Mrs. A. C. Schmitt and Miss Clara Schmitt left on a Portland trip.

Miss Roma McKnight returned to her home in Portland. Her crafts and arts demonstration here was greatly appreciated. A talented young lady she has mastered this art.

The builders are very choice of the depot. A sign reads: Keep Out, which seemed rather severe, and it has been amended to read, Except on Business. In another place "This Means You" has been added. Properly the workmen do not wish to be bothered. They are doing some live hustling to have the depot ready for the opening on the 11th.

Came Home to Vote.

H. M. Thompson, who has been working on the North Bank, at Russum, opposite Hood River, arrived last night on his way to Shedd to cast his royal American vote for Mr. Bryan. He had hard work getting a place to sleep last night upon getting here on the 11 o'clock train, going to several places before getting a bed. Mr. Thompson was at Wasco for awhile. Among the Albany people prospering there is Mr. L. Ross, doing a fine business in his jewelry store.

A BIG CROWD

To Hear Ex-Senator Gearin. He's All Right.

The circuit court room was full last night.

Introduced by Hon. J. K. Weatherford, Ex-Senator Gearin made one of the best political speeches Albany has enjoyed.

He spoke of the great democratic enthusiasm everywhere. People are thoroughly interested. There is a spirit of independence, of individualism, which is not local but widespread, speaking for national honor. It is a move to correct errors, abuses and vices. The people are tired of shams and promises that result in nothing. The republican platform is simply an apology for failure, and every republican speech is an explanation for apology. The speakers dare not tell what is in their platform. Senator Fulton in a speech mentioned the platform only twice, the injunction plank and the financial plank, which he said was not what it ought to be. It has fallen dead.

The democratic platform means something; the election of U. S. senators by the people, a protest against an unjust system of tariff legislation, the rights of state and federal government are clearly defined, no longer a paternalism; laboring men should be protected against cheap foreign labor and it presents a means for the protection of the money of the laborer when it is in the bank.

These things were enlarged upon in an able manner and the campaign thunder that Bryan policies would ruin the country riddled. They would be a blessing instead of a detriment.

If Bryan had been elected in 1896 on the free silver issue it would no doubt have been necessary for the Portland bankers to have chartered a special train and rushed down to Salem crying "For God's sake, Governor help us out," issuing bank certificates to help out the people. See the point.

A Bear Near Albany.

Chris Bender, residing near the fair grounds, tells a thrilling story about a bear, which he declares was prowling around his place last evening, while he was plowing. It chased one of the boys and finally climbed a tree. Mr. Bender was too busy plowing to bother with bears and let it go.
There is said to be a bear around Albany recently brought here from Roseburg by Mr. Parker, and it is possible this is the animal.
