

A PENBLETON LETTER

A Quiet Day in Pendleton

Sunday the 6th day of August will long be remembered as one of the quietest days that Pendleton has ever experienced. Last week the District Attorney notified all the saloons to close all their places of business at 12 o'clock Saturday night until 12 o'clock Sunday night.

This matter of closing the saloons was started by the farmers, so that their harvest crews could not get drunk on Sunday and demoralize their threshing business on Monday, and in a great many instances would have to hunt a new crew, which is a great detriment, also a big expense to them.

For nearly three weeks the weather has been intensely hot, not only during the day but almost all night. Many a night the Rooster has taken a big palm leaf fan to bed with him and used it till long after midnight and wished often for the cool Willamette breeze.

To give the readers of the DEMOCRAT an idea of the heat up here, one man up in the Walla Walla Valley lost thirteen horses one afternoon in the harvest field and had to stop. One young man in the hay field seven miles from here said it was 122 degrees in the field where he worked.

There is lots of building going on in Pendleton and business seems to be good in every line.

Mr. Ed Hughes has moved to Portland. Ed came to Eastern Oregon five years ago this fall and rented a wheat ranch about 12 miles from Pendleton. Ed was very successful as a farmer, and I understand cleaned up about $11,000, raising wheat during his stay here.

This letter was laid aside and another week is about gone and it is still hot. I understand that the city dads met at 4 o'clock today (Friday) and voted unanimously to allow all business houses, except the saloons, to open next Sunday.

Chauncey Dewey says he will not resign as an Equitable director. The proceedings instituted by the Attorney General, however, may save him the trouble.

All a girl has to know in this world is how to manage men, and she doesn't have to learn that, because it "comes natural" to her.

Whatever else, for goodness sake, don't laugh in the marriage service. It is no laughing matter nowadays.

The Maryland republicans are importing "niggers" from Virginia to help carry the election this fall. The result will be to turn the white republicans into democrats—that is all.

If, however, Russia should profit by the experience, she has gained in the last year, $1,000,000,000 will not be an excessive price to pay for it. Experience comes high, you know.

Grafts

Law's delay is the lawyers meat. Some people mistake patience for sense.

Most men who pay as they go are very slow travellers.

Gossip and ice cream spoons open many feminine mouths.

No man with a torpid liver can be a successful optometrist.

It sometimes happens that a man lies when he smiles and says nothing.

A woman in politics is about as ornamental as a diamond in the mud puddle.

There would be no such thing as a silent tomb if women had their way.

Purple day at the fair.

Oregon's Advantages

Prof. Alexander Scott, for many years a very efficient instructor in Albany College, writing in the New Concord, Ohio, Enterprise, speaks impartially as follows:

I am often asked questions of different kinds in regard to Oregon. Thinking that others are also interested in it I have concluded to tell the readers of the Enterprise some of the things that I have learned about it during my residence of 13 years in Albany.

In regard to the climate, taking the whole year into consideration, I think that of Oregon is the best I have ever found. It is true that there is a great deal of rain during the winter, but one soon becomes accustomed to it.

During the whole winter there were no more than two inches of snow, and I did not see the thermometer below 25 degrees. In other parts of the state it is colder, especially in Eastern Oregon, where there is more snow and wind.

A German vessel has been captured by the Japanese, perhaps by mistake, and perhaps as a hint to the Kaiser to keep on his side of the fence, and let other people fight out their own quarrels.

In the midst of a torrid summer—while yellow fever is seizing the country, with the Equitable about to be probed to its lowest depths, and Roosevelt preparing to wrestle with Congress, Peary's excursion to the North Pole, does not seem to be such a foolish venture after all.

Japan repeats that she does not want the Philippines. But will Japan kindly give us the name of any one who does want them.

A friend of ours wonders how it is that men succeed, who mind their own business. It is because there is so little competition in that line.

Korea was once known as "the land of the morning calm." But the Japanese long ago drove out all the "calm" and took the "land" before noon.

If Andrew Carnegie succeeds in escaping the disgrace of dying rich, he will have to work over the "union limit" in giving away money.

There are some persons who will doubt Japan's love for America so long as she refuses to show any disposition to relieve us of the Philippines.

"What is a kiss?" asked a young authoress in the Boston Transcript. We cannot define it, but will be glad to demonstrate it, if the proper material is furnished.

Frenzied Thought

"The Equitable disturbance will blow over" says Senator Dewey with the same assurance the man used who told Noah that he did not think it was going to be much of a shower anyway.

We will insist that these are the remains of John Paul Jones until someone claims them and proves his claim.

Mr. Carnegie has founded a library in Philadelphia for negroes. "Dream books" and hints on poultry raising should have a prominent place on the shelves, also a few on "watermilyons" might be added.

The statement that J. D. Rockefeller is pining for a kind word is a reflection upon the gratitude of President Harper, of the University of Chicago.

Another blow for the temperance advocates—the price of lemons has gone up, until rickety is cheaper than lemonade.

The will of a New York woman, who had bequeathed her money to dogs, was broken by her sons, who are now throwing the money to the dogs.

This cotton business is so completely saturated with taint, that we have about decided to keep on wearing silk. It is a lucky thing for Hoch that this is the age of long-distance telephones.

Probably it will be found that three weeks is ample time for the Senate to punch any form of railway rate bill full of holes.

Secretary Wilson feels that his new patent system for weeding out grafters is another great improvement effected by the Agricultural Department.

A German vessel has been captured by the Japanese, perhaps by mistake, and perhaps as a hint to the Kaiser to keep on his side of the fence, and let other people fight out their own quarrels.

Alfred Eisenhart, of the Hoffman House, Eugene, was held up at 1:40 o'clock this morning by a red headed stranger, who demanded the money from the cash register, but there was none and he fled. Eisenhart notified the police and Croner and Farrington started in pursuit. Farrington found the man and ordered him to stop, when the fellow began firing, hitting Farrington in the fleshy part of the left leg, close to the main artery, causing a bad wound, and then fled. He is now being hunted through the valley.

A Threshing Incident.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT; SHEDD, Aug. 15.—A Threshing row occurred while the McBride crew were threshing at the farm of Frank Hulbert four miles northwest of Shedd. The trouble started by a young man trying to create a disturbance in the crew by stubble dragging one of the hands. This was resented by the crew and the young man himself was stubble dragged. He then challenged any horse in the outfit to run against his mare. This was promptly accepted by one of the crew, who agreed to run his horse Booker T. Washington. Both animals have considerable local reputation as runners. Instead of getting his horse, it was claimed that the boy was hurt. The crew wishing no trouble agreed to pay him ten dollars. The claim that the boy was hurt was considered ridiculous. The incident created considerable excitement.
