REPENTANCE NECESSARY.

Professors 264.

Evangelist Johnson preached to save lost souls last night. He devoted no time whatever last evening to the shortcomings of church members or hypocritical Christians but his entire sermon was an earnest appeal to those who have never professed Christianity. "There is no rest for the wicked," he said and he pleaded with the big tabernacle audience to accept the joy and peace of a genuine Christian life.

Last evening's service closed a busy day at the tabernacle. There was a big prayer meeting in the forenoon while in the afternoon Rev. Johnson preached on "Prayer" and Miss Shaffer gave the concluding lecture of her month's course on Personal Work.

A special musical feature of last evening's service was a solo by Professor L. A. Wegner, who has so ably directed the big chorus choir. Professor Wegner gave the audience a chance last night to name its favorite song and the votes were so well divided between "Harvest Days Are Going By", "The City of God", and "I Love Him" that they sang them all.

Rev. Johnson took his text last evening from St. Luke 13:1-7. He quoted Scripture to show the absolute need of a Savior for men and told how Jesus Christ became that savior when he offered his own blood for the remission of sins. "Except ye repent ye shall perish," he quoted, and said that Christ's blood alone cleanseth. Therefore we are driven to Christ for salvation, he said.

"Some say, 'I'm not such a great sinner,'" he said. "They say, 'I try to keep the law,' or 'I live a good life.' But it's not a matter of the degree of guilt. It's the fact of guilt. So you are just as certain to be lost if you have broken the law in one point as if in every point.

"The first and great commandment is 'Thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with all thy soul, with all thy mind and with all thy heart.' I ask who is the greatest sinner and you say the murderer. But he isn't. You name other sinners who commit great crimes but you are wrong. The greatest sinner is the man that breaks the greatest commandment.

"You have not loved the Lord thy God with all thy soul if you have rejected his Son, Jesus Christ. If you have rejected Jesus Christ you have broken the greatest commandment and I charge you with being the greatest sinner. It isn't necessary to be an adulterer, a thief, a liar or a murderer to go to hell. It is just simply necessary to reject Jesus Christ and you'll go there just as sure as you reject Him as if you have broken every commandment in the decalogue."

The evangelist told the story of a woman who had been found guilty of a crime and sent to state prison and how when she realized the loneliness and privation of a prison term she became violently insane in three weeks.

"If a person will go insane after three weeks in prison what must it be like to realize that through all the coming millions, billions, quadrillions of years you must stay in hell without one ray of hope from that torment. "Suppose a bird would come to this world and remove one grain of sand every ten thousand years. At some awful length of time it could remove

AWFUL TRAGEDY AT MARQUAM.

OREGON CITY, Ore., June 5.—Creeping with the cunning of a maniac out of the kitchen where his wife and two daughters were preparing breakfast, this morning Bert B. Garrett, of Marquam, placed a heavy charge of dynamite under the kitchen floor and standing nearby exploded it. Garrett was blown 35 feet, his brains dashed out against a tree and his body hurled twenty feet further. A little daughter, aged five, was killed, another daughter aged 16 fatally hurt, and the wife injured, only lived 30 minutes. Another daughter, ill up stairs was unhurt. Garrett lived on what is known as the Blacksmith property, where he owned two acres. He was not of a quarrelsome nature but had acted strangely lately. The scene is 20 miles from here. It is supposed he bought the dynamite at Mt. Angel a few days ago.
