

Early Oregon Schools.

Cyrus H. Walker in the Oregon Teacher's Monthly:

Go with me no further back than the days of '49 and '50's in Oregon, when as a youth I attended school at Forest Grove in the old log church, built from unpeeled fir logs, cracks filled with chinking and daubed with mud, rough boards for a floor, rough door with wooden hinges, a large lock mostly of wood and no door knobs, roof of clapboards held down by poles pinoen; style, a huge fire place in one end of the room, benches of rough lumber, four small windows of about 9x10 glass, for writing desks boards nailed to the wall horizontally and slanting toward the benches, for pens quills were used sharpened now and then by our teacher Rev. Cushing Ellis, pioneer missionary of 1838 and the founder of Whitman College. His school apparatus was a ferrule; the equipment a hand-bell and a rude table and ruder chair.

The foregoing description is perhaps typical of all the schools then in Oregon, except those at Salem and Oregon City; for Portland was then but a small hamlet in the midst of a dark wilderness of stately firs.

The Salem institute I visited in the fall of 1843. The school in Oregon City, at first taught in the Methodist church, I attended during the latter part of 1848, and up to the summer of 1849, our teacher being Mrs. J. Quinn Thornton, who in latter years resided in Albany. She it was who gave the name of Forest Grove to the Oregon town. Thornton lake over in Benton county, near Albany, was named after Mr. Thornton. There were no public funds, so our schooling in those early years was all paid for at from $6 to $8 for each quarter's tuition, hence we first Oregonians owe our Oregon nothing for our limited education. Why, the girls and boys of today know more at 15 years than we did at 21, in a general knowledge of the arts and sciences, and in some things more than we now know practically. The wonder is that, in view of modern text books and equipment, we children of the pioneers got an education sufficient to permit us to even be near the rear column of the procession marching on to a glorious destiny.

There is one thing, however, that we can crow over; we learned to spell. Spelling schools were the rule and there was thorough drilling.

Grand pioneer days! What thrilling memories crowd within our mind's vision as we recall them, but we are glad we are living in a grander age, sweeping on to higher standards of knowledge and achievement. What is yet to be along educational lines we cannot fully predict.

Oregon Things.

(Special Correspondence.)

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 9.—My! but how Oregon is growing! The same glad note of progress—new buildings, new people—comes from many sections.

Great interest is manifested in the Oregon Irrigation Association at Grants Pass this week.

The Oregon State Fair at Salem gives assurance of being the best ever held. There is a disposition here to make "Portland Day", Sept. 19th, a greater success from the standpoint of attendance than ever before.

Secretary Taft's reception by the Oregon Development League broke all records. Many people went to the Armory as early as six o'clock. The entire state was represented.

The noted Kikujiro Iahii, Chief of the Japanese Bureau of Foreign Commerce, was recently entertained here and took pains to say that war between his country and the United States was impossible.

A Tillamook cheese is on display here which weighs 356 pounds and represents the product for one day of 190 cows. It will be cut and sold at retail for Thanksgiving.

Travel is enormous. Many families are coming to the state and for many hours during the day the Union Station shows an activity similar to that witnessed at a great national convention. They are ticketed for all points throughout the State and this travel will continue until the close of the colonial rates, October 31st.

Portland artists are to be congratulated upon securing better photographs of Secretary Taft than have ever been taken before. None of his pictures in the Eastern papers compare with those printed here.

Frenzied Thoughts.

Of course, very little, if any, "renaissance Morocco leather" comes from Morocco these days, but that will not operate as a bar in raising the price and blaming it on the present trouble over there.

A Chicago judge has ruled that "ladies without escort must not loiter in saloons." Chicago is getting very particular.

The King of Siam is reported to have purchased a $75,000 thimble for one of his wives while visiting London recently. As he has something like 5,000 wives at home, it is evident that his total expenditure for knickknacks is going to be really interesting.

It's Easy.

Did you ever count the words in a column of ordinary newspaper print? asks an exchange. There are about two thousand words in a column. Suppose you sit down and write a thousand words on some subject and then another until you have written twelve thousand. Try it and see if it is right easy. Keep the gait up for a month. Then chase a local item all over town and after you have gotten all the facts, condense them into a few lines—an hour's work that can be read in a few seconds. Do this for a dozen items that seem insignificant after they are printed, but which you know are important, then have the items criticised—and inaccuracies pointed out when it is too late to correct them. Oh, yes, it's easy.

One of King Edward's palaces is advertised for rent. Evidently times are not as flush with the royal family as they might be.

A Recent Wedding.

Thursday, Sept. 5, '07, at the residence of the brides parents Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Workinger, near Oakville, Ira G. Soule and Miss Tilda Workinger took upon themselves the vows that unite them as partners for life. Rev. M. M. Gilestist officiating.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Workinger, and well-known and highly esteemed by a large circle of friends and associates in the community. The groom is a young man of sterling worth, from Lacomb, where he is engaged in farming.

The ceremony was witnessed by the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends of the bride, and the wedding feast followed was enjoyed by all the company in a way that spoke very strongly of the ability of Mrs. Workinger.

After a few days spent visiting, Mr. and Mrs. Soule will make their home on the groom's farm near Lacomb. G.

A Globe Trotter.

F. C. Keaney, of the American Press Association, who has been with the Chicago American, is in the city today getting data. Mr. Keaney has had a wide experience in the newspaper business. He was in Asia during the Japanese war, being up in Manchuria for some time. Before then he had been in the Philippines, and besides took a hike down into the South Sea Islands, altogether having encircled the globe.

In fact Mr. Keaney is a veritable encyclopedia of information in reference to the affairs of the earth. He has been a globe trotter in experience, though not going in the way of the professional trotter.

Boosters.

Howard & Cooper have just gotten out a neat price list folder, with a few boosters along with it such as:

All eyes are turned toward the beautiful Willamette Valley.
Your ticket should read to Albany, Or.

Albany is one of the leading cities of the far-famed Willamette Valley.
The county seat of Linn county, population about 5,000.
Distance from Portland 80 miles.
The best railroad center in the Willamette Valley.

Mrs. Brush's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. John Brush, of Portland, was held at the Congregational church this noon. Rev. G. W. Nelson, of St. John's, preaching the sermon. The remains were accompanied here by Mr. Brush and his two daughters, Mrs. Wilkinson, of Oregon City, and Mrs. Buell of Portland and Mr. Buell. Mrs. Brush was 77 years and 9 months of age. A native of New York state, she resided in Michigan for a good many years before coming to Oregon, and was a worthy resident of Albany for a number of years.

Fined $25.

The case of Oregon agt. Robert Thurston, of the Crawfordsville saw mill, was tried at Brownsville this morning and was warmly contested. The evidence indicated an assault, and the defendant was found guilty, and the justice put the size of the fine at $25. The case excited considerable interest.

MR. PALMER

Who Engineered the U. of O. Referendum.

Eugene Palmer, of referendum fame, whom the Eugene Guard called a "cross roads grocer, the well known farmer, was in the city this morning on his way to Independence. Mr. Palmer was greatly pleased with the result of the decision of the supreme court, Oregon's highest tribunal, rejoicing in Oregon's having a body of judges who can rise above personal sentiment in rendering a decision of such vital importance to the interests of the people. With Mr. Palmer and others who have sought to have the U. of O. bill referred to the people it is not a fight against the University at all, but one for the referendum, in giving the people the say where they ask for it, without government by technicality. As chairman of the committee Mr. Palmer was a moving spirit in the U. of O. reference, and hence has had to stand the brunt of criticism and name calling, but he looked healthier than ever this morning, and evidently isn't disturbed by any of the thrusts at him.

A WET TOWN

One Day in the Capital City.

Statesman:—Eight guests are registered at Hotel de Gibson, all being landed at the city's hostelry through the excessive use of intoxicating liquors. The names of the city's guests and their allotted times are as follows: B. F. Gee, five days; Edward A. McGettigan, two and a half days; Tom Wilson, two and a half days; Ed Lang, two and a half days; Tom Wilson, two days; Tom Barnable, three days; John Costello, two days; Louis Gets was the name given by a drunk who was also up before City Recorder Moores yesterday. Gets paid a fine of $5 and went his way rejoicing.

Two Sample Tourists.

John Doe and Richard Roe, of Greenpoint, N. Y., and Carbondale, Penn., arrived last evening under a Pullman, and after inspecting First street for a while meeting several business men commercially at 5 cents a deal, came into contact with Nightwatch Richmond, who gave them the best rooms to be secured in the lodging house nearly opposite the DEMOCRAT office, where they will remain by direction of Recorder Redfield for a couple of days. The gentlemen reported that since leaving Butte they had done their best to secure short business engagements, but without avail. Appearances indicated this fact didn't disturb them.

Three Games in a Day.

C. L. Monson, of the Pacific Paper Co., came down from Eugene last evening. Mr. Monson, besides being a hustler in his business is a first-class amateur baseball player. Last Sunday he more than got his full, playing three games. He helped Eugene beat Corvallis 6 to 2, then Eugene defeated the Frakes of Portland 8 to 1, their best victory this season, the Frakes leading in the Portland tournament, and late in the afternoon played with Springfield against the Frakes, the Frakes winning 12 to 5.

R. and P. Always Draw.

Richard and Pringle last night showed to a large crowd at the opera house, giving their best performances. About the best number was that of Frank Kirk, the acrobatic tramp, a genius. Clarence Powell again gave "Never." Among other things declaring that Albany would never! again boom the city by voting the saloons back, and that it will never! electrify its horse car line. Jim Jackson's Trip Abroad was well improved and is full of black ginger.

Gibbon Making Good.

M. H. Gibbon, of the Portland Telegram, was in the city today on his way to Lane county, where he has been sent for special work for the Telegram. He has been in Eastern Oregon for several months, covering that field. Mr. Gibbon is a former clerk in the Hotel Revere, while there taking the Albany agency of the Telegram, doing his work so well he was sent for at the head office. He is making good as a solicitor and circulation man.

Letter List.

The following letters remain in the Albany, Ore., postoffice uncalled for Sept. 11, 1907. Persons desiring any of these letters should call for advertised letters, giving the date:

Prospecting at Anidnem.

F. H. Colpitts, the mining expert and assayer, and his two cousins from the east, have gone to the Santiam mines, on an inspecting trip. Mrs. Colpitts, who has been visiting Portland friends, this morning went to Gates on a visit with her folks. Mr. and Mrs. Colpitts have decided to remain in Oregon, and will locate in the valley, perhaps in Albany.

Will Make Candy.

H. Hohlitz, of the Broadalbin street confectionary store, has secured the services of J. N. Newton, an experienced candy maker, who will be here this week, and will manufacture confectionary of all kinds for the Hohlitz store. Mr. Hohlitz proposes to be up with the times in his business.

The saw mill at Corvallis has shut down until next spring. The mill has a large supply of lumber on hand, cars are scarce, freight rates high and the price of timber is increasing.

Lebanon E. A.—J. J. Lingren has sold his residence property in the northern part of town to G. A. Soule, who has been living near Crabtree. Consideration, $1500. Mr. Lingren and family may move to Oregon City.

Two young men after working in Junction about a week hired two saddle horses of Kroph Bros., last Sunday, to go to the hop fields at Harrisburg, but have not returned. They were traced to near Corvallis, and it is thought are on their way across the mountains.

Lee Willard in a Texas Ranger.

At the Albany Opera House on Sept. 12th, Mr. Lee Willard will present "A Texas Ranger."

Mr. Willard will be remembered by his appearance last season in Monte Cristo and his masterful performance of Edmund Dantes. The Count of Monte Cristo stamps him as an actor of unquestionable merit.

The company is a very strong one, comprising such well-known people as Miss Vera June Birch, Miss Georgie Woodhouse, Miss Ollie Cooper, Sidney B. Payne, Miss Edith Cooper and Fred Cooper and others, and with Mr. Willard at the head of it, will prove most capable.

The play, "A Texas Ranger" is a comedy drama in four acts from the pen of Ernest Stouss. The plot is replete with humor, romance and sensational climaxes.

Works of Art.

Have you seen those elegant portraits in Crawford's window, large water color, Sepia and Crayon. One of the most beautiful lady in Oregon, one of Louise Collins, one of Mrs. Schmeer, and one of Rev. C. C. Sparry. Don't fail to see them.

MISFITS.

Albany's apple show will be an eye opener.

Some one says keep your troubles to yourself if you would keep your friends.

Heney slipped into Portland before any one knew anything about it. Sly duck.

Some one enthusiastically wants the Willamette to be one vast orchard. The idea is a ripe one.

Those who get a souvenir copy of the Journal will want to keep it. It is an Oregon booster from lid to lid.

IF Dan Kelly had run as he has right along in practice he would have won of course, but—etc.

Eugene has some boosters in Eastern Oregon and the Chronicle says the man at The Dalles is distributing Linn county literature. Not enough to boost. Just Lane county literature.

If the merchant should give away as much as the local newspaper does in free advertising for the community and those in it he would soon be bankrupt, done too with almost no appreciation of the service.

An Albany man says irrigation projects should not be necessary in this valley, that with the proper under-drainage and attention to the soil natural irrigation is all that is necessary.

Mr. Carver and his Corvallis friends find times good enough to build a road into the Alsea, but poor Mr. Harman thinks they are not good enough. He has been thinking this for ten years in Oregon.

Hop contracts are being made in Salem for 1908 crop at 10 1/2 cents. Unless advance contracts are made there won't be any hops next year to pick. Many are getting disgusted with the business after the experiences of this year.

Banks are almost universally asked to head subscriptions for public enterprises everywhere. This is probably preparatory to the income of the people and banks appreciate the fact that in subscribing liberally they are in a measure doing something for the people in turn.

The Publisher's Claims Sustained

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS:
The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation.

"We are of the opinion that this allegation made clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.
