CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY
This remedy is needed in almost every home before the summer is over. It can always be depended upon even in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is especially valuable for summer disorders in children. It is pleasant to take and never fails to give prompt relief. Why not buy it now? For sale by John Preuss.

Filling Up Again.

Again the faithful Sunday school. The children gather in. The teachers know that, as a rule, in June picnics begin.

Needed His Services.

"I don't see anything lately from the pen of Jenkind, who gave such promise as an imaginative writer."
"He has a better thing. The gas company heard of him and gave him a job reading its meters."

CURED OF CHRONIC DIARRHOEA AFTER TEN YEARS OF SUFFERING

"I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Mattie Burge, of Martinsville, Va. "I suffered from chronic diarrhoea for ten years and during that time tried various medicines without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. I then decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well and have never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much in favor of that wonderful medicine." This remedy is for sale by John Preuss.

GREAT PLAYS BY KEANE CO.

Before a small audience last evening the James Keane Company presented "The Highwayman" in a way that did full justice to this noted play.

"The Highwayman" is a strong society comedy-drama, dealing with the life of a famous knight of the road, who tries to give up his old life and enter London society. By a strange coincidence he meets his mother whom he has not seen for years. He has become engaged to the niece of his mother's husband, for he is the illegitimate offspring of her first love, his father. The boy ran away from him when a child and found his way to Australia, where he became a highwayman. It is during the visit to London and his attempt to enter English society that he is tripped through a former enemy, who is now a servant in his mother's home. He is finally hunted to earth and in the end takes his own life.

Those who attended last night can congratulate themselves that they saw one of the finest bits of acting to which a Marshfield audience is likely to be treated in many a day. We refer to the scene when Swift's mother reveals herself, and he takes his departure.

Keane rose to real greatness and Miss Hartley approached it closely. It is no exaggeration to say that the audience were held spellbound and motionless, and there was not a sound or a movement in the auditorium until the strain was relieved by the entrance of Gardiner.

It is greatly to be regretted that such a performance, that would draw good houses in the most critical cities of the land, should go begging in Marshfield.

This town now has an opera house to be proud of, but if we desire to see good theatrical companies come here often we must patronize them when they do come.

It is an expensive proposition to bring a high class theatrical attraction here, and it will not often be done unless the community does the right thing.

Tonight Mr. Keane will present the weird, fascinating drama of London life, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde".

The powerful story by the famous author, Robert Louis Stevenson, is too well known to need repetition. The weird story of Dr. Jekyll's mispent life, the wonderful dual character of the benevolent Dr. Jekyll and the murderous Mr. Hyde, is probably the most sensational feature ever introduced into any drama. It is a mystifying, intensely absorbing, psychological study. It rivets the entire attention from the moment the curtain rises until its final fall. It leaves a powerfully drawn picture engraven upon the mind that time even cannot efface. It more clearly portrays the good and evil sides of life more surely and definitely than any sermon ever preached from the pulpit. It is always patronized by the church and has as advocates many of the leading theological lights of the day. No other play ever created half the furor that this did when first given to the public by the eminent actor Richard Mansfield in New York city, some fifteen years ago. He recently presented it in San Francisco to the largest audience in the history of the Columbia theatre, plainly demonstrating that the play will never die.

Mr. Keane has also presented the play with tremendous success, playing to the largest audience in the history of the Grand Opera house during a recent engagement in Los Angeles.

Tomorrow Nat Goodwin's amusing comedy "In Missouri" will be presented.

(From Friday's Daily.)

Several new specialties will be introduced at the show tonight. Don't miss them.

L. F. Oldt, of the county seat, is a visitor here today and may be found at the Central.

The sidewalk in front of the Palace chop house is receiving some needed repairs today.

Ed Gudlenfanger, the popular San Francisco commercial man is in our city once more and is a guest at the Central.

A. Glynn and E. H. Ebert, of Milwaukee, arrived in our city via Roseburg wagon road, and are staying at the Hotel Central.

Among other up-to-date specialties, Miss Luce will sing Ramona at the performance tonight.

H. J. Van Lewan, of Parkersburg, is a business visitor in our city today. His name may be noticed on the Blanco register.

W. C. Chase, chairman of the County Republican Central Committee, arrived on today's train from the county seat and is in the city this afternoon.

L. F. Fink, proprietor of the Coos Bay Candy Factory, who has been confined to his bed for several days with lumbago, is much improved today.

W. U. Douglas' new business block is rapidly taking on the appearance of a store building and the front is today receiving its primary coat of paint.

Through a letter to his father, Ray Tibbits was heard from yesterday. He is now with friends and relatives in his old Eastern home, and is enjoying life in the proper way.

G. W. Wilson, of Rocky Point, passed through the city this morning, en route for McKinley, where he goes to spend a few days visiting his old friend, Capt. H. C. Wilcox.

A party of South Marshfielders went blackberrying on Isthms slough yesterday, and returned with 20 gallons of fine berries. The foreman on the COAST MAIL acknowledges receipt of 9 nice ones.

There will be a joint installation of the A. O. U. W. and D. of H. lodges in North Bend tonight and several members of the two orders in this city will go down to take part.

Coming on Breakwater

San Francisco, July 7.—The steamer Breakwater sailed for Marshfield today with the following passengers: Mr H. Lockhart, E. Weeks and wife, Roy P. Grant, Mrs. L. H. Hazard, Mrs. Walter H. Smith, Mrs. M. L. Tower, Wm. Wagner, Mrs. Stiffler and children, Rev. H. T. Murray, R. D. Thorne and wife, Miss Shand, Walter C. Scott, F. C. Johnson, Swan Nelson, Fred Stone, Edward Arthur Bering, F. St. Claire, E. Satlow, A. V. Finila, Jessie A. Neff, May Morton, Mrs. S. T. Schrimmler, and children, — Cicile, Nettie Cicile, Wm. O'Connell, Mrs. H. T. Cassidy, L. F. Hall.

Wants to Get Out

A. E. Suckan, who is held in the county jail under an information filed last April, charging him with raping his 14 year old daughter, has applied to the county court, through his attorneys, McKnight & Seabrook, for a writ of habeas corpus. The matter will be heard before Judge Harlocker on the 15th instant.

A Communication

Marshfield, Or., July 6, 1904.
Editor Daily Coast Mail.
Dear Sir:—

Please allow me a few lines of space valuable in your paper in which to express a few opinions.

The controversy which is going on between your paper and the North Bend Post is ludicrous in the extreme. It is really laughable to read the accusations that the Post makes against you and then peruse your well directed and "facts" replies.

Some few weeks ago when the solicitor for the Post visited the citizens of Marshfield and asked for their patronage they received a good lift as the managers will admit. Their editor painted to us in strong and flowery words that the Post would be the best paper in Southern Oregon, and we, poor suckers, believed him. We paid liberally for a bright, newsy sheet and received a paper which would honestly disgrace a high school. You have easily proven to us that their three dollar wire service is a delusion and a snare, and out side of that what have they?

Their eight page sheet is mainly composed of ads and their local news service is nil.

I do not write this because I have it in for the Post, but merely to inform you that the consensus of opinion is that your paper is one hundred per cent better than the Post.

Their BIG SATURDAY EDITION was rich. Of all the hot air friends Mr. Leofborough certainly takes the cake. One Marshfield man remarks in that EDITION that North Bend will soon take in Marshfield and Empire and thus form one large city. Wouldn't that jar you? He certainly hasn't sold his lots yet.

Such rot as was printed in that edition simply hurts the bay. People come in from the outside and expect something grand, but when they strike that "twin" of ours they simply cut and run.

Thanking you in advance for your kindness in printing this letter and assuring you that we appreciate your efforts in giving us a good paper, I will remain

Yours truly
A SUBSCRIBER

JAMES KEANE AS DR.

JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE

Brilliant Little Company Surpasses Previous Efforts in Marshfield

Last night's performance of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde", presented by the James Keane company, was witnessed by a goodly number of Marshfield's best people.

In this play, the company are almost unanimously declared to have surpassed all previous efforts.

Mr. Keane's delineation of the character of Dr. Jekyll, and his marvelous transformations into the fiendish Hyde, was more than fine; it was great! The role is certainly a very difficult and trying one, and it was enacted in a manner exceeding the highest expectations of Mr. Keane's admirers.

The other parts were admirably taken, and there was not the slightest break to mar the full success of the performance.

Tonight, The Droll Mr. Spaulding, one of the funniest farce comedies on the stage. It deals with the trials and tribulations of a young man from the country who hires out as a private secretary to an old gentleman from India. There are many funny complications and one laugh follows so rapidly upon the other that the play is considered one continuous scream.

Miss Mayne will introduce a beautiful song from "The Fortune Teller" in which play she traveled to London with Alice Neilson, last season. There will also be specialties by Mr. West and Miss Luce.

In addition to the above bill Mr. Keane will present the dream scene from the Bells, in three scenes. This is considered one of the most powerful scenes ever written.

ONE LADY'S RECOMMENDATION

SOLD FIFTY BOXES OF CHAMBERLAIN'S STOMACH AND LIVER TABLETS
I have, I believe, sold fifty boxes of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets on the recommendation of one lady here, who first bought a box of them about a year ago. She never tires of telling her neighbors and friends about the good qualities of these Tablets.—P. M. Shore, Druggist, Rochester, Ind. The pleasant purgative effect of these Tablets makes them a favorite with ladies everywhere. For sale by John Preuss.

PEASANT WOMEN IN JAPAN.

They Not Only Do the Housework but Plow the Fields.

The sewing in the kimono consists of one small and one long stitch, a species of artistic basting. There is reason in this, for whenever the kimono is washed it is ripped to pieces. This is perhaps why the Japanese, who bathe daily, wear such dirty clothes, while the Chinese, who bathe sometimes, wear such clean clothes. The kimono strips are dabbed up and down without soap, scrubbed with a brush and are ironed by drying them carefully on boards. One of the sights of a town are these boards, with their strips of silk lenning against the sides of the houses.

The peasant women not only do the housework, but out of door work as well. Like the coolies, they wear trousers and stand knee deep in the slush of the rice paddies, guide the water buffaloes at the plow or bind up the straw to dry on the trees. This is the Japanese idea of a haystack and makes the trees look as if they were wearing skirts.

One of the novel sights is the old women mowers, clipping the lawns with scissars as neatly as a lawn mower and stopping now and then to gossip over their tea. Both in China and Japan the tending of silkworms is not only done by women, but is regarded as an elegant duty. In China each year the empress inaugurates it ceremonially, as the emperor does the spring plowing. In each country the other important industry—the tea growing—is largely in the hands of women.

Two Strange Ailments.

Aphasia, or the loss of memory or comprehension of speech, is a queer complaint. A man who had forgotten his sister's name always referred to her as "that other woman." A person apparently otherwise in perfect health will substitute the name of one article for another totally different in the most ludicrous way.

Amusia is a form of aphasia which prevents the patient from remembering music. One amusic, unconscious of the oddity, sang the "Marseillaise" throughout to the syllables "tan, tan, tan." On the other hand, another aphasic, also a Frenchman, could speak but a single word, but could sing the "Marseillaise" correctly.
