THIS MORNING

News From Albany's Six Early Trains.

Prof. J. B. Horner, of the O. A. C., who had been here to attend a session of the Commandery, returned home. Mr. Measini, of Portland, who had also been here to confer in reference to the coming of the Scriners, also returned home.

The Prince Otto troupe went north. One can always tell an actor from the makeup and address, as distinctly as a minister.

Dr. J. C. Booth came down from Lebanon to attend the monthly session of the pension board, and Rev. Lacey on a short trip.

Geo. W. Harris, the famous Sage Rooster of Democrat correspondence fame, came down from Eugene on a few hours trip. He has become a great Eugene booster, but continues interested in Albany and its splendid progress.

Rev. Knot's left for Salem. Mrs. Sykes, of Salem, returned home after a visit at the home of her aunt, Mrs. D. S. Smith.

The Evangelical Church.

The new Immanuel Church of the Evangelical Association, at the corner of First and Pine streets, the only church on First street, will be formally dedicated next Sunday at 10:30 a. m., when Rev. H. E. Hornschuch, presiding elder, will preach the dedicatory sermon. Rev. Hornschuch will also preach Friday and Saturday evenings. The church is a fine structure, a credit to the east end section.

ALLEYITES HEARD FROM.

The Alleyites, after being in restraint for some time, last night accepted an invitation to run the home of E. H. Rhoades, at Fifth and Montgomery street, for a few hours, which they did in their customary free and easy style. The residence is one of the finest in the city, splendidly arranged and furnished for entertainment, and the Alleyites took advantage of the pretty surroundings to have a gay old time, which they did. An interesting contest was the guessing of twenty different things, such as a swimming match, being a match in a glass of water, won by Mrs. Dr. Stark and Mrs. S. C. Worrell, the former getting the prize upon securing the longest straw, while F. M. French and J. C. Christy tied for the booby place. Three ghosts in sickly light of burning alcohol and salt chanted a tune in keeping with the season. An informal program consisted of a piano solo by Mrs. Worrell and vocal solos, by Mrs. W. H. Rhoades, Miss Evah Rhoades, Miss Evah French and Mrs. Nutting. Choice refreshments were served, and it was almost midnight before the live crowd could be gotten rid of. All declared it one of the most enjoyable functions the Alleyites have ever engaged in.

Hallowe'en Party.

At St. Mary's Hall adjoining the church, this evening. Choice refreshments served all evening and supper from 5 to 9. Games and music. All welcome.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Fred Dawson returned this noon from Newport.

Mrs. Yockey, of Medford, is visiting Albany friends.

Mrs. L. C. Marshall went to Lebanon this afternoon on a visit with her sister.

Dr. Scott and son, of Iowa, left for home this week after a visit at the home of O. A. Archibald.

F. W. Ledbetter of the Albany Nursery Co., went to Harrisburg this afternoon on tree business.

Edward Derry, with M. B. Craft, went to Portland this afternoon with a car load of hogs and other stock.

V. E. Shelton and Miss Elva Bilyeu, well-known young people of Scio, were married this noon, Rev. Esson, officiating.

Distinguished men on No. 14, delayed, going north at noon were C. E. Wolverton, who had been holding U. S. court at Medford for two weeks; Lawyer Fenton, who had been trying three cases before Judge Wolverton; and State School Superintendent Ackerman, who attended an institute at Klamath Falls.

E. S. Rohr, Portland.

A Finger Cut.

Louis School, a workman in the pattern department of the Albany Iron Works this forenoon while running a rip saw, caught a little finger on the saw and it was badly cut. He hastened up street and Dr. Kavanaugh dressed the wound, saving the finger, but it will probably be stiff, the cut being at the joint.
