

Trip of Orah Harkness.

The day spent at Philadelphia was one of the most delightful stops on the entire trip, for the moment we stepped on the patriotic soil, we felt that here we would have an enjoyable time, and we were not disappointed.

Of course the first place of interest to attract us was Independence Hall, "The Birthplace of Liberty; and the most famous building in America, erected in 1772 and used as the State Capital until 1800; also used by the Continental Congress from 1775 until 1781.

The Shrine of Liberty, the old Liberty Bell, hangs in a glass case in the center of the hall. The bell was originally cast in England and recast in Philadelphia, it weighs 2080 lbs., and bears the inscription: "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

The banquet room contains Washington's pew from Christ Church, the safe used by him while President, the chair used by Chief Justice John Jay, and a group of portraits of celebrated men of the Revolutionary period.

In the Banquet Hall may also be seen the chair belonging to William Penn, a chest of drawers brought from England in 1682, a group of portraits of famous men of the Revolution, and the table on which the Virginia Bill of Rights was written by George Mason.

The former State Supreme Court Room in Independence Hall, contains the portraits of the Chief Justices, and a statue of General Washington, carved in wood from a life piece, by Colonel William Bush, one of his staff officers.

In the rear of the Independence Hall the Declaration of Independence was first publicly read by Colonel John Nixon on July 8th, 1776.

Adjoining the Hall is Christ Church, where General George Washington received the oath of office as the first President of the United States.

Two small brick annexes one on either side of the Hall, contain numerous relics of Colonial times, among which we noticed the baby clothes of John Quincy Adams, made of the very sheersheet linen, and beautifully embroidered, also a card of invitation to the La Fayette Ball; and many other interesting things too numerous to mention.

From Independence Hall we went to the cemetery containing the graves of Benjamin and Deborah Franklin, thence to the Betsy Ross House, the "Birthplace of Old Glory." This is a quaint little two story brick house, preserved in its original state.

A Shot at the Blind Pigs

EDITOR DEMOCRAT: How suggestive and appropriate the title seems. What animal could better represent the boozing business than the hog, that lover of filth, which revels in the sewer pools, the gutter and the garbage heap.

And yet when we think what must be the nature of the low lived leech of society, who, in persistent violation of the law of the people, will feed on ruined boys and debauched manhood, and drink the very heart-blood of innocent women and children, we feel that the "pig" is disgraced in being associated with such a man.

No Barnum show ever carried a monstrosity which could adequately represent him. Poor slandered pigs! It is a wonder the stock raisers did not have a bill before the legislature "prohibiting the name of a useful animal from being applied to these dens of outlaws."

After all, the term applies better to the demon than it does to his den. Blind indeed must be the "blind pig" who cannot see that sooner or later he will reap what he sows.

He ought to be compelled to wear a placard on his back labeled "blind pig," which would at least warn decent people against him. There are only four appeals we can make to a criminal. To his conscience, to his pride, to his pocket, and to his hide.

As the "blind pig" has no conscience or pride left, the only alternative is to his pocket and his hide. If such a dive is fostered by an organization of would-be respectability, so much graver is the crime, and so much heavier should be the penalty.

But bad as they are, better have a "blind pig" in the dark than an open hog pen on the street. Any thing is better than an open saloon under the sanction of law, and with the people as tacit partners.

Better a quart of liquid damnation than a gallon. How get rid of these pigs? Simply making them squeal will not do it. Starve them to death. If no body patronizes the pig it will die. Yours for a clean town. CITIZEN.

CROWFOOT

Miss Bessie Brown has finished her term of school in the Pleasant View district. Every Sunday, rain or shine, Sunday school convenes on time with all there to help.

Crowfoot school is preparing to give an entertainment for the benefit of the organ fund. Tom Chesshir will haul cream for the Corvallis creamery, commencing about the first of April.

S. Lindley has begun the erection of a new barn with cement floors and all the modern improvements. Granville Chesshir had the misfortune to get his collar bone fractured last week while playing football at school.

TARIFF VOTE APRIL 10.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—It is probable the tariff bill will be voted on in the House April 10. The lumber schedule is a vital topic. It is probable a separate vote will be taken by the effort of the free advocates to gain their point; but the west and south will make a desperate effort to prevent such a vote.

Not Captured.

MUSKOGEE March 31.—Despite the rumor that Crazy Snake has been captured no definite confirmation has been received. It is believed he is still secluded with the rebel band. The search is being continued by possees.

Home and Abroad.

Dyna Mite will be exploded—awful funny. Try—Dyna Mite is dangerous—sure—laugh. Dyna Mite—liable to explode—a joke.

Dr. E. O. Smith, of Eugene, a former Albany dentist, has been seriously ill, for several days, but yesterday was slowly improving. The remains of Gov. Cosgrove were taken through Albany last night on the delayed 8:30 train for Washington for burial.

Nobody's Magazine, Eugene's booster is out for March; a flower number; full of petals, in Hartog's characteristic style, little 'y's and all. But it is breezy. Gene Simpson, of Corvallis, has received three wild American turkeys from Virginia, costing $15.75 express charges. He expects to rear and sell them as game birds.

The deaths in Portland during March has been 134, according to the Journal, which it says is at the rate of 5 in 1000. This would make the population of the city 324,000. As a matter of fact it is about 200,000 who would make the death rate about 8 in 1,000.

In and Around Albany.

Friendship, engagement and wedding rings a specialty. F. M. French. Found, a little brass key with a little string, at the Democrat office. The finest silver polish made, also polishing cloths, at French's jewelry store. Albany College and High School badges and hat pins. French's Jewelry store.

J. A. Archibald is setting up a monument over the graves of the late R. A. Irvine and wife, a fine structure. Sugar cured hams 16c and breakfast bacon 16c per pound at Henry Broder's Meat Market, Home manufactured and guaranteed. Mr. E. R. Merritt has moved from Corvallis, and will be in the feather renovation business here, later attending to mattresses.

Bring your face to Collin's Studio, corner 2nd & Broad streets, and get a likeness that will please both you and your friends. Satisfaction guaranteed. House cleaning thoroughly done at figures all can afford by the modern electric vacuum cleaner. Churches, Halls and offices a specialty. L. H. Jacks, 1645 W. 7th St; Home phone Red 25th.

A live fight is reported on First street last night. A young man wearing glasses was mashed in the face, breaking the glasses to pieces. A friend with him was on the spot in double quick time, resulting in the complete knockout of the first aggressor, requiring the aid of a surgeon in dressing some of the wounds.

MISFITS.

Vaudeville galore. Albany is a great trade center. There are tricks in all trades. It is Governor Hay of Washington now.

Mr. Fulton has really replied to Henry. An eastern railroad has actually paid a rebate fine. Builders would have liked a few more days of sunshine. There was a hot time when the Boyles rolled into Sharon.

Did you ever, Uncle Sam has a real Indian fight on hand, and it is 1909. Help the women make Albany the prettiest and cleanest city in the Northwest. Mr. Harriman joked with the boys while passing through Utah. Blow the whistler.

The Journal says Oregonians don't marry any one they please. They do if both please. Flour at $1.65 a sack and spring millinery to buy, is what is making a Portland editor squawk. A Paris lunatic sets the fashion, declares an exchange which probably tells the truth, judging from the styles.

Merchants generally report a fine spring trade. People come here from far and near, for we have the goods. Jeffries and Corbett had better leave Johnson alone. They are havebeens, completely out of condition by fast lives.

The U. O. at Salt Lake City last night met its third defeat in debate this year by a two to one vote. The judges were all Utah men and even though one of them rebelled against the decision. The Silverton basketball team, which tilted Albany for first place, claims the pennant. Albany has a better team. It was robbed out of its first game, and should have had the second because Silverton refused to play the tie-off.

An enormous profit is made on Oregonians by eastern life insurance companies. In five years it is said over $10,000,000 has been sent out of the state and only about $3,000,000 brought here, indicating the extravagant profit of the business. The editor of the Roseburg Review has just paid $30 for a setting of fifteen eggs from a famous $19,000 hen back case. The Review will have a right to cackle for awhile, particularly if any of the eggs hatch; but suppose they hatch just plain every day dark barn yards, then what.

The Oregonian wants to know how people who say the Jap marriage is no body's business but their own like to go through the world as half breeds. That's what, and what about going through the world, diseased from birth, as many are, under our present laws, consumptive, cigarette, whiskey inclined from the start. An exchange says there is too much flue made over this Jap-American girl episode. But that is modern journalism.

Edward Murry, another trusty, yesterday escaped from the penitentiary and may be coming down this way. Dr. Lowe, the optician, will be in Harrisburg next Tuesday April the 5. Consult him about your eyes and glasses.

Lebanon.

The E. A. — Miss Grace Scott, who is now clerking in Chambers & McCune's store in Albany, came over Sunday for a short visit with her cousin, Mrs. Everett. Mrs. Charlotte Tomas, mother of Mrs. Marion Burkhardt, passed away Sunday evening at the home of her daughter, a few miles north of Lebanon at the age of 84 years. The remains were taken to Jordan Valley yesterday for interment. The Grand Stock Company, which has been playing in Albany for a week or more to good houses, will appear at the opera house in this city Thursday and Friday evenings, presenting "A Cheerful Liar" and "My Uncle from Japan."

A San Francisco saloonman asked one of the Calhoun jurymen if he was going to hang Calhoun. He reported it to the judge, who had the man arrested for contempt of court and he was sent to jail for five days, which served him right.

TELEGRAPH.

SALEM, March 29.—Four convicts made a desperate attempt to gain their freedom this morning from the penitentiary by sawing through the bars of the basement window of a building shortly after 5 o'clock. Officials knew of the scheme and five armed guards awaited them outside and marched them back into prison through the same hole. John Branton, the alleged leader and organizer of the outbreak, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a butcher knife taken from the prison shop, after being driven back. The others were locked in their cells to be punished.

DUNSMUIR, March 29.—The Oregon "Sifters" last night arrested Geo. C. Mercatus and John Hurzberger in connection with a murder committed in the Coos Bay country last December. Both are cooks and conducted a restaurant at Roseburg last summer. Hurzberger proved an alibi and was released, but the officers took Mercatus north.

OKLAHOMA CITY March 29.—Up to this afternoon the troops have not overtaken the creek and their negro allies. The pursuit will continue. MUSKOGEE, March 30.—Advices received here state that Crazy Horse, the Snake chief, has offered to surrender. He is said to be shot in the leg. The troops are said to have the band practically surrounded. LOS ANGELES, March 30.—The usual parade preceded the first game of the season between Portland and Los Angeles today. A big crowd gathered for the game.

Death of Maj. Cassell. W. C. Cassell died at the soldiers home at Roseburg yesterday at the age of 81 years. He was a veteran of the civil war, serving in the 26th Ill. I. Co. He was afterwards in the banking business in Nebraska, coming to Oregon in about 1894, residing in Albany during the boom days of '92. He was the contractor for the big Baltimore block. He went to Astoria soon after, residing there for several years.

Died at Puyallup

The remains of Mrs. F. L. Wallace were brought to Albany this noon by her son, Rev. J. Sherman Wallace, and Mr. Harvey Wallace, and will be taken to Lebanon, her former home, for burial. Mrs. Wallace was an old resident of Linn county.

The first savings bank has issued its prospectus. Four per cent interest will be paid where money is deposited for a year, three for six months, the interest being paid semi-annually. Both safes arrived this morning. The bank will open April 3.

Pavement does much towards making a clean city. Portland has had a good mayor and a rotten council.

Mr. Harriman would like to get all the roads under one management. Crazy Horse was crazy for sure. An Indian has no business bucking against Uncle Sam.

A statement this morning that a man had intoxicated acts according to his real character, naturally, brought out an argument on the subject. What do you think about it.
