SAGE ROOSTER ON ALBANY.

Eugene, Nov. 5.—After a trip to the Hub some observations may be in order. Living in Eugene, where all is hustle and bustle, it is not surprising that one forgets sometimes that there is also anything outside; but if you spend a day in Albany, looking over the city you will be convinced that Eugene is not the only pebble on the beach.

Albany is making wonderful growth. I found upon my visit there this week. Where only a few years ago hossie was roaming at will now there are hundreds of fine residences, new buildings, nice lawns and well kept streets.

Clean and well kept business streets and many fine new blocks, well filled stores, fine displays of fruits. I noticed. The first street electric light display is a good one.

But Eugene can beat all the valley cities on injunction suits, since she started to install her own water works and lighting system. For over two years there has been a continual fight here over municipal ownership, class against the masses, something that will be a detriment to the prosperity of Eugene. In Albany it is quite different, with a cooperative body of business men, citizens pulling together, working shoulder to shoulder for a bigger and greater Albany.

The many old friends I met in the few short hours of my stay, their smiles, hearty handshakes and their remembrance of the white owl, reminded me that while I have been gone I have not been forgotten.

Please don't dub me a booster, but just call me the old SAGE ROOSTER.

Linnhaven,

Scio News: The big Linnhaven apple orchard will be established in the vicinity of and around Lacombe. Work on preparing the land for the trees is to commence at once.

C. W. Tebault, real estate agent of Albany, and son C. W. Jr., came down from the Linnhaven orchard tract Wednesday evening. Mr. Tebault is now closing up the options on these orchard lands. From conversations with him, we ascertained the company purpose erecting a big saw mill and laying out a new town, Linnhaven, upon the most modern approved plan. The company will plant 800 acres of apple trees this fall.

Striking Pictures.

A striking series of pictures is Drink by the famous author, Emile Zola, at Dreamland, French in its character, but one fully if not more interesting is the Mexican's revenge, introducing some Mexican scenery, and telling a thrilling story, with a climax that is startling.

Churchill & Huston do a neat vaudeville sketch, without overdoing it, the trouble with a good deal of vaudeville. It is short, cute and well enacted.
