THE FIRES.

A report from Brownsville this afternoon is that the Holley fire is well under control, and if the wind keeps down the prospect is good for no further spreading of it. The Albany boys had had not yet returned to Brownsville at 2:30 o'clock.

The Booth-Kelly Co. lost about $50,000 by the burning of Wendling. Twenty-six good cottages and 25 small cabins and shacks were destroyed, besides a 65 room lodging house, butcher shop, barber shop, small bridge, etc., and there was hardly a building or pile of lumber but what got scorched a little.

In Western Lane about a million feet of logs in one logging camp, and a number of dwelling houses were burned.

The Brownsville Times, whose editors was on the scene says: Representatives of the large timber holders are on the ground trying to organize a system of fighting the fire that will check it, but up to to-day have failed.
 The force of men available has been inadequate to cope with the situation, but men from Brownsville, Albany, Lebanon, Portland, Eugene and other places are being rushed to the scene as fast as possible and some organization is being effected which it is hoped will check the fire and soon stamp it out.
 In the foothills no less than a dozen farm homes have only escaped destruction by the heroic work of the fire fighters. Several narrow escapes from death from the flames and smoke have already taken place, but no casualties have occurred.

A Good One.

A remarkable biograph picture is the Child of the Ghetto, presented at Dreamland last night, and will be again tonight. The scene is laid in New York, and the story is as neat and interesting as one ever sees portrayed, ending the right way. The Hebrew section of the city is shown with great realism.

The girl who is acting the principal part in this story has won applause from many celebrated men. The story tells how a poor city girl wrongfully accused of theft flees to the country and the great kindness she receives at the simple farming peoples hands eventually restores her faith in the world.
 There is a strange throb of pathos all the way through this picture. The others are all good and the story is well rendered by Miss Neilson.

Suit Threatened.

A letter addressed to the Porter of the City Cemetery, was put in the box of the caretaker of the city cemetery; but it seems was intended for the city government. Complaint is made of a nuisance down near the Salem road and Oak Street so bad one has to hold one's nose. The writer closes: "This must be looked after at once or I will bring suit against the city." The same has been turned over to the city authorities who will no doubt get a hustle on and save trouble.

ATE AN OX

The barbecue at Lacombe yesterday in honor of C. W. Tebault, of this city, was a great success. A big crowd was present from the surrounding country.
 A fine ox was baked by Ed Kollenber-ger, of Lebanon, and every bone was loked clean, besides several hundred loaves of bread and other good things.
 The exercises were of an entertaining order, oratory galore prevailing. The Baptist minister presided, and among the other speakers were Mr. Tebault in whose honor the barbecue was held, due to his splendid development work for Lacombe, Judge Hewitt, E. L. Jones, Lawyer F. E. Van Tassel and Deputy County Clerk W. L. Marks, of this city, Lawyer Garland and Senator Miller of Lebanon, and others, short and pointed, general boosters.

From Albany there were three automobiles filed and another rig, and two automobiles from Lebanon.

Lacombe is a rich section, and the town a thriving center, with three stores, two churches, blacksmith shop, etc.
