SATURDAY NIGHT' THOUGHTS.

Dr. Cook, the explorer, returned to the United States this week, attracting some attention. Upon his return from a trip up towards the north pole the Dr. told a beautiful story about reaching the pole and the sensation of the event, and many people believed it; but later it proved to have been a falsehood. The Dr. never reached the pole; but before the fact was discovered he had made a small fortune through the notoriety. To counterbalance it he lost his reputation, and when the fact came out sneaked away from the country. Falsehood will out, and a man is very foolish to try to fool the people by it. He should have the character to rise above the temptation.

Trickery in any business is a poor investment. It won't pay from any standpoint, even though men do go inspunished for it. The business man who makes it is the one who steadily goes ahead along straightforward lines, dealing honestly with all men, paying as he goes. It doesn't take much to blemish one's reputation.

This is Christmas eve., a time long looked forward to by the people of the world, the best of all holiday events, most people think, because it is universal and celebrates the most important of all events. It presents an era of unselfishness, when the saying of Christ that it is more blessed to give than to receive is put into actual practice and people everywhere observe it. Some may do it from a spirit of reciprocity, but the most of it is done in love and fellowship. We do well to make much of the event.

There have been several big catastrophies this week, many being killed suddenly, suggestive of the uncertainty of life, sometimes hanging by a thread.

The Democrat doesn't know anything about this Free Lance, but the chances are that it is kept up by saloon ads and patronage. The fact is the prohibitionist was about the first thing made. God himself is a prohibitionist. The ten commandments are mostly prohibition, thou shall have no other gods before thee, thou shall not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain, thou shall not lift thou shall not lift thou shall not lift thou shall not lift. vain, thou shalt not kill, thou shalt not steal, thou shalt not bear false witness, thou shalt not cover, thou shalt not countri adultery. Most laws are prohibition laws, and the good citizen has to be a prohibitionist of some kind. He does well if he is a prohibitionist of the liquor traffic, one of the worst evils of the age, at the bottom of most of the erime and misery of the world. It is not very material to the man who does what he believes to be right what he is called by the Free Lance or anything else or anybody else. If the fool killer were really to go around over the country it would be interesting to see the fellows he would really strike, and ten to one the prohibition lists would stand a better chance that he fellows who spend their time taking whacks at them with printers' ink. ing whacks at them with printers' ink.

A GOOD WAY TO LEARN ABOUT A COUNTRY.

The following advertisement appears in the Eugenle Register:
PARTIES FROM THE EAST—
Who have lived one year or longer in the Willamette Valley will please write me how you like it. C. F. Andrews, Cloquet, Minn.
This is certainly a practical and upto-date way in which to get the truth about this country, for the probability is that those who answer it will tell the truth and give the facts. On the face of it the man does not wish to trust any interested people, such as real estate men and paid boosters, but he goes straight to the fountain head, the people, through the proper channel, the newspaper, for the information he has a right to receive. He is probably a man who cannot afford an experimental trip out here, and so takes this ingenius way to receive the information he desires. As most of the people here are warm boosters of this Oregon country, it will probably be favorable and of a very encouraging order, for there are certainly more good points for the Willamette Valley than almost any place in the world. At the same time there will be those who will take advantage of the opportunity to do a little knocking, as all people, it will never will be anywhere.

THE FARMER,

The O. A. C., Says a Linn County Farmer.

Corvallis, Dec 21—I have been farming in Linn county since 1854 and have been patronizing the Oregon Agricultural college for the last forty-three years. I sent my children, then my grandchildren,—from the first president to President Kerr; and would now be patronizing the College under President Kerr, but I have run out of grandchildren. However, I attend the farmer's short course every year, because I find it very helpful to me, for the reason that the scientific experiments made at government expense save me as much time, money and labor In fact, the College does these things for us gratis, if we will but go and look on and learn a little every year.

At the present we are milking five cows, on my farm, that bring us $45 per month on modern methods, and at the same time rebuilding my farm land. Also am raising chickens, turkeys, guineas, pigs and hay with better results than ever before. This has been made easy and more profitable to me because of the information I obtained at the farmer's short course; hence I earnestly recommend the course to all the farmers who can attend. I know it will justify every farmer in dollars and cents to attend if he can get away from the farm for a few days between January 3rd and the 10th of the following February. I shall be happy to correspond with any of my old neighbors regarding this course, for I feel that all can do much to advance agriculture in Linn county by familiarizing themselves with the latest and best methods in our chosen industry.
