A FAULTY CALCULATION.

Mr. Harrison in his letter of acceptance, in attempting to meet the democratic demand for a reduction of the surplus mency in the treasury of the United States, says that the government should buy bonds,not now due, and retire them. Democrats object to this on the ground that bonds are at too high a premium to justify such purchases. The San Francisco Chronicle has attempted to show, that, as a business proposition,it would be better to buy bonds that are to become due in 1907 at 30 per cent premium than to pay 4 per cent interest on them for 19 years and then pay them at This is the way the & hronicle figures:

"A $100 band due in 1907 has 19 years to run. The interest on that bond at 4 per cent a year will amount in 19 years to 76 cent a year will amount in 19 years to 76 per cent; that is, in 1907 the government will have paid, to redeem that bond, $10.00 of principal and $76 of interest, making $176. That bond can be purchased now for $130 and canceled. Is it not apparent that every such bond so purchased and canceled saves the people of the United States $46?"

Now, the fallacy in this argument is so palpable that a "wayfaring man though a fool" would not have made such a faulty argument. Let us state the proposition in such a familiar way that any man or boy who understands the principles of percentage and interest may calculate for himself : A holds B's promissory note for $10 apayable in 19 years with interest at 4 per cent.

B concludes that he would like to set le off the note and not allow it to run the 19 years. A holds the note at a premium of $30, that is he demands that B shall pay $130 to redeem his $100 note. The question now is, would it be better for B to pay the $130 to take up his note or retain the $130 in his business and pay interest on the note for 19 years, luterest in the general business of the country ranging from 6 to 10 per cent. If the note runs 19 years at 4 per cent the interest for that time will amount to $76, so that at the end of the 19 years he will have paid $176 to redeem his $100 note. On the contrary, if he should take the $130 and put it out at interest at say 6 per cent for 19 years the interest will amount to $148.20, or the $130 would amount to $278.20. Deducting the $176 from the $278.20 and we find that B would make $102.20 by loaning his $130 at 6 per cent interest and allowing his note to run the 19 years. If there would be a saving to the debtor of $102.20 on a $100 note or bond, how much would be saved on $709,-000,000 bonds to become due in 1907. It would amount to the enormous sum of $724,393,000, a sum the saving of which to the people of the United States would be a matter of no small moment. So it will be seen that as a matter of business, stripped entirely of all party considerations the proposition of Mr. Harrison is one that no sound business man would make, and what is good business sense and management for a man in business will be good sense and good management if carried into the affairs of government.

CONKLING AND BLAINE.

Peter B. Crandall, of Ithaca, New York an old friend of Conkling's, has given out for publication the following letter received by him in 1866 that speaks for itself. In an interview Mr. Crandall says that he has always been a republican but cannot vote for Harrison who is dominated by Blaine Read the letter and you will then see why there is such a stir among Conkling's friends in New York:

friends in New York:

May 6, 1866,

My Dear Sir: I am glad to receive your letter. By this you will see in full the latter passages in the Frye-Blaine matter. Let me know what you think. You will not find fault with the self-command of your representative when called on without a moment's warning in the presence of the nation to answer such a libel. What is the effect on our people? Mr. Blaine is said to be too near the recruiting business at Augusta, Me., where he lives, and where there was another Haddock affair in crime, but not in conviction and punishment. He (Blaine) has grown suddenly rich out of government jobs. His brother was convicted of forgery and sent to the State's prison, I am told, and all around you will see there is a very strong flavor about the whole thing. If where you and I are known snyone can be found to believe the foul imputation put on us we have lived in vain. How is this?

Your sincere friend,
Roscor Conkling.

BROWNELL & STANARD.

The attempt of the republican leaders of San Francisco to connect democrats with the disgrazeful and murderous scenes attending the republican primaries in that city last week is as shabby a trick to make partisan capital as has yet been brought to notice. Buck'ey,against whom these charges are made, has openly and in the most emphatic way denied every and each charge and challenged the proof, which it is quite safe to say will never be furnished. Rudelick, the present republican County Clerk, says it was a factional fight between republican leaders, who have for years been siriving for the mastery. There is to be an investigation by the grand jury and the guilty one should receive the full punish ment imposed by law, whether they be republicans or democrats.
