Lebanon.

From the E. A.:

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Kirk, of Albany, came out to Lebanon yesterday. Mr. Kirk went on up to his father's near Santiam, and Mrs. Kirk is visiting friends in this city.

Miss Breckenridge left yesterday for Portland, where she expects to spend about two weeks getting the latest styles, shades, shapess, etc., in hats for her fall trade.

J. H. Robertson and family, who live two and one-half miles south of town, will leave in about two weeks for Nebraska, having traded their farm for a place in that state.

Prof. L. H. Baker has finished his term of school in Tillamook county, and is now at Salem serving on the state board of examiners. He will move his family to the Capital city the last of the month.

G. H. Ross, who is a large chicken raiser near Waterloo, cooped up 140 fine young chickens recently for market, and the next morning they were all gone, some person knowing the run of the place having stolen them. The matter is being investigated by the authorities, and arrests are looked for daily.

J. Knowland, a merchant tailor of San Bernardino, Cal., in company with I. Viereck of Albany, was in Lebanon yesterday. Mr. Knowland was looking for a location, and after "taking in" our city decided to locate here. He has rented a residence and the room back of the bank for his tailoring establishment, and intends carrying in stock a fine line of tailoring goods. Mr. Knowland comes well recommended, and as Lebanon needs a first-class tailor, we bespeak for him a liberal patronage.

Tonight and Sunday partly cloudy, occasional threatening. River 9 to 10 feet. F. M. FRENCH, Dispt. Ma.

AT CASCADIA.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT:

We read in the DEMOCRAT of the Mazamas the Yachats party etc., and so have concluded to tell you a little about our camp.

Cascadia is a very pleasant and euphonious name for the beautiful summer resort Mr. Geisendorffer has, with much industry, patience and taste, dug, hewn and carved out among a wilderness of trees, mountains and rocks on the banks of the turbulent and picturesque Santiam. Nature has also added her charms in great profusion, and we doubt if a more attractive place in which to spend the warm summer months can be found on this coast, certainly not a more delightfully restful place.

The hotel has been enlarged and otherwise improved during the past year and the accommodations are now most excellent. The camp-ground has also been enlarged and is now one of the most pleasant imaginable. The springs are still sending forth their cool, refreshing, health-giving waters. Many persons claim to be greatly benefited by their medicinal qualities. The mineral baths are also a great luxury and are said to relieve all the pains and aches that flesh is heir to.

Mr. G. is very obliging and careful to supply the needs of his guests and campers.

The camps or tents have numbered about 110, and many of these contain six or eight persons. As people are coming and going all the time we can scarcely estimate the number on the ground. The camp is usually quiet. There is a good, orderly class of people here. The young people sing their coon songs and have their cake-walks and other amusements around the campfires and occasionally the Albany College "yell" may be heard ringing out with true college spirit, giving evidence that a number of her students are here. In the hush of the evening, there has floated over the camp sweet strains of music, old songs and soul-stirring hymns announcing the presence of Mr. Ed. Stannard and his accomplished wife, of Brownsville. That village is well represented here, so also, is Lebanon, Salem and Albany.

We have had preaching service each Sabbath. Rev. Sturtevant, of Albany, and Rev. Schmitt, of Harrisburg, have conducted the services. The attendance has been good.

We have lived on the fat of the land here. A number of deer have been killed and with true mountain liberality, the hunters have shared their game with all the campers. The trout seem a little shy and hard to entrap but there are a few who are skillful enough to secure them. It is said of one of our anglers, (Mr. Oris Archibald) that he does not need to go to the stream to fish, for the speckled beauties just tumble into his basket from the hill-sides. We cannot vouch for the truth of this statement, but we do know that he always returned with a basket full of the most delicious trout we ever tasted. May it be our good fortune to be his neighbor when we visit these parts again.

Mr. Schlossers' sudden illness threw a shadow over us all. We hoped, however, that medical skill might relieve him and bring him back to health again, but today we learn that he has passed away. Truly his summons came swiftly. Albany people are well and happy, and all send warm greetings to the DEMOCRAT.
