HAWLEY'S FAITHFUL SERVICE.

From the Mail-Tribune:—Congressman Hawley was elected through the direct primary law, yet he is opposed to the law which elected him and is the assembly candidate.

Mr. Hawley prints a list of the accomplishments of the Oregon delegation, insinuating that the results were his individual accomplishments, instead of those of the entire delegation, which was also elected by the direct primary.

Were Mr. Hawley's own accomplishments so small that he has to swell the list by adding those of the despised Statement No. 1 senators?

But why should Mr. Hawley crow so loudly over what "I have accomplished?" Isn't he supposed to deliver some goods for his $7500 a year and mileage?

Why does not Mr. Hawley add to the list his other accomplishments? Why does he not enumerate the number of times he came to the rescue of Uncle Joe Cannon in his battle with the insurgents?

Why does not Mr. Hawley enumerate how he stood in with the "gang" and voted for every measure advocated by the Aldrich crowd?

Why does Mr. Hawley not tell why he voted for the Payne-Aldrich tariff, which taxes poverty to swell the coffers of the rich?

Why does Mr. Hawley not explain why he voted the lead trust a protective duty of $42.50 on pig lead, when the cost of smelting a ton of lead ore is only eight dollars?

Why does Mr. Hawley not explain why he voted the Guggenheim smelter trust a protective duty of $42.50 a ton on pig copper, when the cost of smelting copper is no greater than in other countries?

Why does not Mr. Hawley explain why he voted Aldrich's rubber trust such an increase of tariff that it is enabled to sell a $10 rubber coat for $20, and declare millions in dividends on watered stock?

Why did Mr. Hawley vote to double the duties on structural steel, so that the steel trust can further hold up builders?

Why did Mr. Hawley vote for higher tariffs on nearly all articles of general use in finished condition, so that the general public would be mulcted for the benefit of the trusts?

If Mr. Hawley has not faithfully served the "interests," no one ever did. Hence Mr. Hawley's campaign cry of "no interests to serve but the public interests" becomes simply campaign clap-trap, to fool the people.

BACK TO THE PEOPLE.

The great fight now on is to bring the government back to the people, call it whatever you please, and name whoever you wish as the ones at the head of it and in favor of it. It is a great movement of the people and for them, and it is widespread, not just in one section, but from end to end of the country. Maine showed her hand first and showed it big. Others have been following and tomorrow Oregon will have a chance to speak out, and Oregon will do it. This state has been a leader in progressive thought, and it is not going to be behind the times now. Reports from all over the state are strong that the sentiment is universal against the assembly movement, because the fact is apparent that the move is one of the bosses to undermine the will of the people. The whole object is to kill off the direct primary and Oregon's method for electing a U. S. senator by the people, regardless of the old method, which has filled the U. S. senate with a lot of plutocrats. The people know this and they are going to speak on primary day or else reports carry no weight. And it is time. We have had enough of Cannonism and its allies. Oregon should do its part in relegating the infamous methods of the past, and one way will be to ask Mr. Hawley, a follower of Cannon, to remain at home. Another way will be to ask the stand-pat assembly men to keep out of office.

Whenever several democrats meet to agree upon candidates to fill the vacancies, something necessary where not filled in the regular order, the assembly people howl themselves hoarse telling about how the democrats have also been holding an assembly, and want to know what is the difference between a big assembly and a small one. The matter, though, requires no explanation among reasonable people.

Democratic voters through the state will write in the name of B. Horner, of the O. A. C., for state school superintendent. He is one of the most prominent educators in the valley, and should be nominated would make a live run for the place against the assembly nominee.

Will Try Dr. Foster.

Riley Lobaugh has made arrangements to go to Corvallis in a week or two and take special chiropractic treatment of Dr. Foster of that city. This will take him some time. In view of the move he has disposed of the Saturday Evening Post and Ladies Home Journal business here to Stanley Van Winkle who will take charge of it upon his leaving. Riley has made a host of friends, who will hope for his improvement.

SATURDAY NIGHT THOUGHTS.

This week after completing his rest Roosevelt was again in the harness doing things in New York state in an effort to become chairman of a coming convention, in a fight against Sherman for the position. It looks now as if he will route the old guard and leave nothing of it but a bunch of has-beens, but that is to be seen. It is a great fight and an interesting one, because a national one in its character, affecting, affecting the affairs of the entire country. It seems impossible for the Democrat not to mention Roosevelt in some way when Saturday night comes around, if it refers to the principal doings of the week.

This week in Oregon has seen the end of a great primary election fight. It was different from anything else ever had here because introducing a new element in it, a slate set of candidates, presented by a so-called assembly of delegates, declared by opponents of it to be for the purpose of killing the direct primary law completely. Therefore it has been a warm one. Under the primary system there are two warm contests, one in the parties themselves, the other between the different parties. The system is a great thing, because it means what is needed, a purging of the parties themselves, the breaking up of the old whip-lash system of swallowing everything.

The fall opening season has come, when people look to new things in styles, putting off the togery of the summer for the things of fall and winter. Shakespeare said that one might as well be out of the world as out of style, and people have ever since swallowed it whole. It is not true at all. Some remarkably happy and contented people pay little attention to fashion. Nevertheless it is something that always has been made much of, and properly always will be; but people are very foolish to worship it to the detriment of their character. Men and women should dress well and in keeping with the times, but should be slaves to nothing.

A man's religion is not very deep if it does not go into his daily life.

In politics, as in everything else, nam calling is almost universally back-acting.

The candidate has a smile for everybody. Men and women should always be candidates for public favor.

Murder will out in almost everything underhanded in life.

The public schools are again running, and the student does well who makes his studies a business, for he is working for life.

(FRIDAY.)

AN HOUR IN CORVALLIS.

After a 31 minute joy ride, with a merchant, lawyer, banker and minister, in a Packard, as smooth running as oil, past rich farms, neat orchards, many places that have changed hands numerously, to their advantage, past myriads of Hazelwood arrow heads, along fairly good roads and over a slow-running antiquated ferry-boat, on the sweet-scented river made famous by Sam Simpson, the Man about Town last night spent sixty minutes in the O. A. C. town of Corvallis, which the farmers, aided by several Johnson families and Editor Moore, have made to grow like a green bay tree.

No peanut shucks were seen strewn along the streets, but some of them were torn up to flinders by a gang of warrents, putting down 32 feet of bitulathic between enormous 24 foot weed covered curbs, that some day no doubt will be green as grass. There are many new houses and College Hill reaching far out, but in the enlarged city limits, shines gloriously. The new Harding block, to be occupied by Nolan, is completed and it promises to make a modern store, needed in the college city.

The Democrat man in September 1880, just thirty years ago, spent his first three weeks in the Willamette valley in Corvallis, sleeping in the old Johnson Porter house, near the present court house, and associating with such celebrities as Judge McFadden, Wils. Raburn, Judge Kelsay and old Tom Read, who objected to bled shirts, and has always had a warm place for the town since.

A new building of decided credit to the city is the Presbyterian church, with its red Newberg pressed brick, ancient English architecture and splendid arrangement. A new $6,000 pipe organ, of the Kimball make, will be a booster for the entire city. The acoustics of the building are perfect, a great thing for it, for sitting at the very rear of the gallery one can hear distinctly a low voice. The crowd appreciated the courtesies of Dr. Bell in seeing the modern structure.

Great is pavement in changing a village to a city; but Corvallis should have another boost at any cost, a bridge in place of that ferry boat.

Mr. Kay State Treasury Candidate

Hon. T. B. Kay, candidate for state treasurer, was in the city this afternoon. He was raised in this county, son of Thos. Kay, who ran the Brownsville section mills for twenty years. Mr. Kay has been a member of the Oregon legislature for the past eight years, where he made a record in the interest of the tax payers, well known by Linn county people. He was the author of the flat salary bill, which saves the state over $35,000 annually, actively supported the incorporation tax law and inheritance tax law, which brings in an annual revenue of over $200,000 a year to the state treasury. Mr. Kay has had a wide experience in public and business life, that particularly qualifies him for the position.

NEW RATES ON THE S. P.

Salem, Ore., Sept. 22.—Railroad Commissioner Oswald West announces today the preparation of an order by the railway commission reducing all class rates on the Southern Pacific. The average reduction is 15 per cent between Portland and points in the Willamette valley, both on the main and branch lines of the Southern Pacific company. Water competition between Albany, Corvallis and Salem and Portland has had its effect in keeping freight rates reduced to a minimum, and rates between Portland are not affected to the same extent as those to Eugene, Medford, Cottage Ashland, Grants Pass, and other points further south. The investigation that has been conducted the past summer by the commission also shows that the rates on the west side divisions have been quite fair and reasonable. The reductions for the most part also affect mostly those classes designated in railroad tariffs as 3, 4, 5, A and B.

Between Eugene and Portland the reduction in class B is from 25 to 18 cents; between Eugene and Portland, from 30 to 20 cents; between Glendale and Portland, from 45 to 35 cents; between Medford and Portland, from 55 to 47 cents.

The order is sweeping in its provisions and is of great importance to shippers of the Willamette valley. Unless contested in the courts it will go into effect by October at the latest.

The Holley Trip.

Wednesday, September 28th, has been fixed as the date for the Commercial Club Automobile Excursion to the Southeastern section of Linn county. This was determined at a meeting of the committee of arrangements, held in the Commercial Club rooms yesterday afternoon.

A letter received from R. R. McKinney, of Holley, gives the information that he and his neighbors of that thriving community will be prepared to entertain at luncheon at the noon hour all who may accompany the Albany excursion.

It is planned to enlist as many owners of automobiles as possible to take part in the proposed excursion. In order to defray the expenses incidental to such a trip, it has been decided to levy uniform charge of $2.50 for each excursionist, which will cover the automobile fare.

Following is the itinerary: Leave Albany 7:30, Tangent 8:00, Shedd 8:30, Halsey 9:15, Norwille 10:40, Crawfordville 11:10, arriving at Holley at 11:45 for dinner. Leave Holley 1:30, Sweet Home 2:25, Waterloo 3:55, Sodaville 4:40, Lebanon 7:00, arriving at Albany at 8 p. m. stopping at each place from 10 to 30 minutes. C. C. Chapman, of the Portland Commercial Club is to be in the trip. Those intending to go should register at once. Short speeches will be arranged for between towns.

P. P. Maddox, W. L. Keyser, N. Yakima.

Fanning Orated.

M. J. Fanning, the Irish orator spoke at the Baptist church last night to an audience that appreciated something to the point on the temperance question. Mr. Fanning has been speaking so long and so well the arguments flow from his lips like water down a mountain stream, a mass of unanswerable statements. But they are familiar to all, and everybody knows it is the right side of the question, whatever they may say.

The Lottery Man.

Rida Johnson Young's captivating comedy "The Lottery Man," which has just finished a long engagement at the Bijou Theatre, New York, will be the capital offering, the first of the Shubert attractions, Sept. 30, when the Messrs. Shubert will bring their latest success to this city for the first time. The players include William Russell, Vivian Ogden, May Donahue, Florence Robertson, George Roberts, Lucia Moore, and others.

SATURDAY.

Edwin Allen picked up a bank book belonging to G. E. Goltra, Parsons, Kansas, on the street.

The Weather.

Range of temperature 76-50. The river is 1 1/2 feet. Prediction: fair tonight and Saturday.

S. N. Steele was in town last night, Guy Lewelling, of Salem, was in town last evening.

Dr. R. A. Pratt and wife, of Mill City, were Albany visitors last evening. W. H. Michael, of the O. R. N., Portland, is visiting his brother, Agent Michael.

Miss Smith arrived last night and Miss Anderson will come tonight, for their college work.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blumberg, went to Portland this afternoon on a buying trip for May & Son's store. Miss Christine B. Anderson, of the Albany Narcotics went to Salem this afternoon to visit with Miss Myers.

ST. MARY'S HOSPITAL.

The Sisters of Mercy of the St. Mary's Hospital of this city, take this opportunity of thanking the public for their generous contribution toward the installation of the new steam heating plant, which we expect to have in working order the first of the week and which was badly needed for the past few years. This plant is being installed by the Kendall Heating Co., of Portland, at a cost to us of $275.75, and as these figures are somewhat large, we found it necessary to call upon our good friends of Albany, most of whom responded most generously, while many others refused, making the remark "that they never had, and would probably never need hospital care."

We canvassed the entire city and realized the neat little sum of $275.75, and while this did not come up to our expectations, we greatly appreciate the good will of those who so kindly donated. It seems incredulous to believe that many of those who were called upon, were not aware of the fact that Albany could boast of a first class Hospital, under which circumstances, we feel it would not be amiss, at this time, to advise the public, that we are here, and ready at all times to give the very best of care and attention to those who may need it.

Should any of those who were absent from home when we called, desire to help us, we will not be at all offended should they leave their offering at the hospital. THE SISTERS.

WITHDRAWN.

Last evening E. L. Jones, candidate for representative on the republican ticket, formally authorized County Clerk Miller to withdraw his name from the ballot in the primary election.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones went to Portland last night to reside, Mr. Jones having accepted a position with the Empire Real Estate Co. The Democrat is not informed whether he will complete the Linn County History, or not. In order to resign it was necessary for him to have moved away.

WON'T ENTER PASTORATE.

Following are extracts from a letter written by Wallace R. Struble to Rev. W. S. Gordon, at the Methodist Conference, Hillsboro:

For two chief reasons I have decided to reconsider my decision to ask for pastoral work at the hands of the Oregon conference this year:

1st—I find myself in a condition bordering on nervous prostration superinduced by long-continued insomnia from worries of one sort or another. This unfit me for the strain of general pastoral work and would handicap my efforts in the pulpit.

2nd—A calm survey of my financial condition convinces me that I am too much embarrassed by debt to permit of my undertaking to hold a pastorate in peace; creditors most certainly would annoy me and my people.

It is my conclusion, therefore, that I will not appear at conference this year as a candidate for a pastorate, but will devote my energies to careful work at real estate selling, with the purpose and hope of making sufficient money within a reasonable time to clear me up financially, after which I feel that I can act without the restraints above mentioned.

News from Albany's Six Early Trains.

Misses Edna and Mamie McKnight left for Jefferson, where they will teach the coming year, Miss Edna, who was with the school last year, in the high school and Miss Mamie the third and fourth grades. It is said that Jefferson has the best high school in the state for the size of the place, the full four year course, a preparation for any of the big colleges.

County Clerk Victor Moses, of Corvallis, returned from Medford, where he spent three days in the midst of about as much life as one ever strikes in a small city. Outside of Portland it is said Medford is now the liveliest place in Oregon.

Miss Minnie Merrill went to Portland. Miss Emma Sox left for Portland, where she will play in an East Side church, and may accept a permanent engagement, going down Saturdays. Mr. Archambault, the Warren superintendent, returned from Corvallis. Ed. Holloway, now a Portland man, returned from Brownsville.

Henry Eby left for Lacombe, where he will teach this winter.

Little Herbert Erickson, son of Mrs. G. W. Kuthe, left alone for Woodland, Wash., where he is residing with his grandmother.

Jack Lingren came down from Lebanon. George McCurt, the retired farmer, arrived from Plainview.

Joe Webber left again, this time for Portland, to vote for Bowerman and other assemblies.

Prof. Hargrave returned from his Lebanon trip. E. C. Roberts returned from a Corvallis trip and went to Lebanon.

Dr. Lewenax returned from her regular Corvallis trip. She has a big practice there, a very busy osteopath.

Scott Hart went to Corvallis this afternoon to reenter the O. A. C. civil engineering department.

Mrs. George Fuch and daughter Verdis, of Brownsville are visiting Grant Firth and family.

Dr. C. A. Condit, Mrs. S. A. Van Horn, formerly of this city, Miss Ethel Craven and Henry Schiller, were a party of prominent Portland people in the city last night.

MISFITS.

If the Oregonian boasts it look out. Some people are easy, and there are others.

The apple men must keep everlastingly at it.

The foot ball has been gotten out and is girating.

In Colorado too the insurgents have gone to the front.

It is up to the Willamette Valley to be a real fruit section.

In the matter of fashion Albany asks no odds of any of the cities of Oregon.

Gaynor for president, sounds good; but there is also Folk, which likewise sounds good.

Over a hundred cars of prunes this year from Albany will help to make Albany a prune town.

The flies are more horribiliferous these days, driven in from the streets, than during hot weather.

Teddy is showing the New Yorkers some pointers. The stand patters are falling like chaff from a thresher.

Roseburg is afflicted with blind pigs, while the officials, elected to enforce the laws of the city and state, sleep.

There is so much shoddy around One is absolutely bound To become color blind.

Roosevelt is whacking Sherman and the old guard in New York with a vengeance. Teddy gets the lion every time, sometimes.

A Clackamas county woman had $7 in ten years, 70 cents a year, one-fifth of a cent a day. Some marriages are not successes.

The Democrat is informed that the apple fair committee has nothing to do with a Gazette being gotten out as an apple fair gazette.

Former Albany people coming back here for a visit all express surprise at Albany's improvement. The change for better is striking.

Democrats will do well to write in the name of R. G. Smith for congressman of this district. He is an able man and one of the most popular men in Southern Oregon.

Animal husbandry is a new department at the O. A. C. The O. A. C. will have to hunt to find any more departments; but something will occur. It is getting there from cows to men.

A former O. A. C. foot ball star, now in Idaho, has fallen dead in love with a girl up there, but she hates foot ball, and the O. A. C. foot ball fend is wondering what can be done to fix things.

According to the Oregonian most of the republican voters down in Portland are democrats in disguise; but the paper has never named a single democrat who has registered as a republican. It just barks.

From Senator LaFollett to C. J. Reed, insistent candidate for congress: "Every vote is vital in this great struggle to bring government back to the people. I am deeply interested in your success and confident that no man will win who favors any assembly or convention device to break down the Oregon primary."

Miss Mable Williamson, formerly of the Albany school, is teaching at Peoria this fall and winter, and Miss Mattie Swan, another Albany teacher, at Crawfordville, both residing with their folks.

A very striking moving picture is the Unexpected Reward at the Empire. It introduces a bathing scene, and the rescue of a young lady, while her lover hangs back in a cowardly way, with some acting that is superior. It is an Edison and a good one. Another one is the story of Dora Thorne, a pretty one, and there is a fine biograph and a flying machine comedy full of laughs, about as entertaining a program as one sees.

Mrs. Henry Karstens and children desire to express their thanks to their many friends for kindness and sympathy during the illness and after the death of their husband and father.

Want a Fruit Inspector.

Every fruit grower of Linn county should sign the petition at the Albany Commercial club rooms for the appointment of a competent fruit inspector for Linn county. The proper inspection of fruit and fruit trees is one of the important features of successful commercial orcharding. The new organization is pushing for the appointment of a fruit inspector.

John G. Crown of Junction City, writes to the Albany Fruit Association that he has about 800 to 1000 boxes of fine apples for sale, including Kings, Spitzenbergs, Baldwins, Jonathans, Green Mountain, etc.

THE PACIFIC MONTHLY'S SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER
