Mr. G. Brown Hansard, of Lebanon was arrested Saturday evening charged with the violation of the local option law, his third experience of the kind, It is claimed that he has been boot legging. An examination will be had at Lebanon on Friday, conducted by Deputy District Attorney Hill. The arrest happened in an odd manner. The funeral of the late Sarah J. Irvine was held at the Grace Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with a large attendance of old friends of the deceased. They were conducted by Rev. A. Melvin Williams, husband of a granddaughter, Rev. Woolly, a former pastor, preaching the sermon by request of the deceased. Mrs. Irvine once told the kind of a sermon she wished, short and without any flattery, not in her praise, but for the good of others. A seased note, which she left, was opened after death and its instructions followed. Her thought was all for others. The remains were buried in the Masonic cemetery beside those of her husband and son. The pall bearers were Judge Duncan, H. Bryant, Jas. Shelton, W. T. Worley, Mr. Walter and Mr. Nutting. 3 FORMER ALBANY BOYS STRIKE IT.

The Yakima Daily Republic gives an extensive account of how three Albany boys will be at the head of the Emporium, one of the biggest department stores in North Yakima. The Demo-erat has space for only a few para-stores in North Yakima. The Democrat has space for only a few paragraphs:

Miles Cannon is to retire from The Emporium. He says that the volume of business at the store has reached such proportions as to require the aiertness, energy and physical effort in attention to multitudinous details that only the young can properly give.

Mr. Cannon will not at once hand over the management. Until the end of the year, or thereabouts, he will drill his successors to their respective duties.
Those successors are to be Delmer A.
Thompson, who will assume control and
C. L. Stevenson, Kleo V. Loba, and E.
S. Crutchfield. They have purchased a large block of stock in the store and it is upon them that the management of The Emporium will fall.

Of The Emporium itself a great deal can be written. Its history is, so far as they run together, the history of this city, indicating as it does, progress, development, aggressiveness. The Emporium opened for business in August, 1907. Its sucess was immediate, and has been unparalleled. Its stockholders include men of considerable wealth and in the roll three families, all of them pioneers of Yakima county, whose aggregate wealth is more than a million dollars.

"D. A. Thompson, who is a director in the fire, and who will continne as gregate wealth is more than a million dollars.

"D. A. Tho.npson, who is a director in the firm, and who will continue as general manuger and director in the firm, and who will continue as general manuger and director in charge," said Mr. Cannon, "has been in my employ something like three years. He started in on a salary of $10 per week when I was owner of the Boston store. When The Emporium was organized he was appointed general manager and has acted in that capacity ever since. He has spent his entire life in the mercantile business, and his wondeful adaptability was first called to my attention during the preparation for an "opening" in the Boston Store, some two years ago, when he worked the entire night until 7 o'clock in the morning and then reported for duty at the opening of the store at 7:30.

"It occurred to me at the time that a man who will work the entire night when drawing a salary of $10 a week."

"It occurred to me at the time that a man who will work the entire night when drawing a salary of $10 a week, has a future, and it would be quite a problem for Mr. Thompson to figure out at the end of his business career the value that night's work will have been to him. I consider him the peer to any merchant in the country, his strong feature being his masterful comprehension of the science of modern merchandising."

sion of the science of modern inerchan-dising.":

Asked what arrangements would be made relative to the division of the work under the new organization, Mr. Cannon said that Mr. Thompson would have executive management, assisted by Chester L. Stevenson, who will be cannon said that sar. Inompson would have executive management, assisted by Chester L. Stevenson, who will be store superintendent.

Mr. Stevenson has been with the store since its organization and his present position is due largely to his mastery of details. In his capacity of store superintendent he will have control of all the employes, of all detail arrangements and the management of the entire floor force. Mr. Stevenson is a son-in-law of H. A. Cleek, who has been engaged in the cattle and sheep business in Oregon for nalf a century and who is now considered to be one of the wealthiest men in the state, and his family one of the most prominent. The entire store service will be under Mr. Stevenson's charge, a position for which, in Mr. Cannon's judgment, his characteristics pre-emimently fit him.

E. S. Crutchfield, the last of the quartette above referred to, though yet young, has had nearly 10 years of experience in business. He has been five years in the dry goods line and four and a half years in banking. Banking proved to be too dull for his temperament, however, and he has reentered the dry goods business as a life occupation. His time will be devoted to the management of the dry goods department and the promotion of the standing of the store in the estimation of the public. Like Mr. Thompson and Mr. Stevenson he is a native of Oregon. The three young men were raised in the same neighborhood and have been life long friends.

S. N. Steele of the Brong-Steele company has returned from the east after an absence of three months. He was accompanied by Mrs. Steel and son-Mr. Steele found conditions much improved in Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri, but he says the local conditions are far better than he found in his travels, including California. He found that the Pacific northwest is in the eyes of thousands of people in the middle west who are looking toward the time when they will be able to come this way to see for themselves the great possibilities of the country they hear so much about.

Mr. Steele needless to say, did some effective missionary work in exploting Oregon, and especially Portland. Very few cash sales are being made in Kansas City, nearly all the property changing hands is exchanged. The returned travelers saw no piace to compare with Portland, and the sight of the roses again made them mighty glad to be back to the most favored state in the union. an absence of three months.
