30 days credit to those justified in receiving credit. Respectfully
E. K. SHELDON.

Mrs. J. A. Lamb and Mrs. Fred Slagle, Coquille city ladies who visited friends in this city Sunday, have returned to their home in the county seat.

Henry Laird, of Loon Lake, arrived in town today. He brings a band of 127 head of Angora goats, which he has sold to John Youkam.

J. A. Jacobson, North Bend's popular furniture man, who has been spending a few days at his old home in the county seat passed through Marshfield en route for his home yesterday.

Robt. Burns, of Curry county, Democratic nominee for joint representative from Coos and Curry, left by yesterday's train for Myrtle Point after spending three days among the bay shores voters.

Miss Anna Cox, of Catching slough, who was brought to Marshfield and successfully operated on for appendicitis Sunday is reported to be resting easily today.

Holt Bonebrake, well known in this city, and who is visiting relatives here at present, was successfully operated on for appendicitis by Dr. Horsfall last Sunday. His condition is greatly improved today.

T. J. and Abraham Vandyke, of Roseburg, and C. A. Stein, an Eastern gentleman, were in Marshfield today. They have been looking at timberland in this section and have made some purchases.

There is no more prolific source of fire in this county than moss on the roof. The fungus gets a good growth during the winter and when Spring comes it soon dries up and becomes tinder which only needs a spark from the chimney to start a conflagration.

Miss Mills has changed the location of her Ladies' Hairdressing Parlors to rooms in the Naeburg building, where she will open the establishment tomorrow. Miss Mills is a graduate of the Monroe Tonsorial College, and is thoroughly skilled in ladies' hair dressing, manouring etc. Do not forget the new location.

The MAIL is happy to see the fact acknowledged that it is the standard of newspaper excellence in this neck of the woods, so that the solicitors for other papers, when they wish to express the worth of their publications, say it is, or will be "better than the COAST MAIL."

It is a time-honored fiction of the newspaper business that it is a righteous act for the publisher to lie about his circulation. When, however, it comes to lying about his competitor's circulation, common business courtesy is supposed to act as a restraining influence.

Beginning June 1st, daily stage will be run on the Drain and Coos Bay Stage route between Marshfield and Drain station on the Southern Pacific railroad. The attention of the traveling public is called to the advertisement of the stage company appearing in another column of this issue.

For additional information see E. P. Norton, the Marshfield agent of the company, at Norton's store.

The Post

The first number of the Evening Post, North Bend's new daily paper has been issued. The name of North Bend Publishing Co. appears as owners, Dwight L. Loofbourrow, editor, Frank N. Hofer, business manager.

This number consists of 4 6-column pages, but it is stated that the paper will be larger hereafter. If the plans outlined are intelligently carried out, the Post will be a credit to Coos bay.

Visited the Dead Whale

About forty young people from North Bend comprised a party who chartered the gasoline launch "Dixie" and visited the North beach above Jarvis landing last Sunday to see the dead whale that was drifted ashore there several days ago. A member of the party informed the COAST MAIL reporter this morning that the whale is thought to be the same one that was chased by a Siesta tug boat, and injured very badly, about a month ago. The whale is about 40 feet long.

Sunday's Ball Game

Last Sunday's base ball game pulled off on the North Bend diamond between the North Bend and Marshfield nines amounted to a score of 17 to 11 etc etc. The game was a blind lead, the only features of the same being Del Lennon's pitching and the gate receipts. The boys bid fair to play warmer games in the future however, and no matter how far distant that future may be, our confidence is that such that we believe they will make good.

Dull Sport

"Nimrod" Curry, Marshfield's Tonsorial artist of sporting fame, made a flying run up Haynes' slough with his little boat last Sunday afternoon. When asked by a MAIL reporter what might be doing, Mr. Curry said: "Oh nothing much, pretty tame now. I've just been on out all the afternoon sparring with the speckled beauties and only bagged 105. I'd be thoroughly disgusted this evening if it were not for the fact that I had the pleasure of witnessing a warm little ball game between the Haynes' lough Juniors and the Tall Timber racers at the bay side diamond this afternoon. Eighteen innings were played and the score was 98 to 105."

Union Memorial Services

Under the auspices of the Methodist church, in this city, special union memorial services were held at the M. E. church here last Sunday evening. Special invitations were extended, and special attention shown, the old soldiers of Baker Post No. 8 G. A. R., of Marshfield. Following is the very interesting program rendered: Voluntary 608; Hymn "Faith of Our Fathers"; Choir; Gloria organist; Scripture Lesson pastor; Quartet, Davison "Sleep Soldiers Sleep"; Mrs. Heisner, Mrs. McPherson, and Messers F. S. and M. D. Sumner; Collection and announcements; Hymns "God the Nation's Guardian"; Choir; Sermon, subject, "Flowers for the Dead and Cheers for the Living"; Anthem, Kissinger "Go with Flowers, Bright Flowers"; Choir Hymn: "My Country 'Tis of Thee"; Invocation.
