At Portland last week 35 prominent Masons of Oregon took the 32nd degree, next to the highest. Among them was only one from Albany, Mr. L. C. Marshall. Several other Albany men, though, have heretofore taken this degree. The Journal gives a good picture of the thirty five.

THE CARNIVAL.

Opens This Evening Near the Court House.

From the present outlook the Woodmen of the World's Street Fair and Carnival, which opens this evening, is an assured success.

The attractions will be furnished by the famous Dixie Carnival Company, an aggregation presenting ten high class moral shows. The company comes highly recommended by both press and public from many cities where they have exhibited.

The Carnival Company arrived in the city yesterday afternoon, from Roseburg, where they just closed a very successful engagement.

The attractions to be found upon the midway are as follows:

"The Electric Theater," with four distinct shows under its tent for one price of admission. "The Statue Turning to Life," "Alma, the queen of all fire dancers," "Zandalla, in the picture and flower dances, and a special production of the eruption of Mt. Pelee.

"Sampson," the largest snake on exhibition, 27 feet in length, weight over 300 pounds and is 40 years old.

"Luna, the Artist's model," direct from Paris, in a series of poses plastic. Projectoscope pictures of the "Life of the American Firemen," "A Gambler's Crime," and "The Electrocuting of Czolgosz."

"The Dog and Monkey Circus" has twelve performing dogs and eight trick monkeys.

"Dixie Land," where is seen ten colored artists from the "Sunny South," featuring Joe Dokes, the man that made the mule laugh.

"The Ornamental Glass Blowers." Every article made by the glass blowers is given to visitors.

"No Name, the Malay wonder," "Easau, the snake eater," "Laughing Gallery," and the Swiss Village.

The big ferris wheel is also here to amuse everybody.

Numerous free attractions will take place daily.

A complete program of the week's festivities will be given in tomorrow's paper.

The management desires to state that ladies and children can attend the Carnival without escorts, in perfect safety, without fear of being insulted.

TUESDAY.

The Modern Travellers.

First Citizen (who has been absent from town)—"So the Modern Travellers Club have been getting themselves some books."

Second Citizen—"No." First Citizen—"I certainly heard some thing of the kind!"

Second Citizen—"Yes, but this is the way of it. They have set on foot a movement to get books for a public library free to all who live in the town."

First Citizen—"Good scheme! Grant's Pass, Eugene and Salem are all ahead in which to take appeals to the Commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington."

Several Land Office Decisions.

The land office at Oregon City has recently rendered three important decisions in contest cases over claims on the Crabtree. In Brenner against Leever, Waddle against Sexton, Waddle against Gaines, Jones against Gaines and Brenner against Moore it was held that the defendants had not resided on the claims as the law requires and that the contestants were entitled to verdicts. The defendants will have thirty days in which to take appeals to the Commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington.

The county seat of Union county was ordered changed from Union to La Grande by a vote of 2553 to 1003. On June 16 people in La Grande voted against it and only 12 people in Union for it.

The average republican majority in Union County was 500, and yet C. Pennington, a son of Hon. S. M. Pennington, of this city, running on the democratic ticket, was elected by 404 plurality.

THE CARNIVAL.

The Woodmen's Street Fair and Carnival was opened last night with a rush, the different attractions being well patronized. Back and forth the people surged, stopping now in front of one show to listen to the speller and then moving on to another. Although the first night is always the one when people turn out to size the affairs up from the outside still many purchases of tickets for the many shows and all were evidently well pleased.

The attractions of the Dixie Carnival Company, are all they advertise them to be, each and every one is worth the price of admission. They are all strictly moral, clean and up-to-date, there are no "Little Egypt" or "Hula Hula Dancers," to shock the modesty of any one, and no "Cherry Sisters" so extremely bad, though no immoral, to make one think he has been robbed of his money.

The feature show upon the midway is the "Electric Theater," where one sees a big city show for ten cents. Where is presented "The Statue Turning to Life," faithfully portraying that beautiful story of "Pygmalion and Galatea," "Alma, queen of all fire dancers," "Prof. Roberts in illustrated songs and a special production of the Eruption of Mt. Pelee.

"Dixie Land" is certainly the fun factory of the midway. Presenting Joe Dokes, the man that made the mule laugh and ten other colored artists. "Luna, the artist's model, in poses plastic and transformation scenes, is clever, while the projectoscope pictures of the "Electrocuting of Czolgosz," "Life of the American firemen," and "The Gambler's Crime" are entertaining as well as instructive.

"Sampson," the big snake is by far the largest snake ever on exhibition in this city.

"Easau the snake eater," the "Ornamental Glass Blowers," "Laughing Gallery," Swiss Village, Dog and Monkey Show and "No Name," the Malay wonder, all attracting attention.

Among the free attractions, one of the most notable is the daring feats of John Mangles, diving from a high tower into a tank.

Band Concerts take place daily. Berger Bros., equilibrists, twice daily. The Woodmen will give a grand ball Friday evening for the entertainment of their friends.
