THE DEPOT LAKE

Causes an Immense Sight of Trouble.

The city council should have been out around the depot today getting a view of the lake that has been permitted to grow into an immense body of water, filling cellars, basements and yards, causing a good deal of trouble. It should be made an issue until attended to.

Mayor Wallace called up Manager O'Brien, of Portland, and told him of the conditions and he promised prompt action in fixing the property, previously promised several months ago.

Manager W. R. Struble also sent the following warm dispatch: It is impossible for pedestrians to reach your trains here owing to the flood condition at the depot grounds. Basements of city are flooded by vile sewerage in consequence, which is a menace to public health. Your company should take steps to remedy conditions immediately.

The conditions call for a permanent improvement.

Young People's Meeting.

There was a good attendance at the young people's meeting, at the W. C. T. U. hall at 3 o'clock Sunday. The subject was service, led by Miss Marcus. After a preliminary service five minutes talks, ranging from six to ten minutes, were made by Revs. Gordon, Esson, White, Geil and Geselbracht, full of excellent thoughts.

These meetings will be held a month in all, closing Dec. 12. Tomorrow night the subject will be the field, with reference to home work.

Besides the meetings Miss Marcus has visited 879 homes in Albany, finding in them 887 attending Sabbath schools, working up a further interest in Sabbath school work.

Mrs. Montgomery's Funeral

There was a large attendance of old friends at the funeral of Mrs. Sarah Montgomery, who died at Salem, at the home of Rev. Rufus Thompson. Rev. Thompson, an intimate friend of the family for many years, preached the sermon, paying a splendid tribute to the worth of the deceased. An interesting fact was that the funeral service was held in the same building in which Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery were married in 1863 by the father of Mrs. Thompson, Dr. Hill, a pioneer Albany minister. There was a pretty display of flowers.

Mr. Spratt Montgomery, a son of Eastern Oregon, and his family were among those here from elsewhere.

Big Loss to Scio.

The dam went out at Scio this forenoon, from the high water. This is the source of power for the condenser, flour mill, electric lights, water and other powers, and it will probably be several months before it can be fixed, leaving the city in darkness and the plants idle.

At the Hotels.

BOY STABBED AT LEBNON.

A small tragedy occurred early yesterday morning, about 2 o'clock on the streets of Lebanon. Winfield Huddleston was trying to get his two cousins, Merritt and Wid Jennings, sons of Frank Jennings, now of Aberdeen, Wash., home, when a dispute arose, and Merritt Jennings, the younger of the boys pulled out his pocket knife and stabbed Huddleston near the elbow of the right arm, cutting a deep gash in the bone, and severing the main artery. There had previously been some trouble at the Huddleston home over some bedding stored there by the Jennings boys, who had just begun work in the paper mill.

Dr. Laird stopped the flow of blood as much as possible and then brought the Huddleston boy to St. Mary's hospital where the wound was dressed, and it is said the boy will always have a stiff arm.

Merritt Jennings ran from Lebanon through the mud to Tangent, came to Albany on the local and gave himself up to Sheriff Smith at 8 o'clock.

It is said one or both of the Jennings boys were intoxicated. They claim only Wid was.

Merritt Jennings gives his age as 16, while his uncle, Mr. Huddleston, says it is eighteen, an important thing in the punishment of the boy under the state law.

At Tangent young Jennings called up an uncle, who resides there and tried to get him to give him money to get into California with, but his uncle insisted on his coming to Albany and giving himself up, and he did. It is said that Huddleston, as well as the other boys had been drinking.

News from Albany's Six Early Trains.

Thos. G. Hopkins and F. J. Cornett, the R. D. men, went to Portland in response to subpoenas in the divorce case of Parrish against Parrish, down for trial beginning today.

Lawyers C. E. Sox and G. S. Hill and J. G. Gibson, a juryman, went to Corvallis, to attend a session of the circuit court, which began this morning, with a small docket in sight, nearly all civil business.

C. W. Tebbalt went to Portland in the interest of the Linnhaven orchard near Lacombe. The company now has 3200 acres secured for it, and expect to have 4500 in all. Linnhaven is only sixteen miles from Albany, two from the Oregonian road, and will undoubtedly eventually be on the line of an electric road.

R. W. Tripp, Brownsville's hustling real estate dealer, one of the busiest in the valley, went to Portland.

H. N. Winsley, of Mill City, returned from Eugene. J. N. Brandeberry went up the C. & E.

Miss Nellie Carter went to Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Driver returned from a Sunday visit at Tangent.

Wet Galore.

It rained some last night, 2.30 inches from noon yesterday until 8 a. m. today, and then some more since. The total fall this month has been 8.74 inches, on seventeen days out of the twenty-two. The fall in October was 3.82 inches.

Saturday night the river raised several feet and was 13 feet Sunday morning, raising about a foot more and then remaining on a standstill during the night, being 14.3 feet today. At Eugene this morning the Willamette was only 9 feet. It is not easy guessing yet whether there will be a flood.

The range of temperature for 24 hours was only 69-55. The prediction is: Rain tonight and Tuesday, brisk to high southwest winds.

Put Out By Milk.

An odd fire occurred out in front of the depot yesterday morning. The lunch wagon's gasoline stove caught fire; making quite a blaze. The only thing close at hand was some milk in bottles, and this was poured on the fire freely, soon extinguishing it.

After a Daughter.

Mr. McCune, an Eastern Oregon man went out to Lebanon on Saturday and took possession of a daughter in charge of his wife, from whom he separated and came to Albany yesterday with her, but was stopped by a phone to the chief of police from Lebanon, and this afternoon took her back to her mother being married again. She is 16.

An Albany Cook Book.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church are getting up a cook book that deserves local support. It will be made up of receipts by prominent local cooks. Albany is noted for the best in the land. The advertisements of Albany business men will be permitted in the book as a token to their support of a worthy cause.

SHORT SESSION OF THE CLUB.

The meeting of the Albany Commercial Club last night was a short and sweet one without much doing.

Present: Directors Rawlings, Lee, Bowersox, Fortmiller, French and Nutting, Treasurer Bain, Secretary Van Winkle, Vice-president McCune, Manager Struble and President Davis.

An application from the Albany College Student for the advertisement of the club at $4 a page was ordered placed on file.

In the matter of the communication of A. H. Hudson, of Gates, in reference to the shipment of green fruit to and through Albany, the response sent to Mr. Hudson was read, showing no cause for complaint now, Albany being $2 per ton over Salem.

The depot lake was discussed and $744 was reported collected since the last meeting. Messrs. Van Winkle, Hewitt and Struble each told a story and the club adjourned.

U. S. Jurymen.

The following Linn county men have been drawn for the next U. S. jury, which will try the famous Binger Hermann case.

Albany.—O. A. Archibald, of the First National Bank; P. D. Gilbert, the grocer; W. H. Hogan, capitalist; August Koenig, farmer R. F. D. Lebanon.—W. B. Donaca, farmer. Larwood.—J. M. Hessler, farmer. Waterloo.—L. A. Peebler, farmer.

G. W. McLean, of Klamath Falls, has been in the city today. Miss Emma Thrift, of Portland, is at the home of her father.

The store of D. S. McWilliams, of Halsey, was entered last night by burglars and some shoes and candy taken. The front door was pried open. Evidently the work of amateurs.

BURBANK'S DOINGS.

The address of Prof. Adrian, at the U. P. church last night on Luther Burbank and his work, with illustrations, was a very entertaining and instructive affair.

Burbank has created three new species only, the Royal berry, the Paradox walnut and the Plumocot.

He has crossed strawberries and apples, made potatoes and tomatoes grow on the same plant, one in the ground, the other on the vines, he has created a thornless blackberry, he has produced chestnuts in a year grown on trees from the seed, he can make trees grow so fast that they will be lumber producers in twelve years.

His great work has been in the cactus, from which he has taken the spines and made a splendid food both for man and animal, capable of producing 500 tons to the acre.

Black walnuts can only be raised well in thirty feet of sub soil. Plant eight or ten black walnuts, select the two best at end of a year, the best at the end of two years, in three years graft an English walnut, and in seven years from the seed there will be a paying orchard.

Burbank has patiently made hundreds of thousands of experiments just for a few successes, and the result is marvelous.

He was once offered $75,000 for some plants and refused it because they were not perfect. The Burbank cherry has sold in the east for $33 a box.

News from Albany's Six Early Trains.

The Brownsville train did not arrive, it being considered unsafe to pass the bridge at Brownsville, endangered by high water.

No. 16 did not arrive until 8:30 and No. 14 9:30, several hours late. The Detroit train was scheduled to go only to Mill City, a bridge or two being out above there and the track badly washed in places, making it unsafe to travel.

George Waggoner, the author and booster, pioneer miner, story teller and genial gentleman, came over from Corvallis, and after spending the forenoon at the Hub went to Lebanon on a business trip.

Mr. Louis Schoel went to Salem. Henry Winkley returned to Mill City.

Telegram:— J. C. Mayo, of Albany, local agent for the O. R. & N. Company at its Spokane terminal, spent Sunday with friends in Portland, after an extended stay at his ranch near Albany, where he hopes to take up his residence at an early date, as he expects to retire from railroading permanently. Mr. Mayo was for many years general freight and passenger agent for the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad and for the Corvallis & Eastern, both Hammond lines, and retired from those positions when Mr. Hammond sold his Oregon railroad properties.

A Pantage Show.

A company of Pantage artists at the opera house last night presented a live program that was greatly appreciated. It is full of laughs from beginning to end. The program offers a pleasing variety of talent, with nothing dry in it. Pantages are noted for the best vaudeville on the coast and always makes good.

Got Three Otters.

Charles Berry, formerly of the Warren Construction Co's force, now a Tangent trapper, has been in the city today, the streams being too high for his business. But he had already done business with the game, getting three large otters, worth at least $15 apiece, and several skunks.

Died at Halsey.

Solon Taylor, an old resident of Halsey, died there yesterday from internal injuries received from falling from a wagon while loading prunes some time ago. The wagon wheel passed over his head and face, breaking his lower jaw. He was a veteran of the civil war.

Born.

On Monday evening, Nov. 22, to Mr. and Mrs. Taucher, a 12 pound girl. All doing well.

THE WAETHER

These days is an important topic, in view of the influence it has on the doings of the rivers and creeks of the valley.

.40 inch more rain fell for the day previous to 8 a. m. Total for the month 9.14 inches.

The Willamette rose just two feet between 8 a. m. yesterday and 8 a. m. today, and another has been added during the day, 15 in all.

The indications are that the river at Albany will reach at least 28 feet tomorrow, perhaps more. Reports this noon from Eugene indicate pretty high water before the flood ends. It was 21 feet and rising, which means at least 28 feet here. Yesterday at 3 p. m. it was 17.6 feet, showing a very rapid rise.

At Harrisburg at 3 p. m. yesterday it was only 6.4 feet, this morning 14.3 feet and rising very fast.

So far the small streams are the ones that have raged and quite a good many small bridges have taken a tumble.

The weather has been like spring, the range all day yesterday and during last night being only 61-56.

The depot lake went down a few inches; but continues high enough for boats to run and to cause an immense amount of trouble.

A force of S. P. men this morning went to work around the depot to make a way of egress for the large body of water blocked in there.

The underpinning of a twenty foot bridge at Brownsville, is reported to have gone out.

The Shelburn bridge on the Woodburn road, was crippled last evening by one of the bents going out.

A peculiar thing is the fact that while the rainfall at this city was .40 the day at Eugene it was 1.34 inches, over three times as much.

The regular Detroit train is the other side of Mill City hemmed in. Superintendent Walsh and John Stevens have been up there today looking after things. The Santiam is a regular torrent. Logs and debris down stream travel far faster than a train of cars.

Eighty feet of the Jefferson wagon bridge is reported to have gone out last evening.

AD WIL-LAMETTAM

From the Cascade's frozen gorges, Leaping like a lion at play, Winding, widening through the valley Muddy Willamette came away. Onward ever, Angry river, Loudly calling to the sea.

This morning, after a rise of nearly fifteen feet in 24 hours, the Willamette at this city was 28 feet, since rising past the 30 foot mark, with prospects of reaching 31 feet in the "evening" when it will be due to begin falling. It began falling at Eugene yesterday afternoon and 33 hours is the time it takes the water to reach Albany, with an average of about 7 feet higher water here than there.

By the Willamette it is 20 miles from Eugene to Harrisburg, 20 1/2 from Harrisburg to Peoria, 12 1/2 from Peoria to Corvallis, and 12 1/2 from Corvallis to Albany, a total of 65 1/2 miles from Eugene to Albany on the winding Willamette. It is 34 miles to Salem, and 72 between Salem and Portland, 17 1/2 miles between Portland and Eugene.

The stage of water here required the removal of goods from the warehouses along the river, the Herald building being surrounded.

During the day the river has been the principal topic.

The water began falling at Corvallis at 12:30, and is due to start falling here about 4 o'clock at approximately 31 feet.

The rainfall for 24 hours was 1.02 inch, the total for the month 10.66 inches, the total since the present storm 5.14 inches in six days. Prediction: probably showers tonight and Thursday.

S. P. Williamson, of Oakville, lost a horse, 16 sheep and 20 pigs by the high water.

M. B. Craft had 58 sheep drowned by the high water.

The sixty cows of the Kuthe dairy, in Bryan's park this forenoon were all gotten above the water in the big barn. The cooling room of Holt's slaughter house went out this afternoon, a loss of $450.

Just now Wall Street runs the country.

Some people think we have had a great sufficiency of wet.

This has been a fierce year for foot ball, with thirty dead and several hundred injured.

Taft has been presented with a fifty pound pie. Wonder what they take him for anyway.

Sam Simpson wrote his poem Ad Willamettam, in the spring time, not during a winter flood.

If a girl has a right to kill the boy who goes back on her making love is a serious thing, and it ought to be.

Another load has been lifted from the mind of the public. Col. Hofer is not a candidate for collector of customs at Portland.

Instead of using power brooms Portland is taking to flushing the streets, then the stuff all goes off into the sewers and away.

I have found a place to have my eyes tested and glasses scientifically fitted. Albany Optical Co., 226 Broadalbin St.
