SATURDAY NIGHT THOUGHTS.

This week saw the great political victory for Roosevelt and insurgency in New York state, one in the face of odds. Probably no other man could have correlled things the way Roosevelt did. Verily man is an odd creature.

In Oregon there was also an insurgent victory. The entire vote of the state shows a decided anti-assembly vote 39 to 12. Prominent assembly work 30 to 12. Prominent ass do as he pleases.

What a careless old world this is.
An Oregon woman down in San Francisco this week gave $2500 worth of diamonds in charge of a strange hotel clerk without any receipt, and they disappeared of course, not strange when the character of the place is

Among other questions that will come up this year will be the matter of local option and prohibition of the liquor traffic, about which there is a good deal of talk. There is nothing more important, and people do well to study it closely in the interest of the home and a better manhood and womanhood. The people should see that Albany is saved from the disgrace of any more saloon rule.

One does well not to be a slave to any kind of appetite or fashion, de-

One does well not to be a slave to any kind of appetite or fashion, de-structive of character and health. There is no more sense in a muddy life than in drinking muddy water. Why be contaminated?

Albny has been generally commended for its reliable way of boosting its interests, without the circus style of so many places. It has been the aim to make Albany go ahead on its mer-its, without a boom, steadily and per-sistently, in keeping with itstenviron-ments. This fact has attracted the attention of many coming here and is something that is appreciated.

STANDING OF ALBANY COLEGE

Scattle, Sept. 26.—In your paper just come to my desk, I notice a stafement about the standing of Albany College, relative to the standing of your State University. Your answer was correct, Albany College stands on a par with other regular colleges in its curriculum. This has been proven time and again in the past fitteen years. Students going from Albany College to other colleges and universities have been given the same standing they had, or would have bad, in Albany College. The State University of Washington accepted one young lady five years ago in full standing where she would have been, if she had stayed at Albany College, and she went right on to graduation in the Washington University. This was true of another Albany student, who went to Eugene, and this has been true of those who have gone east, and entered Yale and Princeton. The citizens of Albany do not need to feel one bit ashamed of their college. Its curricullum was not fashioned to fit Eugene University, or any one other college or university, but was shaped on a college standard, one set by the Presbyterian church, based on the best colleges in the land. The young people of Albany will do well to patronize their own institution. They will get the same instruction, and learn as much in Albany College as anywhere in the state. Albany College is a college of recognized standing, and one that Albany may well be proud of.

Yours cordially, WALLACE H. LEE.

Diamonds Stolen

A dispatch from San Francisco tells of Mrs. Al Day, of Portland, wife of a former Aibany boy, now of the Jewel Restaurant, Portland, while a guest at the Hotel Dale, reporting the loss of $2500 worth of diamonds, left in the safe of the hotel. The clerk denied that the jewels were given into his possesion, while Mrs. Day says she had three witnesses present when it was done, and it is known she had the jewels. The clerk is said to have been spending money freely in a gambing den, and there is said to be no question but what they were deposited as stated.

ORIGINAL CAPT. JACK.

Capt. Jack Crawford, perhaps the most unique lecturer in the U. S., opened the college lecture course last night before a good sized audience, whom he kept wide awake for nearly two hours, an oddity in his long hair, pe culiar suit and original expressions. He told of his life as a scoot and gave some of his own poems, that have attracted wide attention. With it all there was a temperance address of a striking character. Promising his mother he would never drink he never has though several times ordered to at the mouth of a six shooter.

Capt. Jack was in the Klondike mines about ten years ago for three years, with E. Jack was in the results.

Capt. Jack was in the Klondike mines about ten years ago for three years, with F. J. Fletcher of this city, and referred to his experiences there in a pleasant way, while here being the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher. Rather than make a fortune through rascality he sold ice cream and baled hay over the same counter.

"The two greatest men today." he said, "are Teddy Rooseveit and William J. Bryan, so near together they are not far apart, but Teddy, though believing the same, does not have the bravery to take Bryan's stand on the temperance question."

Capt. Jack Crawford Tonight.

Tonight at the U. P. church the people of Albany will have the great privilege of hearing the celebrated Capt. Jack Crawford, poet scout and soldier, one of the best entertainers in the United States. The city now has the park movement going. The people of Albany will vote yes. It should have Hackleman's grove, and it should have five acres of Bryant's Park for local uses.
