WALLA WALLA HAS $135,000 FIRE STARTED BY AN OIL STOVE.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Dec. 3.—Goods valued at $135,000 went up in smoke at the Motter-Wheeler department store this morning just as the clerks were arriving to open up a large "expansion sale." The fire quickly gutted the building, except one bank of shelves, and water completed the damage. Tonight 40 employees are out of work. While the fire department was suppressing the flames a number of the clerks stood amid the wreckage weeping. The insurance on the stock is estimated at $82,000 and messages have been sent for agents to come and adjust the loss. Tomorrow morning men will separate the damaged goods.

"I have been here 27 years," said Manager W. P. Hooper, "and this is my first fire. I have seen many fires but this is the worst I have ever saw. One thing that has been gratifying is the kindness of my competitors."

The fire started from an oil stove in the "ad" department in a balcony over the main floor, and successive explosions of gas are given as the cause of the spread.

The Albany Democrat says Linn county towns will pull together. But the way the Democrat claws at the Corvallis papers would indicate that Linn county doesn't approve of any outside help.—Harrisburg Bulletin. O.K. again!
