at Yokohama, Japan, one of the most a efficient men in the fereign service, spent last night with his brother. Hon. F. J. Miller. Mr. Miller is making his headquarters at his former home in Eugene, and is looking atter his orchard at Grants Pass. He will be in the United States until March before returning to his work at Yokohama, in the spring going to Washington for a conference.

Probably no man in the world understands the relationship of the United States and Japan better than Mr. Miller. He declares it to be of the most friendly character, a relationship which will undoubtedly continue. Japan appreciates the value of the friendship of the U. S., and it is not as Hobson and the yellow journals have reported, looking for trouble. On the contrary it is seeking a closer business and social relationship between the two countries. The Japs are great entertainers, doing things in their own way on a grand scale, and, while Mr. Miller was not at the reception to the American fleet he appreciates the gorgeous manner in which the Japs did things.

Mr. Miller reported Consul Fred Fisher, a former Albany boy, of Harbin, up in Manchuria, who was formerly under Mr. Miller, doing a splendid service. He is in the line of promotion and will soon be given a change for better service.
