HARRISBURG.

Bulletin:
R. A. Githens has sold his 100 acre place near town to Robert Venake of Wisconsin for $50.00 per acre.

F. W. Blumberg is suffering an attack of lumbago. He has been confined to his home much of the time this week.
Since the flood has subsided it is learned that considerable damage resulted to property across the river. The Bennett hop yard was badly damaged, garden patches in many instances were bereft of all the ungathered product. It is said one can gather potatoes almost any old place.

Hartog's Nobody.

Another Nobody from Eugene is here, said to be the last that Booster Hartog will issue. There may be more Nodies, but there can never be a Nobody like the one with the little i's and the refreshing conceits, and the breezy suggestions, and the matchless individuality, none such anywhere else. Only just one Hartog in the world, the greatest hot air artist on the Pacific coast, a genius in the use of small words.

Here is just one:
So Albany is going to have a depot park, a la Eugene. And with a fountain, erected by the women. Tout come chez nous! And Salem is having plans drawn for a new Capitol park. And La Grande is making a fine park. And Roseburg and Ashland are considering depot parks. Well, well, isn't that great? Visitors from those towns imagine it makes us wince. Imitation is the sincerest flattery. "We lead, let others follow."

Where Did He Get It.

A farmer came to Albany today, got some booze and was drunk for the first time in four years. He broke things up some at Spire's stables and was taken charge of by John Catlin and two other men, and put in the calaboose after a hard struggle. A good fellow sober the liquor did what it generally does with men. This afternoon he was taken home, where he will be all right. Where did he get his liquor?

New York Commission Men

S. E. Comstock and J. M. Pitkin from the former town of the Fortmiller Bros., Newark, N. Y., have been in the city on commission business. S. E. Comstock & Co. is one of the largest commission houses in Western New York. Mr. Comstock was here just two years ago, after having been interested in the handling of the product of the Albany prune packer.

Funeral of John Brush.
