GOOD ROADS.

The illustrated talk of Maurice Eldridge, of the U. S. government service, at the threshermen's convention, last night was a very important number in the meritorious program of the week. Here are some pointers that deserve to be considered:

Goods materially enhance the value of the property of the farmer. The farmer can do more business ten miles from market on a good road than two miles away on a bad road.

It is a fact that there are better school houses and schools where there are good roads, and showed this. Oregon's basaltic rocks is the best for making good roads, and this state has the best material with one exception, that of New York state.

His illustrations of roads in different parts of the world were of a striking character and impressive.

A road built wrong is worse than not built at all.

Willful ignorance means mud holes. Permanent road building is as important to a state as railroads and the figures show it.

The plan of employing convict labor is a good one.

The plan of issuing bonds by the counties, under a constitutional amendment was approved by the speaker.

The Oregon campaign for good roads will bear fruit, the only systematic one started in any state, and great things may be looked for. All that is needed is the skill and knowledge, which the government is prepared to go to any expense to furnish.

Judge Webster then spoke for some time presenting the issuing of bonds as the great plan for securing first-class roads, making future generations pay for them. He announced that a Linn county branch of the State Good Roads Association will be organized here, and began at once to get names for it.

The Threshermen.

At the evening session of the Threshermen's convention last evening resolutions were passed thanking the Albany Commercial Club, the Alco Club, the newspapers, the threshermen's wives, and other ladies and the T. S. Townsend Creamery Co. of Portland for its splendid ice cream donated.

Upon motion of a machine man himself the annual dues of machine men for belonging to the Association were placed at $25.

La Grande was selected for the semi-annual convention Dec. 9-10.

The convention was a splendid success and Albany was favored in having it here.

Seats Selling Fast.

Seats went on sale this morning at Woodworth's Drug Store for the production of "The Mikado" to be given by the high school. There has been an unusual large demand for seats for both nights and it behooves those who are going to procure their tickets early. The finishing touches are being applied and the theatre-goers are guaranteed a fine performance by the youngsters.

Surrounded by fans, lanterns and caryatid figures the young people will present a delightful picture when the curtain goes up on Monday evening.

The Wireless Telephone.

Bert Warford, who is the local representative for the North American Wireless Corporation, will be pleased to show any one who is interested, what the wireless telephone has done and what it will do.

Dr. Lee De Forest, the chief engineer and inventor of the wireless telephone, will be in Portland, at their offices at 706-08 Board of Trade Building, and will lecture and give demonstrations with the long distance wireless telephone. All Albany people going down should be sure and see the wonderful invention.

At the Theater.

Notwithstanding many counter attractions there was a fair sized audience at the opera house last night to see Cousin Kate, those attending being well repaid. Miss Jeanne Russe! made a hit in the leading part, and her support was excellent. Tonight the Cowboy and the Squaw will be given a dramatic treat, deserving a good audience.

The Woodmen of the World will hold their annual decoration services tomorrow at 2 p. m. The procession will leave their hall at that time, and march to the cemetery where the graves of dead members will be decorated. The ladies of the Circle will also attend.
