50 YEARS A STATE.

Oregon is now fifty years old. Tomorrow will be the anniversary. Father Lane of this city has a copy of the States, a journal of Washington, D. C., of Feb. 14, 1859, which has the following on the passage of the bill admitting Oregon to the Union, which will be read with interest:

"The admission of another state into the Union, caused much enthusiasm on Saturday evening, and when the event became generally known throughout the city, it was determined to celebrate it. At about half past nine o'clock, the Marine band, headed by a large concourse of citizens, marched to Brown's Hotel. After the execution of several spirited airs, Gov. Stevens of Washington Territory, appeared on the balcony and briefly introduced General Joseph Lane, Senator elect from the State of Oregon. Gen. Lane made the following remarks:

Gentlemen and Fellow Citizens: With all my heart I thank you for this manifestation of the high sense of the importance of the admission of Oregon. Another State has been admitted into the Union, and you have the kindness to come and rejoice with me. We have cause to rejoice. Our whole country has cause for gratulation; for in my judgment, the admission of Oregon is a great event—a national blessing; and I look upon this day's work as the greatest Congress has ever performed. It is an event for which I have for months labored with all the energies of my nature. Our hopes have been crowned with success; and Oregon is one of the States of our grand Union. And in conclusion: Twenty States have been added to the Union since the establishment of our independence, and it is gratifying to know that each and every one of them has been admitted under Democratic administrations, or by a Democratic Congress.

for enterprising investors to buy land in Oregon. Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said "This is my own my native land, and I'll enter as much of it as I can own in Oregon for myself and family.
