THIS MORNING A YEAR OF PROGRESS.

News From Albany's Six Early Trains.

A crowd of about a hundred O. A. C. students, came over on their way to their homes for a holiday vacation, which speaks for the festivities ahead at home, and slack, some smack, perhaps.

President Kerr also came over, and Prof. A. C. Schmitt returned from a visit with him. J. T. Apperson, a member of the board of regents and on some important committees was another traveler returning to his home from Corvallis.

J. F. Yates, one of the busiest lawyers in the valley, and Gus Fisher, went to Portland on a business trip.

E. T. Price, of Portland, formerly of this city, in the real estate business, with timber lands as a specialty, bought a ticket for Canby on his way home.

Miss Reed came down from Lebanon.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter Good.

Perry Carter and wife, at the U. P. church last night in the college course, proved entertainers of merit, delightful people in their specialties. Mr. Carter draws as easily as an electric motor, making transformations full of interest. Some of his subjects were base ball faces, a double face, a colored painting of a boy at school, change in the size of women's hats, the story of Lochinvar, a congressman, a Frenchman, John Bull, the transformation of an eagle into Uncle Sam; Taft, Roosevelt, Dr. Franklin of the college and a fisherman.

Mrs. Carter has a very sweet voice and sang the simple little ballads we all like so well with pleasing effect.

The next number will be the Grand Opera Sextette, Feb. 6 an expensive one and a big thing in a musical way.

Some People in Town.

Frank List was on the Hotel Revere list; Mrs. J. L. McCoy of W. A. Walla; General J. A. Waddle, C. R. Peake and wife, Portland; L. Bronstein, Salem, formerly of this city; J. C. Biggee, Eugene; G. W. Duncan, Monmouth; Fred A. Edwards, Portland, once a star foot ball quarterback, now making touch-downs as a drummer; John Giblin of the O'Brien farm, Salem; Leonard Walker of Monroe; L. A. Miller, McMinnville; J. B. Cornett, Shedd.

Business Change.

Geo. E. Nicholls, the baker, has sold his business to Ernest & Douglas, recently of Aberdeen, South Dakota, and they will here after run it. Mr. Nicholls will remain for a while, though, and do the baking. They are former neighbors of Wm. Bain and are highly spoken of. Albany appreciates several splendid citizens from that part of the U. S.

Nervous symptoms and headache are often caused by eye strain, which will be overcome by properly fitted spectacles. The Guarantee Optical Co. guarantees you a perfect fit. See our stock of frames and eye-glasses at Dawson's Drug Store

TO-NIGHT

The Broken Idol.

After a two years run in Chicago, New York and Boston, "A Broken Idol" one of the latest of musical comedies will be seen at the opera house tonight. The piece has been termed the "play of surprises" in as much as the unexpected happens every few minutes.

Hal Stephens wrote the book and Williams and Van Alstyne, the music and lyrics. Among the spectacular effects introduced are a huge dragon that turns into eight dancing girls, beautiful rose vases that become animated show girls and a huge fiery silk balloon that sails out over the audience. A company of sixty is carried.

On account of this being the holiday the curtain will not ring up until 9 o'clock.

At Woodworth's.

Tonight from 6 to 9 o'clock Woodworth's Drug Store will inaugurate their annual holiday clearance sale, by special request the Broken Idol Show not being until 9 o'clock. Rare bargains will be offered. Packages may be left until after the show and called for them.

See the new polished top Present Range at $45.00 at Hubert-Ohling Hardware Co's. Peters shells "Get the Meat." For sale at Hubert-Ohling Hdw. Co's.
