BIGGER THAN GOLD.

A Great Industry Well Exploited.

There was a large attendance at the meeting called at the Alco Club parlors last night to meet Prof. G. L. McKay, dairy expert of the Iowa Agricultural College, prominent dairymen coming from different parts of the county.

Dr. Ellis, president of the Commercial Club presided.

Prof. McKay spoke in a very entertaining and instructive way upon the subject. He spoke of the large number of prominent animals, like the Herefords, Shorthorns, Jerseys, etc., that England has furnished the world, and then stated that Oregon possesses the splendid natural characteristics enjoyed by England for dairying, only handicapped by one thing, distance from the market, but even then the finished product butter can be sent to New York for 2 cents a pound and to Liverpool for 2-1/2 cents. The annual value of the dairy product in the U. S. is $700,000,000, greater than the gold and silver output of the entire world. The great bulk is in seven states and overdone. Wheat exhausts the soil, the cow continually enriches it. In Holland dairying is made to pay on $500 land and in Jersey on land worth $1000 an acre. It increases the value.

In this valley dairying should increase the value to $100 an acre. In Illinois it is $130 to $150 an acre. In the matter of breed he spoke of the popularity of the Short Horn strain in Iowa, but believed generally grades were better than full bloods, and the sires should be from the best milking strain. Alfalfa, clover and vetch are proving of immense value to the industry. Observation of experts makes it probable that we can do in this country what has been done in Europe in the advancement of the great industry.

Dr. Withycombe, of the O. A. C. spoke of the splendid conditions for dairying in this valley and how it can be made to pay when done right. The O. A. C. has kept twenty cows on five acres. Washington county was cited as an example of what dairying will do for a country. It means more money and better conditions for the farmer with the improvement of the soil.

J. W. Bailey, state food commissioner spoke of the progress of dairying in a few years and now there are 250 creameries in the state and 125 cheese factories, and advocated the pushing of the industry.

H. E. Lounsbury, of the S. P. told of his practical study of the creamery business, in order to familiarize himself with it, getting some actual experience with an apron under E. J. Seeley and W. A. Kimsey in the Albany Creamery seven years ago. Linn County, Or., is three times as large as Linn county, Iowa and its population is four thousand more, but the value of the farm land in the Iowa Linn is $19,000-000 while in the Oregon Linn it is $7,000,000, showing the possibilities here for development. He referred to Albany as the trade and business center of the valley. In closing reference was made to the immense business that will be needed to overcome the S. P.'s big expenditures being made for improvements, $2,600,000 for betterments, $3,500,000 for the Coos Bay road and $4,800,000 for the extension from Natron to Ontario.

G. L. Brown, of the Hazelwood creamery spoke of the development of his plant until it makes 6,000 pounds a day. It gets cream everywhere. One of the best herds in his list were Halsey cows, ten in number, averaging $93 per cow. The general run is $50 to $70, and the average price of butter for the farmer through the Hazelwood is 26 cents.

Several questions were asked. It was learned that the milking machines are proving a success, particularly the Burrell and Globe. The equipment is two or three pails, costing about $75 a pail, a pump, costing about $100 and an engine.

Among others Stephen Freerksen made some suggestions.
