A FIRE WILL BE GOOD

The Result of a School Building Site Contest

The Jones school house, near Milers was burned last night, together with its library and furniture. Everything went. It was an old building, in fair condition. It was undoubtedly incendiary, the fire started near the front door and worked back, not being discovered until too late to do anything. This is reported to be the result of a contest over the location of the building, and the demand for a new one by some of the residents of the district. At a recent meeting a majority voted to keep the school building at the present site. There is said to be considerable feeling over the matter, which will now have to be settled by the county superintendent's office. One thing is certain a new building will have to go up.

WILL BE GOOD

Since the National Opera Company appeared here several months ago, they have been joined by the adult Pollard Opera Company, that is several grown-up members of that famous Lilliputian Opera Company, and the announcement that they will present "The Mikako" at Albany on Wednesday, Sept. 7, ought to be sufficient to test the capacity of the opera house. In the history of musical organizations, none ever achieved a greater success than the Pollard Lilliputian Opera Company, and "The Mikako" was their bill.

MISFITS.

Albany is about big enough for a building permit record.

The grumbler always is vinegar to himself and everybody else.

The young man who cultivates bad habits reaps misery in the end.

The wages of sin always remain about the same around Albany.

Chicago has to have some kind of scandal all the time. Now it is $200,000 stolen from some widows.

People are becoming very sane. There were only 131 4th of July fatalities in the U. S. this year.

Look at Dayton, Wash., out of 656 qualified voters in town 620 have registered. That's an example for Linn county voters.

The Portland papers have not yet learned that a successful fair has been held at Scio this week. Perhaps by Christmas they will get it.

The riding of motor cycles should undoubtedly be stopped on the sidewalks. Several complaints have been made to the Democrat office about them.

Because the Democrat referred to the mention by a republican correspondent of a Portland paper, of Barney Martin as a candidate for a representative on the democratic ticket, as a joke, several republican papers have had a serious case of measles.
