THE P.O.

Has a New Program with Another

Beginning today one more clerk has been added to the post office force, made necessary by the increasing business of the office. A new schedule has been arranged for work, under which each clerk will serve eight hours, the government regulation, which will make some changes at the different desks and windows.

some changes at the different desks and windows.

A new feature will be open money order windows continuously from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. with no closing at noon.

The most important change, and the one for which the extra clerk was principally secured, is the distribution of the evening mail. A clerk will remain on until 10 o'clock, and there will be three clerks instead of two on at 6 a.m. which will result in the mail being gotten in the boxes earlier. Henry Vollstedt will take the 10 o'clock service, besides working in the afternoon.

The change will be generally appreciated. Getting the nail off the Cottage Grove local will be a great privilege for business men and others.

News from Albany's Six Early Trains.

The beginning of the open season for Chinese pheasants showed itself even in the matter of travel, few people be-ing at the depot, hardly a drummer.

Engineer Bob Moore, of the C. & E., said he came near running over several pheasants, jack rabbits and Bob Whites fleeing for their lives. The crack of guns was heard over by Corvallis before day light.

A SHOT

Taken at Fred Sanders by Editor O'Brien.

An unpleasant affair occurred last evening, in which Mr. J. H. O'Brien, editor of the Herald, took a shot at Mr. Fred Sanders, an employee of the Al-bany Iron Works.

Fred Sanders, an employee of the Albany Iron Works.

As reported by Mr. Sanders it occurred as follows:

Sanders and three or four other men were on First street, near Montgomery, when Mr. O'Brien invited the young men up to the show at the opera house. They were in front of the bill board, near there, when Mr. O'Brien remarked, turning to Mr. Sanders: "You ____, I haven't had an introduction to you yet." whereupon Sanders knocked him down. Mr. O'Brien, upon arising, said "Well, you are any way," or words to that effect, when Sanders again knocked him down and a short scrap followed. Sanders says O'Brien was intoxicated. Then Mr. O'Brien went to his room at the St. Charles, secured a revolver at his room, and, returning down street, waited at the new Elk's corner until Sanders came along, when he remarked: "Are you Sanders," and, upon being informed that he was, fired his revolver close to Mr. Sanders' face, so close that it was powder burned.

This morning the case was presented to Deputy District Attorney Hill, and Mr. Sanders went before Justice Swan, but he did not care to make a complaint if Mr. O'Brien would leave the city for good otherwise it would be for assault with intent to kill.

As a result of the affair a bullet hole may be seen about eight feet from the idewalk, at the right of the window in the office of C. G. Burkhart.

Mr. O'Brien left to the noon train for the south.

Upon leaving, the Democrat is informed, he agreed to leave the city for good the page of the leave the city for formed he agreed to leave the system.

Upon leaving, the Democrat is in-formed, he agreed to leave the state and not return.
