The College Day committee is bound to succeed. The word will not be allowed to go out that its citizens would not answer the call of one of her grow-better work. The note struck at the meeting last night was vibrant with confidence.

Plans were discussed by the committive. President Crooks gave his views of the import of the present canvass, Judging from information received from various parts of Oregon, and deciding received from warious parts of Oregon, and deciding received from the committence, he gave it as his opinion that Albany College need not expect to own less than a quarter million in proper evity values within five years if the fifty thousand now sought is secured. Stating his own confidence in Albany's performance, he assured the committee that Portland and the rest of Oregon were more vitally interested than ever before. A letter from Dr. Foulkes, the influential pastor of the First Pressbyterian church in Portland was read. Dr. Foulkes is heart and soul for Albany spirit will make "College Day" a decided success.

The offices of the Albany Commercial Club will be headquarters on Friday. A mass meeting for Friday evening was agreed on and a subscription taxen on the spot to pay for the services of the Albany band for that evening. This will be a jollification meeting and the entire town is asked to be present to hear the news of success.

The campaign is to be an "Everybody Gives" aftair. Students, clerks, faculty, laborers, professional men, business men and all, will be asked to help the movement. The installment plants are to be deaf to this business opportunity as it presents itself. To guarantee the college as it is and has been were well worth the effort, but to multiply its efficiency is worth even the sacrifice of business men and of parents who would not look forward to a college education for their children, were it not for the losation of the college in our midst.

THE EDITOR'S TRIP.

Will Mean beginning of a Big Just Enough to Break the News

On the way, Monday afternoon -At 8:30 I boarded the O R. & N. train 8:30 I boarded the O R. & N. train eastward bound and was given a lower borth in the car Minidoka, just ahead of Carisco. Travel is light now, there being only five other passengers in the car, Mr. and Mrs. Souder, of Portland, formerly of Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall, of Silver City. Idaho, on their way home from a visit with Mr. Hall's mother at Medford, and a gentleman once in business at The Dalles for fifteen years. At first it looked gloomy for company, but at Hood River the subject of apples broke the ice, and a few prize ones I had in my suit case gave Albany a reputation, and the young man with a big one from Medford admitted it wasn't in the same class. Our Albany pamphlet also made them take notice.

The porter's face had a dark look as he sized up the crowd. A dollar lightened it some.

The scenery along the early part of the route is grand, but after The Dalles is passed the monotony of sand hills and sage brush becomes unbearable as hash three times a day or a knocker in a club of boosters.

A few races with geese were interesting, but the train always won, but like eastward bound and was given a lower

Opened at 5p, m. yesterday with a fine chicken dinner. A large crowd was seated at the dining table during the evening and many others patronized the ice cram and candy booths, where the choicest home made bon-bons were served. The fancy and Hallowe'en booths were particularly attractive and the display of fancy articles was pronounced by many as the finest assortment seen for years at any similiar sale.

Three councilmen are decidedly a creditable publication. A poem from James Whitcomb Riley, departments devoted to the seniors, exchanges, editorial, school notes, juniors, sophomore, socie-ty, athletics, and stories written by Mary A. Armstrong, '10, on ''How I Discovered my Grandfather's Sceret;'

At 8.p. m. an interesting musical program was presented in which the best local talent will figured. One of the principal features of the eyening was be an address by Rev. George Butler of Corvallis.

The fair will be continued Wednesday and Thursday and meals will be served at noon and evening each day. At Wednesday's exercises an address will be given by Manager B. Dasent of the Commercial Club and the Rev. J. O. Farrell of Eugene is expected to be on hand with a delegation of young people from his lively town.

Alco Club To-Night.

Three councilmed are to be elected at the coming December election. The time of Councilmen Hand, Dawsox and Tomilson expires the first of the year. In the Third ward the petition of W. A. Eastburn is being circulated and he no doubt will be a candidate. Other names mentioned in the same ward are Walter M. Parker. A. W. Bowerson and William R. Hand, the latter being the second Ward councilman Dawson's time expires and as yet no names have been mentioned as is also the case of Tomilson of the first ward. These of fices are not eagerly sought and one to attend to the duties of the same must be willing to sacrifice much to serve the interests of the people.

THIS MORNING

News From Albany's Six Early Trains.

Judge Scote, of Salem, returned this morning from Lebanon, where he had been working up interest in the matter of better roads.

A. G. McClain, of Portland, left for home today after attending the funeral of his brother-in-law Will Harris.

There was a Japanese invasion at the depot this morning. A crew of about 15 of the little brown men have been placed on the work of filling in the low lands lying adjacent the depot.

The disposition of Van Dran Brothors pheasantry is somewhat in doubt. In all probability it will follow the owners to their hotel.

It will be some time before all the trains will will stop at one central station. Considering the present condition of the grounds the trains from the Corvallis & Eastern will remain on the other side of the Southern Pacific tracks
