It is with much pleasure that we convey the cheering news to the readers of the DEMOCRAT that the reports which we receive from all parts of the county are to the effect that democrats are closing up their ranks preparatory to the gaining of a big victory next Monday.

The only thing to be regretted about the report that Thurman of Ohio had agreed to accept the nomination for the vice presidency on the ticket with Cleveland is that it is not true. Cleveland and Thurman! What an invincible ticket it would be.

The motto of the republican leaders in Congress: "Of course the tariff ought to be reformed. We have always said so and we say it still. But it must be reformed without changing it in any way, don't you know."

A keen-sighted democrat of the "Forks," who understands fully the political feeling in that democratic region, says democrats in that section are more thoroughly united than they have been for years. There will be straighter voting among democrats, and a strong determination to win all along the line. He says they are closing up the lines into a solid phalanx, not only for the contest next Monday, but for the great presidential contest that is now pending.

The democrats of Santiam precinct declare they do not propose to stand down towards the foot of the democratic class any longer. They propose to increase their majority, so that after the election they will stand above Harrisburg precinct, and Harrisburg has accepted the challenge and the contest will be most interesting next Monday as the majority is very nearly equal. Boys get in and drill with a twisting emphasis on the word drill.

The people of Oregon will find it greatly to their interests to be represented in the lower house of Congress by a democrat, as that body is democratic. Mr. Hermann has introduced a great many bills, but he does not have influence sufficient to secure their passage. Dolph says the interests of Oregon are neglected in the house. Then why should not the people elect a man who will be in harmony with the majority of Congress, so that he may have influence enough with the majority of the house to secure some legislation beneficial to Oregon? In view of this fact the people owe it to themselves to elect Hon. John M. Gearin, who will be in accord with the majority of that body, and can therefore do something for the interests of the state.

The Herald persists in its falsehood that Judge Whitney said that he would bolt the presidential ticket this fall if he were not elected County Judge. Well, if that paper from sheer choice desires to place itself in this pitiable plight before a people who believe in fair dealing, so be it. But it ought, to cheerfully shoulder all the shame which such a course entails, and not attempt to shift any part of it to the shoulders of any one else, which it evidently means to do, by bringing in the name of O. H. Irvine. O. H. Irvine will not back up that paper in such a course of slander and misrepresentation. The Herald is evidently very much secured to find that its course is making votes for Whitney instead of weakening him. The friends of Whitney are anxious that the Herald should repeat this falsehood every day until after the election.

And now comes the story that Blaine's house at Augusta, Maine, was broken into some time ago and all his political and business correspondence overhauled and some of it abstracted. The associated press very kindly informs us that it is supposed that the robbery was perpetrated with the expectation of finding something among Blaine's private papers which might be used to his political injury if needed. This is one of the old sensational tricks peculiar to Blaine and his pet followers. Everybody remembers the sensational story of four years ago, in which democrats were accused of erasing the date of birth from the head stone of Blaine's first born, when, in fact, no one could be more interested in preserving the date on the stone than the democrats, and no one more interested in destroying that date than Blaine himself.

The campaign to which the Republicans are inviting the people is not wanting in interest. It is prompted by the audacity of despair. Founded as it is on the necessity of winning votes on behalf of measures burdensome in the last degree to the vast majority of the electors, it relies for success upon misrepresentation and arrogant assumption.

It certainly is dutiful and to the best interests of the country that legislation, if protective at all, should care first for the masses. The rich can look out for themselves, but the laborers must find a friend, a defender in the public policy. If that is not the genius of our institutions, then our institutions are simply boastful falsehoods.

Here is your Democratic platform, gentlemen: The lift from the people the excessive burden of taxation inherited from Republican management; to expend the revenue in accord with the principles of strict economy and the directions of the Constitution.

The sentiment of the country has been steadily moving forward as the Republican party has stood still. It is only necessary to find how far they are apart to tell how badly they will be beaten at the coming election.

The Philadelphia Press concedes Blaine 377 votes on the first ballot at the Republican convention and estimates that 560 delegates are for the Maine man for first or second choice. Pretty good showing for a man that is not a candidate.

A republican living about four or five miles east of Albany says he wants a Sheriff who has education enough at least to add a short column of figures. He says he will therefore vote for John Smallman.

Under date of May 17th Blaine writes a letter from Paris to Whitelaw Reid in which he finally declines to be a candidate.

Brownsville.

Saturday evening the 26th inst., Hon. J. K. Weatherford spoke for one and a half hours to the citizens of this place on the subject of the tariff. Mr. Weatherford made us an unusually good speech every word being right to the point and his figures were past disputing. Temporary officers for a permanent Tariff Reform Club were elected and a committee on permanent organization appointed to report Saturday evening, June 2nd, when permanent organization will be effected.

The county candidates were here Monday the 25th and spoke to a large and patient audience for over three hours. Hon. J. J. Whitney was the first speaker and he showed the people here how much better the affairs of Linn county had been managed than those of other counties. Mr. Blackburn followed but he could not begin to touch Mr. Whitney's points. Mr. Whitney made several votes for himself and the comparison caused Blackburn a corresponding loss. Another thing that will not help Mr. Blackburn any here is the fact that Capt. N. B. Humphrey is making a special effort in his behalf especially to defeat Mr. Whitney, which confirms in the minds of the people here that Judge Whitney is certainly an honest man. All the candidates acquitted themselves very well. Mr. Jeff Meyers was present with a large and very handsome banquet at the close of his speech by Miss Idilla Stanard. The entire ticket will get a good vote here. There will not be anything like the scratching done there two years ago.
