Making a Live Campaign

Chas. V. Galloway is making a splendid campaign for congressman of this district. Whatever the result, which seems very favorable to his chances for election, he is establishing a record as an orator and a reasoner of rare ability. His addresses are as highly commended by republican papers as by the democratic papers from a non-political standpoint, viewing his efforts as a speaker and a man. Mr. Galloway has shown very plainly the fallacy of the claims of republicans that this state needs a solid delegation to secure proper legislation by citing the work of Oregon's solid delegations in the past, leaving no doubt that better work can be done for the state by a live, progressive democrat, than by the average republican. States with a mixed delegation have fared better as a rule than those with a solid delegation.

Mr. Galloway has shown a depth of thought and powers in presenting his arguments rare these days. Besides this he is securing the confidence of all classes of people who believe in his sterling manhood.

The Grange.

It is an interesting fact that the Grange in their deliberations generally stand for the best there is in government. When they speak out on important questions they generally do so regardless of politics, rising above party. This has been noticed on a good many occasions, a fact to the credit of the Grange. The Grange has a way of placing much on the character of men while standing for principle. While it is an organization for the benefit of the farmer himself and his family it in its influence reaches out beyond the farm, standing for the best in a society and government. In the life of the farmer the Grange stands for much and exerts an influence that is great.

Has Always Worked for the People.

Hon. M. A. Miller in the past has proven himself one of the most useful members of the state legislature. He has always stood for what he believed was right and in the interest of the people. The state legislature has never had a better friend of the common schools. He has taken a leading position against normal school graft and other grafts, and has done it with a force and in a manner that told. At the same time he has favored whatever was in the interest of the state and its progress.

D. S. Smith is the biggest and best man in character and attainments running for the office of sheriff. Oregon has never had a more efficient sheriff than Mr. Smith, a fact testified to by those familiar with his work when sheriff, and particularly by the lawyers of the city who have had business in his office.

In the matter of efficiency, which is what the people are demanding, B. M. Payne has proven his right to be considered one of the best in the state, in fact there are men familiar with the workings of the different offices in Oregon who declared that he is the best.

The Democrats appreciating the efficient manner in which Hugh Fisher, republican, has served the people as surveyor, and William Fortmiller as coroner, and endorsed their nominations, showing that they act in favor of men as well as talk in favor of men.

The office of county commissioner is an important one which should not be overlooked. A big improvement can be made by the election of H. R. Powell, of Brownsville, a man of experience and splendid character.

A. J. Caldwell, the democratic nominee for treasurer, is a native of this county, a young man of absolute integrity, who if elected will personally attend to the duties of the office.

The democratic representative ticket is a strong one, composed of men who are representative in their character, successful in their own business affairs.

L. A. Phelps is in every respect competent for the office of recorder, a reliable young man who could be depended upon to keep the records clear.

Chamberlain and Withycombe

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

PORTLAND, May 22.—The campaign of Governor Chamberlain, so far as he has made any, has been in the nature of a series of ovations, and while under the auspices of the democratic committees in the various towns which he has visited, have been almost entirely non-partisan. Governor Chamberlain is running on his record and that has proven acceptable to the great body of citizens, regardless of party. This has removed his campaign from the realm of partisan politics.

The policy that is being pursued by the Governor's opponent has been diametrically opposite. In every speech he has made he has placed the party above the man and has raised the cry of partisanship. His rallying slogan has been "Do not vote for a democrat." Every ingenious subterfuge has been used to create a bitter party feeling. The wail, "Save me or I perish," has gone forth from the veterinary surgeon to every voter who has ever been connected with the republican organization. There has been no attempt on the part of even the most radical of Dr. Withycombe's supporters to deny the fact that Governor Chamberlain has made a splendid governor, but they ask the people to turn him down simply because "he is a democrat." The most reliable news that can be obtained from the field is that the people of Oregon will not respond to the party lash any longer.

A number of events tend to show that what is known as the independent vote is larger in Oregon this year than it ever was before. More men in Oregon are willing to lay aside party feeling in order to put the best and cleanest men in office. Many of the newcomers to the state, while they were republicans in their former eastern homes, have little faith in the Oregon republican machine and will not vote for the republican nominees. The Oregon brand of republicans do not look good to them.

In his speeches throughout the state, Dr. Withycombe wades into the land office frauds, but his speeches show that he really wants to stand in with the land sharks. He advocates the abolition of the State Land Office and State Land Agent. Through this office, appointed by Governor Chamberlain and during his administration, the state has been able to run down and cancel the fraudulent certificates of hundreds of thousands of acres of land. The Puters, the McKinleys, the Kelliher and such like, were put out of business by the State Land Agent and the policy of Governor Chamberlain. During the administration of Governor Chamberlain, land to the value of millions of dollars has been saved to the state. Fraudulent occupation of these public lands was a part of the machine republican graft and it is no surprising that Dr. Withycombe is in favor of doing away with the land office and the land agent.

W. C. Hawley, the candidate for Congress in the First District who travels with the Dr. a great deal of the time, is the chief orator of the campaign. He makes a better appearance before the public than the gubernatorial candidate, but his misrepresentations are equally as patent and glaring.

Just at present the chief republican campaign thunder is to pose Dr. Withycombe as a martyr and assert that he is opposed because of his English birth. This is a palpable falsehood. No person, party or organization or newspaper cares where Dr. Withycombe was born and as a matter of fact not the slightest criticism was ever offered on account of his foreign birth. Some criticism was made on account of his coming to this country and enjoying the blessings of free America and waiting 17 years before deciding to become a citizen. It was only after he desired to become a candidate for the legislature, that he suddenly became intensely patriotic and would be an alien no longer. A desire for office was the inspiration for citizenship. A legislative bee in the bonnet was more potent with him than the American eagle.

Frenzied Thoughts.

When the weather bureau predicts rain three days in succession, and it fails to materialize, it turns about and predicts clear weather. That brings it.

Nothing seems to make the neighbors quite so impatient, as the happy, trusting confidence a woman has in a husband who doesn't deserve it.

The papers are now printing the pictures of the San Francisco heroes, but so far they seem to have overlooked the man who insisted on paying his hotel bill while the building was falling down.

Americans have won the swimming record in the Olympian games at Athens, and Judge Parker now has something cheerful to think of for a change.

SATURDAY MAY 26

A Big Democratic Demonstration.

On Saturday evening next, May 26th, at 8 o'clock p. m. in this City will be held the biggest demonstration of the campaign. Governor George E. Chamberlain and Hon. C. V. Galloway, will be present and address the assembled citizens of Linn and adjoining counties. Preparations are being made for the largest gathering of voters in the history of the City.

Keep the date in mind and tell all your neighbors. Assurances are already made of large crowds from Scio, and other points in the "Forks" as well as from Lebanon, Brownsville, Harrisburg, Halsey, Shedd and in fact from all parts of the county and from surrounding counties.
